Labor Bill Is Reported Out Without Amendment

Democrats Act At Truman Request As Republicans Protest Angrily

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Democratic majority of the Senate Labor Committee, responding to a direct request of President Truman, yesterday reported out the Administration's Thomas labor relations bill without amendments.

Angry protests and demands for consideration of amendments made by the five Republican members of the committee were turned aside or ignored by the Democratic majority of eight.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), senior member and coauthor of the Taft-Hartley Act—which the Thomas bill would repeal—charged the committee's voting procedure was "the most highhanded action" he had ever seen in the Senate.

To this comment, Senator Elbert Thomas (D., Utah), committee chairman, retorted: "If the methods were highhanded, they were necessary methods." The Democrats were simply tired of debating the issue "until doomsday, while the country is waiting for action," Thomas declared.

Senator Taft and Senator Morse (R., Ore.) each tried to introduce an amendment to the Thomas bill but were ruled out of order by the chairman on a "technicality." Each had approximately 20 amendments to offer, restoring in large measure provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Provisions of Bill

The Thomas Bill contains the following provisions:

1. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, which was passed in 1947 by the Republican-dominated Eightieth Congress to replace the New Deal's Wagner Act.
2. Restoration of the Wagner Act, with "improvements."
3. Prohibition of jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts arising out of jurisdictional disputes.
4. A voluntary procedure for dealing with strikes which would endanger the national health or safety. The President would declare an emergency, and ask for a

Sales Tax Bill To Cover Rooms For Tourists

A decision has been made by Capitol subcommittees to apply the proposed 2 per cent sales tax here to hotel rooms for transients and other tourist rooms, it was learned yesterday.

The subcommittees in charge of the sales tax legislation were reported to have discussed a 5 per cent tax on transient accommodations, and then accepted instead the idea of the 2 per cent levy.

The sales tax bill, worked out in closed meetings of the House and Senate District fiscal affairs subcommittees, was turned over to Corporation Counsel Vernon West to be drafted for introduction in Congress.

Dixie Forces Show Gains

Senate Will Be Put on Record In Cloture Fight, Lucas Says

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Southern Democrats last night claimed the upper hand in their fight to save the filibuster but Senate Administration leaders said the battle isn't over.

Spiking Dixie rumors that the Administration may call off any showdown on rules change, Senate Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas (Ill.) told newsmen he will put the Senate on record, "win or lose."

Lucas, meanwhile, disclosed that 25 Democrats sympathetic to the rules change will meet this morning on antifilibuster strategy. He said the meeting was called by Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Southern confidence mounted as President Truman's statement that he favored simple majority cloture, as against the two-thirds debate shut-off now pending, added fuel to the filibuster fire.

Senator J. William Fulbright (D. Ark.), lone Southerner to take the floor yesterday, told the Senate Mr. Truman's statement, plus a call for majority cloture by the CIO, gained votes for the Dixie opposition.

Fulbright told Lucas he wouldn't "dare" bring a cloture motion to a vote if Senators favoring the change remained on the floor and listened to Southern arguments for a week.

A poll by the Associated Press meanwhile confirmed coalition claims of added strength against the rules change.

Forty-three Senators—24 Democrats and 19 Republicans—told the Associated Press they would vote "No" if Vice President Alben W. Barkley rules the cloture petition in order. Nineteen Senators—16 Democrats and 3 Republicans—said they would vote "Yes."

The fifth day of the talkathon found Lucas tangling with Republican as well as Democratic leaders.

Senate Minority Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) accused the Democratic leader of "phony" efforts to end the filibuster. He said the Senate has been kept in session only from noon to 6 p. m. every day instead of into the night.

Lucas retorted: "It may be phony from his viewpoint—I think it's been phony from their (Republi-

Rent Control Favored for 15 Months

House Committee Votes Compromise As Civil Rights Row Sidetracks Senate

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

By a 20-4 majority the House Banking Committee yesterday approved a bill to continue rent controls for 15 months.

The measure is scheduled for House action early next week but on the Senate side it is threatened with indefinite delay—possibly beyond the March 31 expiration date of the present law—because of the civil rights filibuster.

Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas (D., Ill.) told reporters that even if confronted with the March 31 expiration date of rent controls he would not move to lay aside the civil right fight to take it up.

With obvious irony, Lucas commented, "My mail shows that so many more people are interested in civil rights than in rent controls that we can not lay it aside."

D. C. Law in Same Fix

Sources close to the White House, however, appeared confident the Administration would not permit rent control to expire without action.

The District of Columbia rent-control law is separate legislation but it faces the same hurdles as the national law and has the same expiration date. Failure to continue rent controls would also affect thousands of District workers who live in nearby Maryland and Virginia which do not have separate rent-control laws.

The bitterness of the civil rights battle was also reflected in a postponed and slowed-down schedule for rent control hearings on the Senate side.

Maybank Calls Off Hearing

Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.) yesterday called off a scheduled hearing for today and announced the committee would hear Rent Administrator Tighe E. Woods for two hours each morning Monday through Wednesday. Some 300 other witnesses have asked to be heard but Maybank said the committee had postponed their appearance

"We cannot complete our hearings next week and I doubt if we can complete them within the month unless this attack upon the Constitution on the floor of the Senate is concluded in a reasonable time," Maybank said tartly.

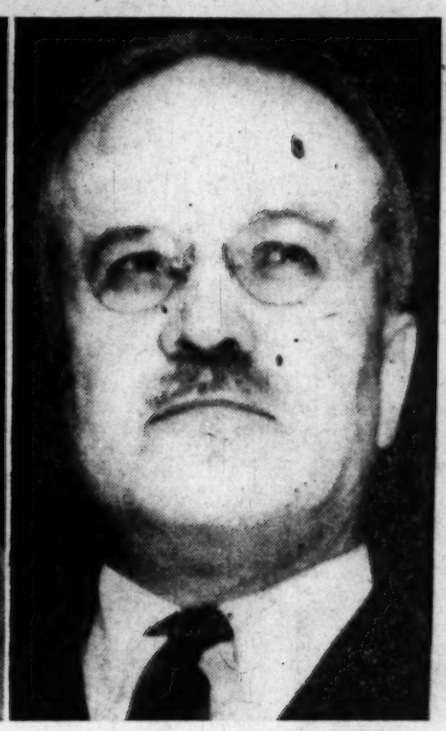

Subcommittee Chairman John Sparkman (D., Ala.) noted that within the past month there had been a swing away from sentiment in favor of more stringent controls. He commented that in the struggle over civil rights

A. I. Mikoyan Also Out as Top Man in Trade Office

Speculation Rife Over Ouster of Foreign Minister By Russians

By R. H. Shackford

London (Saturday) March 5 (U.P.).—Viacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov, Russian Foreign Minister since 1939, was relieved of his office last night and replaced by his chief deputy, Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

A. I. Mikoyan was relieved as foreign trade minister and replaced by his deputy, M. A. Menshikov.

Moscow Radio broadcast the news, which startled the diplomatic world, in the form of a brief communique from the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet or Parliament.

(Later, the same announcement was revealed in dispatches from correspondents in Moscow.)

It was the greatest Russian cabinet shift since the war.

Both Remain Deputy Premiers

Molotov and Mikoyan remain deputy premiers and thus at the highest level of Russian leadership.

It was even speculated that the way was being prepared for Molotov, the second ranking Russian leader, to succeed Premier Josef Stalin, whose most trusted adviser he has been.

There has been increasing talk that Stalin may give up the Prime Ministry, which he took over from Molotov when Germany attacked Russia in 1941.

In the past such important changes in Russia have brought an abrupt and drastic change in foreign policy. But diplomats here could see no choice for toughness between Molotov and Vishinsky.

The Moscow broadcast said:

"The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) has released the Deputy Chairman (Deputy Premier) of the Council of Ministers of the USSR, Comrade V. M. Molotov, from the duties of Minister of Foreign Affairs of the USSR and has appointed A. Y. Vishinsky Foreign Minister of the USSR.

"The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet has released Deputy Chairman of the Council of Ministers, A. I. Mikoyan, from the post of Minister of Foreign Trade and has appointed M. A. Menshikov in his place."

That was all Western diplomats had to go on in trying to assess the reason for the shakeup.

Intimidation Effort Charged To Buttermen

Milk Producers' Aide Denies Accusation By Rep. Pat Sutton

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

A freshman Tennessee Congressman stirred the House Agriculture Committee oleomargarine hearing yesterday by charging the butter interests with attempting to intimidate him.

Representative Pat Sutton, Democrat, angrily demanded of Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation, if he had "threatened a member of this committee with political oblivion if he didn't vote according to your wishes?"

Holman as angrily denied the charge.

"A Malicious Lie"

Sutton then asked if it was "not a matter of fact" that Holman had told a reporter for the Omaha World-Herald that if he did not vote with the butter interests "you would go down into my district and defeat me."

"I would brand that as a malicious lie," Holman shouted.

"These statements of yours were made in the presence of a man who is also a reporter on Look Magazine and he, in turn, called me and told me about it," Sutton declared.

Turning to the committee, Sutton said: "If any lobbyist wants to come down into my district in the great Volunteer State of Tennessee and tell the people down there how to run their business I will provide the platform for him to speak from."

Writers' Version Given

Late yesterday Julian P. Bradbury, reporter for the Omaha World-Herald, and Leo Cullinane, free-lance writer who recently did an assignment for Look Magazine, declared they had heard that a delegation of dairymen from Sutton's district had sought Sutton's vote for legislation supported by the butter interests. Both denied they had mentioned Holman.

When Sutton had finished, Holman declared:

"I represent an organization that has never tried to use pressure on any Congressman.

"No newspaper living . . . has ever heard me use any words of intimidation or make any threats."

The matter ended when Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D., N. C.) told Holman: "I know you are held

Morgan Gets Backing for Young's Post

Democratic Central Group Indorses Him For D. C. Commissioner

The Democratic Central Committee yesterday "unanimously" indorsed Thomas P. Morgan, jr., to be District Commissioner, succeeding John Russell Young.

The committee's recommendation that Morgan be named to succeed Young, whose third three-year term expires May 17, was without qualification.

The committee's indorsement, decided upon at a meeting held in the United Nations Club, followed a meeting of a subcommittee earlier in the afternoon at which Morgan was quizzed about his views on a number of subjects.

What these subjects were, committee spokesmen declined to say.

The names of several other possible candidates for the commissionership were also discussed at the subcommittee meeting, of which Joseph L. Rauh, jr., was chairman, but Morgan was its only recommendation.

James William Bryan, spokesman for the Central Committee, said the resolution adopted read:

"The Democratic Central Committee indorses Mr. Thomas B. Morgan, jr., for commissioner because of his outstanding ability and distinguished career as a citizen of the District of Columbia, because of his long record of aggressive support for home rule and because of his adherence to progressive principles as they apply to the welfare of the community."

Bryan and others said the resolution would undoubtedly come to the attention of the Democratic National Committee as it was apprised of all the local committee's actions as a matter of routine.

Council Approves Israel's U. N. Bid

Lake Success, March 4 (AP).—The Security Council today approved Israel's bid for United Nations membership.

The application now goes to the General Assembly, where a favorable vote is taken for granted. Israel is expected to become the fifty-ninth member of the U. N. soon after the Assembly meets April 5.

The Security Council vote was 9 to 1, with Britain abstaining. Egypt cast the lone negative vote.

Spy System Legalized in Defense Bill

House Group Clears Three Other Major Military Measures

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Four major defense bills, including a hush-hush measure giving legal basis for the Nation's spy system, were cleared by the House Rules Committee yesterday for quick House action next week.

The body voted "closed" rules on all four bills which bar amendments not offered by the House Armed Services Committee and limit debate to one hour. The measures would:

1. Give permanent, statutory authority to the Central Intelligence Agency, and exempt it from normal auditing and Civil Service regulations to keep operations secret.
2. Set up a radar screen around North America, to give warning of enemy planes approaching across the oceans or Arctic wastes. It would be built jointly with Canada. Our share would cost 161 million dollars.
3. Establish a 3000-mile long guided-missile test range at an ultimate cost of 200 million dollars. It would consist of a vast launching area, complete with laboratories, and numerous smaller control, observation and landing areas along a 3000-mile course.

Norse Reject Soviet Offer, Join Pact Talks

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Norway yesterday formally entered negotiations for the Atlantic Security Pact, enlarging the treaty discussions to eight nations, while Denmark prepared to join the talks.

At the same time, in a carefully worded note, Norway, which has a common border with Russia above the Arctic Circle, rejected an offer to join in a nonaggression pact with Russia.

The Russian invitation was a last effort to try to keep Norway out of the treaty negotiations, which now embrace Norway, the United States, Great Britain, Canada, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Denmark is soon expected to cast her lot formally with the Atlantic nations also, and announced that next week she will send Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen here to seek "the best possible basis for Denmark's final attitude" toward the Atlantic agreement.

No Doubt Indicated

Despite that phraseology, reports from Denmark indicated there was no doubt that Denmark will cast its lot with the nations discussing the mutual assistance defense treaty, which will regard an aatack on any one nation as an attack on all.

One informant in Denmark told the Associated Press, "Denmark is following Norway's course and no doubt remains that she will end up in the same place—along with Norway and the Western Union powers in the North Atlantic Defense Pact."

Norway's Ambassador to the United States, Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, yesterday took his seat for the first time in the formal treaty negotiations under way in the office of Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson.

Yesterday's talks began about 11 a. m. and the Norwegian Ambassador joined the session an hour and a half later. When the meeting ended at 1:30 p. m., with the ambassadors reporting "satisfactory progress," Morgenstierne told reporters he had received "a very warm welcome" from the other conferees.

None of the ambassadors would indicate if there had been any decision on Italy's joining the negotiations. Sir Oliver Franks, British Ambassador, said the next pact

Red Reshuffle Seen as Sign Of New Policy

Failure of Molotov To Halt Atlantic Pact Believed One Factor

By Fitzhugh Turner
NYHT News Service

Word of replacement of Soviet Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov was flashed last night to President Truman and his principal aides, and there was immediate speculation the change will signal a shift in Russian tactics.

Neither the White House nor the State Department would comment for the record. Privately, diplomatic officials expressed belief it was progress of the nearly written North Atlantic alliance which was immediately responsible for Molotov's removal.

Norway, the only western nation which shares a border with Russia, became No. 8 today among countries negotiating the pact in Washington. At the same time, the Norwegian government rejected a Soviet request for a treaty of nonaggression.

Not Unexpected

According to Americans who watch Russia, the Kremlin has been becoming convinced for some time that whereas American foreign policy is working, Soviet policy is not. Molotov's failure to thwart the new alliance, it was believed here, may have been regarded in Moscow as a crowning blow to his failure to obstruct European recovery, or to drive the United States out of Berlin.

A change of tactics under Molotov's successor, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, could mean a stepped up peace offensive by the Russians, one government official said. But, he emphasized, the United States, on present information, would expect it to be a change in tactics, and not in Russian objectives.

Vishinsky is one of the smoothest people the Rusians have, this official said. The new Foreign Minister has been bitter toward American "warmongers," but is perfectly capable of a different approach.

Clew in New Assignment

Some such change in the Russian diplomatic high command had not been unexpected here. There has been talk, for example, that Premier Stalin himself might step back into a less public position, although maintaining his power in the Politburo. There has also been belief that a change in Foreign Ministers usually goes with a shift in Russian strategy.

Best clew to whether Soviet tac-

Time for Old Fuds To Go, President Tells Legionaires

President Truman told an American Legion group yesterday, "It's time for us old 'fuds' to begin to go, and let the next generation come into its own."

"That is true of government, also," he added.

The President was talking informally to about 125 leaders of a Legion veterans' rehabilitation conference who visited the White House at the conclusion of their three-day meeting here.

Greeting them, he was agreeably surprised that he "didn't see so many bald pates and gray heads as I had expected to see."

He added that the voters and taxpayers are to blame if the country has bad public officials. In the next 40 years, he said, "the 18 million service men and women will be responsible for the service of this Government."

3-Year Sentence Suspended

Hamilton Admits Negro Blood, Pleads Miscegenation Guilt

Roanoke, Va., March 4 (Spl.)—Clark Council Hamilton, jr., 20-year-old steelworker, pleaded guilty today to a charge of violating Virginia's law against interracial marriage.

He received a three-year suspended sentence from Judge T. L. Keister in Roanoke County Circuit Court at Salem.

Commonwealth's Attorney Eugene W. Chelf produced a certified copy of a birth certificate for Hamilton, born on July 4, 1928, in Russellville, Ala., of "colored" parents.

When confronted with the certificate, Hamilton admitted he was a Negro and pleaded guilty to the charge. Virginia's miscegenation statute makes it a felony for Negroes and whites to intermarry, and carries a one to five-year penitentiary sentence.

Hamilton's wife, 19-year-old Florence Madalone Hamilton, a Baltimore file clerk, was not present at the trial.

She arrived in Roanoke at about 2 p. m., according to Hamilton's attorney, T. Warren Messick. Hamilton had left on a bus at about noon, presumably for Cincinnati, Messick said. The attorney said Mrs. Hamilton was expected to return to Baltimore tonight.

Messick said Hamilton's father, who lives in Russellville, Ala., requested that he go to Cincinnati. Members of the girl's family, who live in Roanoke, told a reporter for The Washington Post last De-

Lagging Behind '48

Autoists Delay Getting Tags At Doubled Registration Costs

The cost of registering a new car in the District has more than doubled, and in some cases tripled, since 1941.

This increase, Traffic Director George E. Keneipp said yesterday, might explain why the number of license tags issued since March 1 is lagging 2210 behind March 4 last year.

The increased cost of today's automobile has brought much new revenue to the District, Keneipp said, since the District tax is figured on 85 per cent of the value of a car with an average number of accessories.

Total cost of registering a car today depends on the value of the car and its weight. The value varies with the year and model car. Value of older cars is determined by the city assessor on the basis of book value listed by the manufacturer.

All cars must have an inspection certificate costing $1. For cars lighter than Buicks, Packards and Cadillacs, license tags cost $5. For heavier vehicles tags cost $8 or 12 depending on the weight.

Part of the increased registration cost of the 1949 automobile has come from an increased tax rate and an increase in the cost of an inspection certificate.

In 1941, the tax rate was $1.75 per 100 of 85 per cent of the valuation. The inspection certificate cost 50 cents.

From 1946 to date the rate has been $2, but the cost of the certificate did not rise until 1947.

Persons getting their tags now are being handled in five minutes. During the anticipated rush in the last week of March, it will take far longer, Keneipp said.

In Virginia there is a flat registration fee of 30 cents per hundred pounds of automobile. In addition, Alexandria city and Arlington county automobile owners must pay 20 cents for city and county tags.

Virginia cars must be inspected twice a year, at a cost of 50 cents per inspection. Plates go on sale March 15 for 30 days.

In Maryland it costs a flat $15 to register cars weighing less than 3700 pounds, and $23 for cars in excess of that weight.

In Prince Georges County a service charge of 15 cents per car is added. Deadline for registering cars already in operation is March 31.

Keneipp said the mailing of District tags was being discouraged because of a 2-cent increase in the cost of mailing.

The following table shows the costs of registering new cars in four different years, and the cost of registering a 1941 car today. All models are for the cheapest four-door sedans with an average number of accessories.

	Tax in 1941	Tax on 1941 model today	Tax in 1946	Tax in 1948	Tax in 1949
*Buick	$14.88	$15.50	$27.00	$33.00	$35.50
*Cadillac	20.56	23.00	38.50	54.00	60.50
Chevrolet	11.20	12.50	19.50	25.00	27.50
Dodge	13.13	13.50	22.00	29.00	34.50
Ford	11.64	11.50	19.50	23.00	27.50
*Packard	14.96	15.00	30.50	43.50	45.50
Plymouth	11.03	12.00	21.50	26.00	29.00
Pontiac	12.69	14.50	21.00	30.00	35.00

*For cars with asterisk tags cost $8, for those without, tags cost $5.

In addition to the figures listed above, each car owner must pay $1 for an inspection certificate, and $5, $8, or $12 for the tags themselves, depending on the weight of the vehicle.

Would Oppose 'U. S. Imperialism'

Head of Area's Communists Backs Party's Stand on War

Baltimore, March 4 (AP).—Philip Frankfeld, chairman of the Communist Party in Maryland and District of Columbia, has publicly indorsed a statement from national Communist leaders that they would work to "defeat the predatory war aims of American imperialism."

President Truman referred to these men as "traitors" yesterday.

When asked last night which side—America's or Russia's—he would take in case of war between them, Frankfeld answered that the statement of party leaders "gives the answer to that."

The party leaders were quoted as saying they would "cooperate with all democratic forces to defeat the predatory war aims of American imperialism and bring such a war to a speedy conclusion on the basis of a democratic peace."

Asked what methods of opposition would be adopted by Communists, the State chairman replied:

"If you mean strikes and sabotage and all that malarkey, the answer is definitely 'no.' We would mobilize the American people ideologically and politically against the war."

He added he was speaking as chairman and not necessarily for all the membership.

"I have not had an opportunity to hold a meeting and consult the party members in a democratic way," he added, "but I feel that generally speaking, I am voicing the opinion of the party."

New Russian Foreign Minister Is Known For Vituperative Attacks on U. S., West

By Albert B. Manola
Post Reporter

Andrei J. Vishinsky, 66, who replaced V. M. Molotov as Russian Foreign Minister yesterday, has the reputation of being as violent a foe of the West as communism has produced.

He has called just about every top American a warmonger—his list includes James F. Byrnes and James Forrestal among many others. He has repeatedly defamed American and western policies and motives in the most vituperative manner.

At Lake Success in 1947 when he was conducting the major Soviet attack on the West, United Nations delegates used to scramble for their earphones at the cry, "Vishinsky is blowing his top again!"

He would begin slowly and calmly. His face would go from pink to fiery red as he increased his speed to 240 hot words a minute. His arms would flail about and his hair straggle. His hair used to be red. It is white now.

He has called Americans warmongers, imperialists, reactionaries, monopolists, slaves of Wall Street, expansionists and numerous variations on these themes.

At first the American delegation used to reply to his charges. Later they adopted General Patton's slogan: "Don't get into a spittin' match with a skunk."

Vishinsky sometimes displayed a sense of humor as in London in 1946 after he had played British Foreign Secretary Bevin.

Vishinsky said of himself that day: "I'm just an old gray wolf."

Then he continued:

"In the Soviet, wolves fight for principles. I've probably chewed up three sets of teeth in this fight (over Iran and Greece).

"In 1936 I chewed up one set as prosecutor at the purge trials.

"I've also ordered a new set today."

The lady reporter who was taking down Vishinsky's remarks was startled to hear him conclude:

"I'd pay you a compliment, but you probably would think me an American wolf."

In January of this year it was disclosed that Vishinsky was "gravely ill from a nervous disorder" and under treatment at a Russian army sanatorium in Karlsbad, Czechoslovakia.

A member of the sanatorium staff said:

"Mr. Vishinsky is unable to concentrate on anything. He cannot be seen by anyone."

On Thursday dispatches from Prague said Vishinsky had returned to Moscow, completely well.

Vishinsky has attended virtually all the important inter-allied and United Nations conferences since 1945. He was at Yalta when Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill met. Later he was at Potsdam after President Truman had succeeded Roosevelt.

One of his "Vishinskyisms" at the Paris U. N. meeting last year was shouted at an American delegate:

"You are preparing a Pearl Harbor for the Soviet Union, aren't you?"

Vishinsky was a long-time rebel against the Czarist regime. He participated in the revolt of 1905 and spent a year in prison in consequence. In the Soviet Democratic (later Communist) Party he was a member of the Menshevik faction, which ultimately lost to the Bolsheviks. Despite his early identification with the losing group, his rise apparently was not seriously hampered.

He took part in the fighting which followed the October Revolution in 1917, leading to the establishment of a Communist regime.

It was as the dreaded prosecutor in the Moscow purge trials of 1936 and 1937 that Vishinsky first attracted world attention. As the result of his spirited prosecution, more than a dozen of the early revolutionists who had fought at Lenin's side were condemned.

Even before these trials Vishinsky had been one of the leading lawyers in the U.S.S.R. He graduated from the college of law at Kiev University in 1902 and has been a professor of jurisprudence at the University of Moscow. A history of Russian law which he wrote was published in English in the United States.

Party Move

Czech Reds Asked to End 'Dictator' Act

Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 4 (U.P.).—The Czech Communist Party central committee appealed to Communists today to stop being "dictators" and to use "persuasion" instead. It warned that party enemies have gone underground and "are now grasping at sabotage, terror, assassination and espionage."

The committee asked party members to draw more non-Communists into policy implementation and instructed Communists to cooperate with trade unions, including even non-Communist workers, in the factories.

The statement referred only to tactical methods and was not in any sense undermining the party's "dominant role" in the state.

Shift in Red Policy Seen

tics will soften will come, it was agreed, when it becomes apparent what is to happen to Molotov. No one here was satisfied that Vishinsky's appointment means the old Foreign Minister has been superseded in real power.

Release of A. I. Mikoyan as minister of foreign trade was not especially good news for the West. Mikoyan, a veteran Bolshevik, has been regarded as one of the Soviet high command who might be sympathetic toward better trade relations.

President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, former Secretary George Marshall, Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Connally and Senator Vandenberg withheld comment.

Those who commented last night, said:

Representative Lawrence Smith (R., Wis.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee:

"I'm looking for some drastic move. I think if anything it will be a military move. I wouldn't be surprised to see the Russians go into Helsinki, and Norway also. There have been reports of Russian troops massed along the Norwegian border."

Senator Smith (R., N. J.), member of Foreign Relations Committee: "I don't get very much cheer from the fact that Mr. Vishinsky, who has been very difficult, is succeeding Mr. Molotov, who also has been very difficult. Neither of them seem to understand what we are trying to do in this country in our efforts to obtain peace for the world."

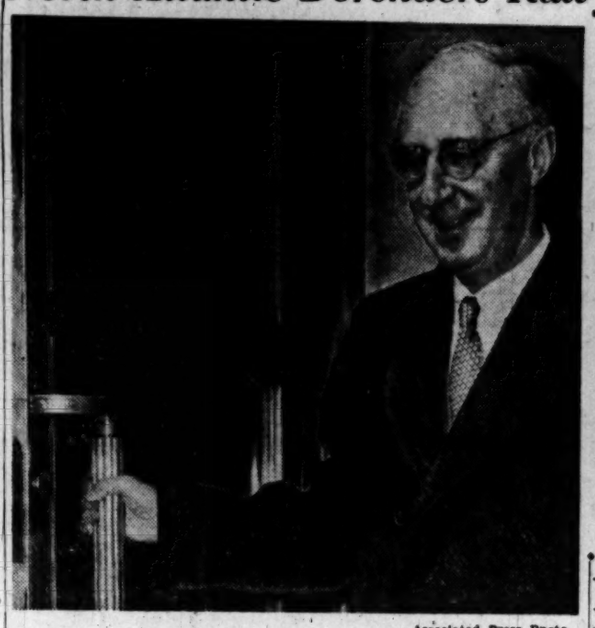

Senator Flanders (R., Vt.): "With Vishinsky succeeding Molotov, it looks as though there will be no mollifying of the Molotov policy."

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.): "The change doesn't seem to hold out any hope for improvement of the Russian government. In fact, it may prove to be a change for the worse. Vishinsky's speeches against the United States have been more inflammatory than Molotov's."

House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin, jr. (Mass.): "It could easily forecast a more belligerent attitude on the part of Russia."

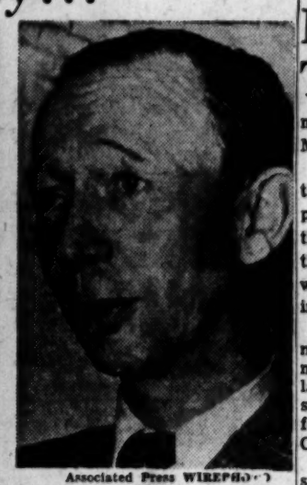

Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.), a ranking member of Foreign Relations Committee: "Vishinsky is so extreme in his views that it might mean dismissal of any hope of reaching a satisfactory basis for settlement of East-West problems."

Molotov Relieved by Russians

again and again in every international conference, Germany has been split in two, President Truman has rejected the bid of Russia for a talk between him and Stalin.

Molotov, "Mr. No," as he has been called at international conferences where he and Russia's satellites have stood isolated from the rest of the world, is cold and calculating. Vishinsky, the merciless prosecutor of the great Russian purge trials, is vitriolic.

Foreign diplomats and British sources here see no choice between them for toughness—except that perhaps Vishinsky, on the surface is tougher. But Russian diplomats work on orders. In Moscow the orders come from the ruling political bureau of the Russian Communist Party.

Abrupt Shift Before War

Molotov was named Foreign Minister just before the start of World War II when Maxim Litvinov had failed in the old League of Nations to unite all Europe to stop Hitler. That time the shift was so abrupt that Russia signed a treaty with Nazi Germany on the eve of World War II while foreign delegations were still in Moscow, negotiating. When Adolf Hitler, despite this piece of paper, attacked Russia in 1941 Stalin took over the Prime Ministry.

The announcement that Molotov has left the Foreign Ministry came on the day Norway announced to the world she has refused a nonaggression treaty with Russia and was preparing to enter the Atlantic pact. It came a few days after a United States B-50 bombing plane had circled the world nonstop.

Embassy Aide Silent

As regards the possibility Molotov might become Premier, it was recalled here that last month Stalin suggested that President Truman visit eastern Europe for a peace talk, pleading that his health would not permit him to go to the United States. Stalin has been shedding some of his responsibilities gradually since the war ended.

A Soviet Embassy spokesman said he had not even heard the news of the shakeup. He refused comment.

Vishinsky, who succeeds Molotov, is understood to have just gone back to Moscow after a long visit to the famous Czechoslovak health resort at Karlsbad.

Vishinsky always has been Stalin's hatchet man. If the Kremlin is planning a tougher policy, Vishinsky would be the logical choice to prosecute the case. It is hard to think of Vishinsky in any role other than a prosecutor.

Recent Statements Recalled

Whether the Russian shakeup had some connection with the recent follow-the-leader declarations by French, Italian, British, American, Canadian and other Communist leaders of their loyalty to Moscow was not clear.

Previously, the Communist line in Western countries has been that there was no reason why Russia and other countries should not live peaceably side by side.

Today it has changed to a pledge of backing for Soviet forces in event of war.

President Truman and others have insisted that there is a split among Russian leaders as to the policy toward the West. They have said that a moderate element within the Politburo wants an understanding with the West. Replacement of Molotov by Vishinsky, equally tough if not more so, would hardly bolster this theory.

London Reserves Comment

London diplomatic sources found much interest in the fact that the change came as the Atlantic Pact was being realized. But the foreign office reserved comment. The suggestion was made to watch the United Nations, the Far East and the London talks on the Austrian treaty for any signs of a policy shift.

The last time Russia switched foreign ministers was 10 years ago.

On May 3, 1939, it was announced that Maxim Litvinoff had "retired" and that Molotov had replaced him as foreign commissar, the term then in use. Litvinoff had served 10 years in the post.

Molotov spent the summer negotiating. On August 23, 1939, Moscow signed a nonaggression pact with Hitler. The pact was ratified on August 31, 1939.

On September 1, 1939, Germany invaded Poland and World War II was on in earnest.

Leon Trotsky was the first of the Russian foreign commissars. In 1918 he was replaced by Georgiy Chicherin, who served until 1929 when Litvinoff took over.

Molotov has always been close to Stalin.

On March 9, 1940, on Molotov's fiftieth birthday, he received the overflowing homage of the Soviet Union. He was awarded the Order of Lenin. Academies and towns were renamed Molotov in his honor. Leading Bolsheviks wrote paens of praise about him. The central committee of the Communist Party called him "one of the outstanding leaders of the Bolshevik Party . . ."

When Molotov was named chief editor of Pravda upon its founding in 1912, he first met Stalin, who was an important contributor to the party publication. During all the ups and downs, changes in policy and purges, Molotov has remained unscathed.

Rumors of Molotov's transfer to another job have been recurrent.

On June 7, 1946, one such rumor was denied. In April, 1948, the British News Review said Molotov's ouster "may shortly have to be considered as a possibility."

Mikoyan, who also is a deputy chairman of the Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R., has been a party member since 1915, and participated in British and American mission talks in Moscow.

Mikoyan was recognized as probably the ablest trader Russia has. He was considered once as a dark horse in the race for Stalin's mantle.

An Armenian with a Charlie Chaplin moustache, an intellectual with a sharp eye for the ruble, he had charge of Russia's trade policies—both domestic and foreign. He headed the economic council for mutual assistance (ECMA), Russia's counterpart of the Marshall Plan.

Under an alias, he once traveled to the United States to study the food industry. Out of the trip came introduction to Russia of frozen foods, cellophane for wrapping, grapefruit juice and corn flakes.

1940 Lesson Learned, Says Norway Envoy

New York, March 4 (NYHT).—Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, Norwegian Ambassador to the United States, tonight said Norway had "learned her lesson in 1940"—when she was invaded by the Nazis—"and today does not believe that 'neutrality' has any relation to the facts of life."

Since a projected Scandinavian defense pact had proved abortive, De Morgenstierne said, it was only natural for Norway, in conformity with the United Nations Charter, to joint with nations of the Atlantic region, "to which we feel so closely related—geographically, culturally and ideologically."

De Morgenstierne spoke at the tenth anniversary dinner of the Overseas Press Club of America in the Waldorf-Astoria. The dinner, attended by 1000 persons, was in honor of Gen. George C. Marshall, former Secretary of State. General Marshall and Dean Acheson, Secretary of State, were on the dais.

The Ambassador said he was hopeful Denmark "may soon' and Sweden "eventually join us in a regional western pact." He denied that the United States, as has been charged, put any pressure on Norway to join the Atlantic pact discussions.

Norway Joins Treaty Talks

meeting probably will be held Monday.

While it was previously hoped that the negotiators would complete final drafting of the pact this week, it is now indicated that the talks will take most of next week, and possibly longer, depending upon Denmark's action.

Norway told the Soviet in its note that the Norwegian government "is convinced that this (Atlantic) pact will not serve aggressive aims, and that it will be formed in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations."

The purpose of the pact talks, said Norway, "is to find a mutually binding agreement built on the principle of solidarity and collective security within a regional area constituting a natural unit."

Norway will not "grant bases for foreign military forces on Norwegian territory as long as Norway is not attacked or subject to threats of attack," the note declared, and, "facts alone will form the basis for deciding what steps shall be taken in defense of our land, and it is self-evident that such appraisal rests solely with the Norwegian government."

The note assured Russia that the "good-neighbor relations" between Norway and the Soviet "have deep historical roots and Norway desires warmly to preserve and to strengthen them." Norway declared there is no need to "reiterate this" by a special nonaggression proposed on February 5 by Russia. sion pact as proposed on February 5 by Russia.

The actions of Norway and Denmark leave Sweden standing alone in the Scandinavian community, apparently convinced at this time that her best defense lies in maintaining the same neutrality she was able to keep in World Wars I and II.

The Washington talks that Denmark's foreign minister will seek had their counterpart in preliminary discussions here by Norway's Foreign Minister Hlavard M. Lange last month, while Sweden unsuccessfully tried to get all the Scandinavian countries to join her in a defense agreement.

In Parliament yesterday, Norway's Premier Einar Gerhardsen, declared that a will for peace is not enough and experience shows it is dangerous "to be alone in the world."

The actions of Norway and Denmark brought blasts from the Russian press, with the newspaper Evening Moscow terming them "traitorous." It blamed "ruling circles" in the Scandinavian countries for the moves, and in regard to the Russian treaty bid to Norway, declared:

"These peaceful acts of the U.S.S.R. government in relation to Norway are met with bayonets . . . with streams of dirty fabrications and insinuations, the mercenary reactionary press greeted the Soviet declaration. However, no slyness or intrigues could hide from the world the sincere friendly intentions of the U.S.S.R."

Russell Joins Attack On Pact 'Propaganda'

Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) yesterday joined several Republican Senators in asserting that the State Department is using "propaganda" to force the Senate to ratify the North Atlantic security pact.

He accused department officials of resorting to "high pressure" to assure ratfication.

Senators John W. Bricker (R., Ohio) and Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) went even farther. Bricker said that Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson's handling of the pact is "no less than despicable."

"It's part of the propaganda technique of keeping Americans purposefully in the dark, except by calculated leaks of information that the Secretary of State wants publicized," he said.

Russian Tires, Tempers Pop As Mission Quits U. S. Zone

Berlin, March 4 (AP).—The Soviet Repatriation Mission quit the American zone of Germany tonight after a motor trip reminiscent of the pioneer days of the automobile.

The eight Russians and their convoy of six worn-out vehicles left Frankfurt at dawn. Apparently they had motor and tire trouble all the way. It took them three to four hours longer than anyone else requires to reach Helmstedt on the American-Russian zonal border.

When they crossed the border at 6:35 p. m. (12:35 p. m. EST) they were towing a broken-down truck loaded with spare tires and gasoline cans.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, ordered the Soviet mission out of the United States zone on the grounds that its work was finished.

The mission refused to leave and for two days a "little blockade" sealed them in their Frankfurt mansion.

Yesterday Soviet Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky instructed them to come to Berlin. In retaliation, Sokolovsky ordered the U. S. graves registration commission to leave the Soviet zone at once.

The Russians were in an angry mood when they left Frankfurt. One spat at an American girl who was watching their departure.

Communists Scare Frontier Norse

In France

Red Leader's Immunity Rejected

Paris, March 4 (U.P.).—The National Assembly tonight rejected a request to lift the parliamentary immunity protecting Marcel Cachin, dean of the French Communist Party, from a libel action by a follower of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

But it did lift the immunity of Communist Deputy Roger Garaudy, for publishing inflammatory articles in his newspaper during the Communist-led strike wave last November.

The action came as Premier Henri Queuille said France would resist an aggressor with her full strength were she invaded—an evident reply to a recent claim by Communist Leader Maurice Thorez that French workers would welcome an invading Red army.

The actions came as Queuille prepared for a showdown battle with the Communists and De Gaulle in the March 20 and 27 elections.

The vote to lift Garaudy's immunity was 363 to 202.

Cachin escaped a similar fate by a vote of 296 to 221.

By Daniel De Luce

Kirkenes, Norway, March 4 (AP).—Communist agitators are spreading fear among the scattered Norwegians who live in Arctic isolation near the Soviet border.

The campaign of alarm has this theme: Norway risks serious trouble with Russia by seeking military guarantees from the western powers.

Many non-Communists in the far north now are so alarmed that they decline to be seen publicly with foreigners from western countries. The 50,000 Norwegians scattered over 18,000 square miles beyond the Arctic Circle realize how helpless they would be before Russian guns.

Their homes in isolated Finnmark Province are defended by a few Norwegian army ski patrols. Nothing more. The frontier with Russia is 122 miles long. Less than one Norwegian soldier per mile is on guyard.

Kirkenes, the chief industrial community on Norway's Arctic Coast, is four quick land miles from Russia. But it is 1100 stormy air miles from Oslo, Norway's capital. It is even farther by sea.

The Reds urge Norwegian workers to join the Communist Party "before it's too late." They hint that only Communists will be spared rought treatment if Russian troops, in "self-defense," move into northern Norway this year.

The Communists go about this task unmolested by police. Because of a fear of a Communist blacklist, authorities here treat Gotfried Hoelvold, the region's No. 1 Communist, with utmost consideration.

He edits a Communist newspaper, the only paper published in Kirkenes, is a town councilman and acts as official interpreter for the Norwegian army at occasional frontier parleys with the Soviet army.

Norwegian Communists, he declares, "intend one day to follow Czechoslovakia's example and establish socialism regardless of Norwegian plutocrats."

Despite this ominous atmosphere, it is the impression of this correspondent — formed after six days along the forbidding Russian frontier—that no armed adventure by the Soviet army is now impending here.

Finnmark is relatively unimportant except for its strategic location, commanding the passage warmed by the Gulf Stream between the Arctic and Atlantic oceans.

Units of a Russian division keep the frontier 4 miles from Kirkenes tightly sealed. Their only contact with the Norwegians is at Ludicrously formal conferences held in a strip of no-man's-land 12 feet wide beside ice-covered Girl's Lake.

Russian and Norwegian army officers bow stiffly. They discuss such topics as four missing Norwegian caribou or a Norwegian boat that drifted against the Russian bank of the Pasvik River. No matter how trivial the question, Russian officers delay a decision until the matter is referred to a distant higher headquarters.

Across the Pasvik River lies the Petsamo area, rich with nickel mines. It belonged to Finland until the Western Allies approved its annexation by Russia in 1944.

Soviet troops have cleared Finnish farmers and villagers from a deep security belt.

More Defense Against Reds Urged by Otto

There is no lasting solution for western Europe's economic problems as long as trade with eastern Europe is cut off, Archduke Otto of Austria said last night.

Speaking at the final Charles Carroll Forum program, attended by about 600 persons, in the Hotel Mayflower, the Archduke said, "If tomorrow, by a stroke of a magic wand, the Soviets could be sent back where they came from, there is no doubt the Marshall Plan could be discontinued in a very short time.

"On the other hand, as long as eastern Europe is in Communist hands there is no lasting solution for Europe's economic situation.

"I think it is high time for the free nations to plan for over-all defense," he said, suggesting two steps:

"First, it is essential they prepare an armaments program at least as trong as that going on in the Soviet countries.

"Second, there should be greater solidarity among the free nations. The steps toward the Atlantic pact already taken are very beneficial, but there is need for some in the Middle and Far East."

In response to a question from the floor the Archduke expressed the opinion that Cardinal Mindszenty had been drugged before his trial and his freedom of will at least temporarily destroyed. The cardinal's alleged confession was so full of grammatical errors, he said, that it did not compare with his previous writings.

More Farms Expropriated In Romania

London, March 4 (U.P.)—Romanian officials, in carrying out their latest land expropriation, aroused some farm families at 3 a. m. and ordered them off their property with nothing more than they could carry, official British reports from Bucharest said today.

The farmers reportedly were hustled into carts to the nearest town. They were forbidden to go to border areas or places where they had families or friends, these reports said.

All farms of 123 acres or more were expropriated.

Buenos Aires Strike Ends

Buenos Aires, Mar. 4 (AP).—Printing of Buenos Aires newspapers was largely resumed today with the end of a long wildcat printers' strike, but fresh trouble was in store for some publishers.

The National Economic Council said the government is planning a decree to cut the size of newspapers further.

At the same time diplomatic sources said the United States has officially expressed concern over the possible effect of further government restrictions on newsprint. Argentine officials were reported to have assured United States representatives that freedom of the press would be protected.

U. S. Forces In Austria Reorganized

Salzburg, Austria, March 4 (NYHT).—The American occupation command here is being transformed from a group of loosely organized units to a well-knit tactical outfit, it was learned here tonight.

The cadre of a division, both headquarters and component units, is being created with approximately 7000 American troops in the American zone of Austria. The rest of the American forces in this country are about 3000 troops in Vienna.

More artillery is being sent to the American ZCA (Zone Command Austria) it was learned. This equipment will help to convert the ZCA into an outfit with a reasonable chance of self-defense in the Austrian mountains in the event of war. Some tanks are also expected here.

Board Upholds Ruses Used in Malmedy Case

Frankfurt, Germany, March 4 (AP).—A U. S. Army review board today condoned the use of "ruses, strategems, stool pigeons and similar practices" to get evidence from Nazi SS men accused of the Malmedy massacre.

More than 900 unarmed American prisoners and Belgian civilians were slaughtered at Malmedy.

Among the 73 Elite Guard men convicted in July, 1946, by a U. S. military court were Col. Gen. Joachim Peiper, one of Hitler's closest friends.

Defense Attorney Willis M. Everett, jr., of Atlanta, Ga., charged the prosecution used sham courts, threats and the third degree to get evidence.

The Supreme Court in June, 1948, refused to hear the case, but Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall ordered a stay of execution for 17 of the 43 condemned to die. Thirty of the 73 convicted had received jail terms.

Royall ordered a review board to investigate Everett's allegations.

Today's ruling by that board sustained the defense allegations, but said the practices were "justified by the difficulty of cracking the case."

It made no recommendation.

The board said "in certain instances, probably about 8 to 10, the use of a so-called mock trial was resorted to in an effort to soften up a witness."

"Physical force was not systematically applied, but undoubtedly in the heat of the moment on occasions interrogators did use some physical force."

Reds Call Strike in Rome

Rome, March 4 (U.P.).—Communist leaders today called a two-hour strike of more than 300,000 semistate workers in Rome for Saturday as the start of a new demand for higher wages. The men called out work in government-operated departments but are not in the civil service.

1 Dies, 1 Hurt in Duel

Milan, Italy, March 4 (U.P.).—Two barbers, Fernando Diegali, 61, and Piero Canziani, 40, fought a duel to death today with their razors. Diegali died of a cut throat. Canziani is in serious condition with wounds on his face and shoulders. He told police he and Diegali argued over cleaning their barber shop.

Death Asked For 4 of 15 Ministers

By Richard Kasischke

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 4 (AP).—Communist prosecutors demanded today that four Bulgarian Protestant ministers be hanged as traitors and that heavy prison sentences be imposed upon 11 others.

The trial of the 15 on charges of treason and spying for the United States and Britain neared its final stage in Sofia's district court. The prosecution declared the ministers were servants of "Anglo-American imperialism and the western church mission boards."

The defense lawyers, asking mercy for the group, said the ministers were "the poor, unfortunate victims" of western education and were lured by western gold.

Bulgaria's supreme prosecutor, Moscow-trained Dimiter Georgiev, called for the death of the four defendants who were members of the Council of the United Evangelical Churches of Bulgaria:

The Rev. Vassil Ziapkov, 48, Congregationalist.

The Rev. Kanko Ivanov, 48, Methodist.

The Rev. Nikola Naumov, 49, Baptist.

The Rev. Georgi Chernev, 46, Pentecost.

They not only spied, the prosecutor charged, "but sought to propagate a revolt against the (Communist) Bulgarian regime with the aim of inducing promised American intervention." He said they spread "nasty rumors about the Soviet Union."

U. N. Approves Program for Poorer Areas

Lake Success, March 4 (AP).—The United Nations approved President Truman's "bold new program" today and ordered U. N. economists to draft concrete plans now for aiding backward areas.

The action was taken by the 18-nation Economic and Social Council one week after Assistant Secretary of State Willard L. Thorp outlined in broad terms what Mr. Truman, in his inaugural address January 20, had in mind for underdeveloped areas.

The Council's program was outlined in two resolutions, one sponsored by Chile and one by the United States.

The Chilean proposal ordered U. N. experts to study possible ways of financing the development of backward areas.

The American measure called for concrete plans to provide large-scale technical assistance to underdeveloped regions.

Both resolutions were passed by 15 to 0, with Russia, White Russia and Poland abstaining.

Revocation Of Citizenship Asked for Reds

By the United Press

The pro-Soviet war pledge of American Communist leaders yesterday sparked a proposal to revoke the citizenship of naturalized Americans who are Communists.

The suggestion came from Representative Francis E. Walter (Pa.), chairman of the House Democratic Caucus and second-ranking Democrat on the House Un-American Activities Committee.

He said he will introduce a bill soon to make Communist Party membership grounds for removal of citizenship from foreign-born Americans. The measure would allow deportation proceedings to be begun after the citizenship revocation.

Walter said that native-born Americans could not be deprived of their citizenship. But they would be subjected to other restraints if they are Communists.

The Walter proposal would apply to several major officials of the United States Communist Party, but not to Chairman William Z. Foster or Eugene Dennis, party general secretary.

They are the officials who asserted that their party would work to "defeat the predatory war aims of American imperialism" in event of a United States-Soviet clash.

President Truman on Thursday denounced the Communist spokesmen as "traitors." That was followed by several congressional moves to push new anti-Communist measures.

Chairman John S. Wood (D., Ga.) of the Un-American Activities Committee, said a ubcommittee will begin work on new Communist legislation "as soon as I can talk to the members and select personnel."

He said the subcommittee would do more than reconsider the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill which died in the last session of Congress.

"I believe that even more stringent provisions are necessary," he commented.

The Mundt-Nixon bill would have required the United States Communist Party to cut any ties with Moscow, forced all Communist and Communist-front organizations to register with the Justice Department, and prohibited Communists from getting passports or getting Federal jobs.

Senator Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.) and Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.) who sponsored the measure, are working on a new version.

Anti-Semitism Erased, Czech Officials Claim

By The Associated Press

Two Czechoslovak officials said yesterday that anti-Semitism has been wiped out in their Communist-run homeland.

Dr. Francis C. Weiskopf, Czech minister, and Arnost Polak, a director of the World Bank, told reporters that Jews occupy many top positions in the new Communist regime. Both said they were Jews.

Weiskopf called a news conference at the embassy to deny charges made at a meeting of the Jewish labor committee at Atlantic City last week that anti-Semitism has grown in Czechoslovakia and other "Iron Curtain" countries.

Jury-Loading Plea of U. S. Reds Rejected

New York, March 4 (AP).—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina today denied the plea of 11 United States Communist officials that the Federal jury system here is loaded against them.

At the same time, he rejected motions to dismiss the conspiracy indictments against the 11 men who comprise the high command of the Communist Party in the United States. They are charged with conspiracy to advocate the forcible overthrow of the United States Government.

The rulings cleared the way for the actual trial to begin Monday. Selection of a jury is scheduled to begin then.

Judge Medina had foreshadowed his decision on the defense attack against the jury system by announcing a week ago that the trial on the indictment would begin March 7.

The 7-week-old trial has been devoted almost entirely to the assault by attorneys for the Communists on the method of selecting jurors in the Southern New York District. Thus the defense assumed the role of prosecutor and the Government has been defending the jury system.

Counsel for the Communists maintained that jury panels here largely consist of wealthy persons and executives and that persons of low income, laborers, Negroes, Jews and women are discriminated against.

But Medina said the voluminous masses of material introduced in evidence by the defense itself, "when viewed in their entirety, . . . seem to me to establish beyond peradventure of doubt that no such deliberate, willful and planned discrimination and exclusion . . . existed at any time in this district.

"The evidence shows that in no instance was any inquiry or investigation made of any particular individual or groups of indivduals by anyone connected with the jury clerk's office before sending out the notices to appear for qualification."

The judge declared that jury notices went to many working people, Negroes and others who the defense claims were largely shunted aside.

Medina said that "had any such iniquitous system as that alleged by defendants been in force for such a long period as that from 1940 to 1949, or indeed for any substantial period, its existence would necessarily have been widely known and it is hard to believe that a storm of protest would not have arisen and immediate steps been taken to uproot such intolerance and discrimination.

"Of all places in the United States, it seems to me that New York City would be the one least likely to permit such a system to flourish in its midst. The challenge is overruled: the motions are in all respects denied."

The presiding judge had repeatedly accused the defense attorneys of stalling and finally said they were seeking willfully to sabotage the administration of justice.

Israel Holds Peace Talks

Rhodes, Mar. 4 (U.P.).—Israel and Trans-Jordan began armistice talks today in a chilly atmosphere that precluded even the formal introduction of the members of the two delegations to each other.

So frigid was the 14-minute session that the Israeli delegation said the "negotiations cannot go on" unless a more cordial attitude is developed. The head of the Trans-Jordan delegation was reported to have snubbed his Israeli counterpart.

Later the Trans-Jordan representative apologized to Israeli Delegate Reuben Shiloah, saying that no snub was intended.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, acting United Nations mediator, was made chairman of the Israeli-Trans-Jordan talks. An announcement said an agenda was approved and both delegations presented their credentials.

Bunche was optimistic of a quick settlement.

Observers pointed out the current talks might be long because a final decision must come from Abdullah rather than from the delegation here. Also issues involving British policy would be referred by Abdullah to London. Britain and Trans-Jordan are linked by treaty.

Trans-Jordan's military position is quite different from Egypt's. Israel defeated the Egyptian army in the field. Trans-Jordan's Arab legion and the Israeli army fought each other to a standstill. Neither side is in a desperate position which would make an immediate armistice imperative.

Sun Fo Under Fire From Chinese Yuan

Nanking, China, March 4 (U.P.).—The legislative Yuan (Parliament) today opened fire on Premier Sun Fo in what appeared to be a move to force his resignation.

At the same time the National Salvation Daily blamed Chiang Kai-shek for China's current plight and suggested he leave the country and give Acting President Li Tsung-jen a free hand.

The legislative Yuan, which threw its support behind Li, censured Sun Fo indirectly but individual members condemned the premier for moving his cabinet to Canton.

The legislators, by a majority vote, decided:

1. To return as "unread" the cabinet's note asking the legislators to meet in Canton. Legislators said the cabinet had no power to order the legislators around.

2. To debate later on the "unwarranted and disorderly" removal of the cabinet to Canton.

3. Request the executive Yuan (Cabinet) to carry out thoroughly Li Tsung-jen's order lifting restrictions on civil rights and releasing political prisoners.

retary of Defense, as No. 2 man of the National Military Establishment, over the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force.

All four measures are scheduled to come up for House action Monday and Tuesday. Leaders may bring up the spy bill under special procedure which limits debate to 20 minutes for and against it and requires passage by a two-thirds vote.

Members of the House Armed Services Committee, which has approved all four bills, say the espionage system measure is so confidential that little should be told of it on the House floor.

Representative Francis D. Walters (D., Pa.) asked the Rules Committee to leave the bill open to amendment. He said he wanted to eliminate a clause which permits 100 alien "informers" to be brought to America from behind the Iron Curtain annually.

Walter said that an immigration bill now before the House Judiciary Subcommittee he heads includes such authority. But Armed Services Committeemen insisted on the "closed" rule, and it was granted.

Former Siam Officials Slain While in Custody

Sally's Ex-Boss Fails To Recall Nazi Oath

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

Testimony in the treason trial of Miss Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gillars concluded yesterday, with the defense jolted as a witness testified he had "no recollention" of Miss Gillars having taken an oath of allegiance to Germany.

Testimony of the witness, Johannes Schmidt-Hansen, former boss of Miss Gillars in the German propaganda radio, contradicted an earlier assertion by Miss Gillars and a former coworker of hers, Erwin Christiani.

Both had testified that the defendant had been required to take the oath by Schmidt-Hansen after Miss Gillars had criticized the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

The importance of the oath to the defense is that it might tend to show that Miss Gillars believed at the time that her action was tantamount to renunciation of American citizenship. Under the law, only citizens can be guilty of treason to the United States.

Schmidt-Hansen originally had been brought to this country as a defense witness. He was flown to the United States Wednesday from Germany through cooperation of the Justice Department.

But after a conference with him, Defense Attorney James J. Laughlin decided not to call him. Instead, he was called to the stand by Prosecutor John M. Kelley, jr., as a rebuttal witness.

"Do you have any recollection of ever asking Miss Gillars to supply you with a statement of oath of allegiance to Germany?" Kelley asked the slight, nervous-appearing witness.

"I do not recollect having asked . . ." the witness began, and then pressed for a yes or no answer, replied flatly: "No."

However, under cross-examination by Laughlin, Schmidt-Hansen declared he would not deny that such a thing might have happened.

Declaring that almost 10 years had passed since the alleged incident, Schmidt-Hansen asserted: "It is impossible for any human to recall exactly such details. I do not deny it might have been a matter of routine—a form letter for security reasons."

The witness also testified he did not recall discussing the oath with Christiani.

After Schmidt-Hansen's testimony, Christiani was recalled to the stand. He reiterated previous testimony that he had discussed the allegiance question with Schmidt-Hansen.

Christiani's testimony ended the day's proceedings. Federal Judge Edward M. Curran excused the jury until 11 a. m. Monday, at which time counsel for both sides will begin summation of the case. It is expected to go to the jury Tuesday or Wednesday.

Maj. Gen. Albert Jones Assigned to 2d Army

Maj. Gen Albert M. Jones, chief of the joint United States military advisory group in the Philippines, is returning next week for reassignment to the Second Army at Fort George G. Meade, Md., the Army Department said today.

Since 1946 Jones has headed the advisory group in assisting the Philippine Republic in the formation of the new nation's armed forces.

Bogus Century Notes Coming From Overseas

Phoney $100 bills believed to have been printed in Europe and the Orient are circulating on the East and West coasts.

U. E. Baughman, Secret Service chief, said yesterday that thus far 20 of the bogus bills have been found. He said they turned up in shipments of currency from overseas to the New York and San Francisco Federal Reserve Banks.

U. S. Declines Latin's Bid to Colonies Talks

By the United Press

The United States yesterday dealt a blow to hopes of some Latin-American nations of ousting European powers from control of colonies in this hemisphere.

The State Department announced that this country will not be represented at a March 15 meeting at Havana called by the American Committee on Dependent Territories to study the problem.

Its statement said there were "grave doubts" the committee could achieve its goal without "endangering" agreements of the United Nations and Western Hemisphere nations.

The department left sponsors one out by suggesting the problem could be settled through U. N. machinery.

Statehood For Alaska Wins Vote

A House Public Lands subcommittee yesterday unanimously approved a bill to grant statehood to Alaska.

The same group approved a bill Thursday to grant statehood to Hawaii.

Chairman Monroe Redden (D., N. C.) said both would come up for full committee approval Tuesday. He predicted approval by both that group and by the House.

Redden said the subcommittee made several changes in the bill sponsored by Alaskan Delegate E. L. Bartlett, dealing mainly with military matters. One would retain exclusive United States jurisdiction over crimes committed in military areas. The new state would have jurisdiction over other civil and criminal cases.

Subcommittee approval of the Alaskan bill came after a one-hour open hearing and a 45-minute closed session. It was indorsed by the Agriculture and Interior Departments.

Representatives of the military establishments said they couldn't indorse the bill but they had no objections to it.

Army Opens Laboratory for Isotope Study

The Army yesterday dedicated its newest adjunct to medical research, a $40,000 radioactive isotope laboratory at the Army Medical Center here.

Officiating at the opening ceremony was Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, Army Surgeon General, who said the installation "represents our determinatoin to make this institution one of the finest in the medical scientific field."

The dual purpose of the laboratory will be basic research and clinical aplication of that research, staff members explained. At the program's start, they said, about two-thirds of their time will be spent on biochemical studies in radioactivity and one-third in clinical studies with selected patients.

The new facility, first of its kind at an Army installation, is situated in four basement rooms of the Army Medical Department's Research and Graduate School building. Three of these are used for research work, and the fourth to shelter instruments used to calibrate radioactivity both for research and safety checks for the researchers.

Radioactive isotopes, products of atomic piles at Oak Ridge, Tenn., will be shipped to the laboratory early next week. They will include radioactive elements of iodine, phosphorous, sodium and carbon for the initial studies in peripheral-vascular blood and thyroid diseases. An isotope of carbon (C-14) will be used as a primary tracer in biochemical investigations.

Experts in the field of atomic research will conduct the investigations there, including Capt. Edgar Leifer, laboratory chief; Capt. John Hogness and First Lieut Robert Soberman.

The nerve center of the facility is the "hot" room, where the radioactive isotopes will be stored. Here, an "atom well" of lead bricks will enable the scientists to draw off needed concentrates without exposure to the dangerous radiations.

Navy Official Takes Radium, Gets Burned

Charleston, S. C., March 4 (U.P.) The Navy revealed today that a high official of the Charleston Shipyard took two capsules of radium from the base here and suffered burns.

The radium was found to be missing February 14 and a widespread search was launched because of the danger they held for anyone who might handle them. On the next day, it was announced, Head Shipbuildng Inspector James L. Ricketson returned them.

Captain H. C. Sexton, commander of the yard, reported that Ricketson said he did not know the capsules contained radium. He carried them in his watchpocket, and is now undergoing treatment for abdominal burns, the announcement said.

"Administrative action is under way at the shipyard to determine Ricketson's future employment status," the report said. The official is a graduate of Georgia Tech and has been employed at the shipyard since 1939.

Low Tag Number To Be Given D. C. Committee Head

A. L. Wheeler, chairman of the District Democratic Central Committee, will be given a low District auto license number at the request of Commissioner Guy Mason, as will many other prominent Democrats and Republicans.

The three city heads have the privilege of disposing of the first 1000 tag numbers. Commissioner Mason said his list includes Democrats as well as Republicans, newspaper executives, District and Federal officials.

John Russell Young, president of the Board of Commissioners, follows the same non-political policy in his list, Mason said, while Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, Engineer Commissioner, uses many of his numbers for top ranking Army officials.

Mason said Wheeler, recently appointed chief clerk of the Senate District Committee, "is in a position to do a lot of good for the District," Commissioner Mason observed. He added that "anyone can see my list if they want to."

Truman Asks State Dept. Shifts

President Truman asked Congress yesterday to authorize changes in the State Department organization to make it more effective.

He sent up a message asking for early action on proposals to:

1. Authorize additional Assistant Secretaries of State to handle matters dealing with specific geographical areas.

2. Transfer to the Secretary of State certain powers now vested in subordinate officials.

The request was in line with recommendations by the Government reorganization commission headed by Former President Herbert Clark Hoover.

"Many of our hopes for world peace and domestic security are dependent upon the effectiveness of our machinery for the development of foreign policy and for translating policies into action," the President said.

The State Department already has begun reshuffling along the lines of geographical emphasis.

It has announced that Ambassador Robert D. Murphy has been recalled from Germany to become acting director of a new Office of German and Austrian Affairs. Murphy was political adviser to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American occupation commander in Europe.

Murphy's new office will take over duties now performed by Charles E. Saltzman, Assistant Secretary for Occupied Areas. The Far Eastern problems of Saltzman's office were transferred to the Office for Far Eastern Affairs.

In addition to the geographical emphasis, the shift was seen as part of a move to give the State Department greater control over occupation policies. The State Department fixes such policies, but the Army is responsible for carrying them out.

Latest Hooper Rating Drops Benny to Fourth

New York, March 4 (AP).—The latest Hooper program report has sent Jack Benny down to fourth with 25 per cent and returned Walter Winchell to first with 28.1. Benny, now on CBS, was in the top spot the two previous reports, his February percentage being figured at 27.3. Then Winchell had 23.3 for fourth.

Other programs in the first 10 were Fibber and Molly second, Radio Theater third, Bob Hope fifth, followed in order by Godfrey Talent Scouts, Duffy's Tavern, My Friend Irma, Amos and Andy, and Stop the Music.

15-Month Rent Act Asked for District

1 to 3 Years

Prison Term Given in $800 Check Kiting

Benjamin Shapiro, 43, a convicted rubber-check artist, was sentenced yesterday to serve one to three years in prison for kiting $800 in checks here.

According to police, Shapiro came here in September in a stolen car, opened a bank account with $100, posed as the head of a nonexistent paint company and opened up an office. He signed and cashed all the checks involved in a one-day period.

In other District Court actions, three men were convicted of attempting carnal relations with teen-age girls. All given probation terms, they were ordered to support the offspring of the victims if any result.

They are Robert L. Campbell, 20, 2204 14th st. nw.; John L. Jackson, 49, 53 Quincy pl. ne., and Willie Drayton, 25, no known address.

Ulysses V. Delaney, 29, no fixed address, was given 16 months to four years in prison for stealing a $75 typewriter from an office of the Turner Memorial A. M. E. Church, 501 P st. nw., last December during a church service.

Bill Filed to Keep Bars Open Till 2 A.M.Sunday

Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.), yesterday introduced a bill to permit Washington bars to stay open until 2 a. m. Sundays. The present limit is midnight Saturday.

Introduction of the bill was asked by the Restaurant Beverage Association here. The bill was referred to the House District Committee.

A 15-month extension of District rent control was recommended yesterday by the House District Judiciary Subcommittee. It would continue the local law to June 30, 1950.

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D., Ark.) said the group had voted to forward the rent control extension bill to the House District Committee for action Monday.

Harris said the subcommittee also wrote into the bill two major changes from the present District rent control law which ends March 31.

Would Change Conversion Clause

One change would give the District rent administrator authority to fix rents on converted housing where the cost of conversion is $1500 or less. Rent Administrator Robert F. Cogswell had protested that some building owners had taken advantage of decontrol to make trivial alterations the basis for big boosts in rents. Controls would remain off conversions that cost more than $1500.

The second change has the double purpose of protecting tenants against eviction through cooperative purchases of apartments made after March 1, 1949, and of safeguarding the rights of cooperative apartment buyers who have made such purchases before that date.

Harris said the subcommittee ordered an amendment written into the bill whose effect would be to serve notice to anyone buying an apartment unit in a cooperative apartment setup after March 1 that he will not be able to evict the tenants during the life of the act.

65 Per Cent Requirement

At the same time, said Harris, it will make clear that a person who has bought an apartment unit through a cooperative arrangement before March 1 will have the right to go into court and obtain occupancy of the apartment.

He explained that the two-way coop protection clause was keyed into the provisions recommended by Cogswell and the District Commissioners to require that 65 per cent of tenants in occupancy in a building be members of a cooperative before it can take over the building.

The 65 per cent membership requirement is adopted from existing provisions of Federal rent control.

House Unit Votes Extension Of Rent Curbs for 15 Months

"tempers get ruffled and nerves become frayed" with regrettable reaction on all legislation.

The measure drafted by the House group is stronger than the present rent-control law but not nearly so stringent as that sought by the Administration.

The House committee approved the 15-month extension in lieu of the Administration-sought 24 months after voting down, 16 to 9, a civil rights amendment offered by Representative Barratt O'Hara (D., Ill.). O'Hara had proposed that veterans' priorities on the sale or rental of new homes, which are continued in the legislation, be applied without regard to race, creed or color.

Other provisions of the House bill:

1. The so-called voluntary 15-per-cent rent hikes are not continued. Those which have already gone into effect will be continued at present levels, but brought back under control.

2. The Rent Administrator would be authorized to establish rules and regulations over evictions.

3. The Government would be given power to sue a landlord for damages amounting to three times any charge against a tenant above rent ceilings. At present only tenants have any authority to bring such suits.

4. The rent administrator would be authorized to recontrol any rental area decontrolled since June 30, 1947, except where decontrol resulted from a decision by the Emergency Court of Appeals.

5. The committee rejected an Administration proposal to impose fines up to $5000 and imprisonment up to one year for landlords convicted of willfully violating rent ceilings.

6. Apartments in residential hotels were recontrolled but not rooms of permanent residents in transient hotels.

The committee turned down an amendment offered by Representative Paul Brown (D., Ga.) providing for a "fair return" on their investment to landlords. Leading Democrats on the committee, however, said it was entirely possible such an amendment would be successful on the floor.

Tenants Agree To Rent Rise To Avert Sale

A total of 121 of the 161 tenants of the Valley Vista Apartments, 2032 Belmont rd. nw., have agreed to rent increases ranging from a flat $5 a month to 15 per cent to forestall possible sale of the structure for conversion to a cooperative.

Owners of the building, James and David Karrick of the Fidelity Storage Co., had received an offer for such conversion, according to Mrs. Lucille Corsmo, manager. She notified the tenants and received written consents to increases of $5 a month, 10 or 15 per cent, she said yesterday.

Forty tenants were not asked for increases since they paid 15-percent increases granted by the Rent Control Administration earlier. The consent agreements are before rent officials for approval of the arrangements.

Rent Examiner James G. Tyson yesterday recommended a 10-percent increase on 141 units of the Winthrop House, 1727 Massachusetts ave. nw., as a result of a rehearing on the request.

Truman Radio Talk

President Truman will make a five-minute radio talk March 26 on a program sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches.

The White House, announcing this yesterday, said Mr. Truman will be the last speaker on the hour-long broadcast. His talk will begin about 10:55 p. m. from Washington.

The council said the program is aimed at raising funds for world relief. It will be broadcast by all the major networks.

Court Rules Opera Tenor Is Father

New York, March 4 (AP).—Ferruccio Tagliavini, a roly poly star of the Metropolitan Opera, was named by a Special Sessions Court today as the father of a child born to a young singer.

The court ordered the married tenor to contribute to the support of the blond daughter born 17 months ago to dark-haired Mary Phillips, a 28-year-old singer and opera fan.

"Thank God for the baby's sake," said Miss Phillips. "Now she can get a new pair of shoes."

Tagliavini, known as "the Little Caruso," was ordered to pay $25 a week, $300 maternity fees and $750 legal fees to Miss Phillips.

His attorney promised an appeal "to the highest court." Taglianini, who speaks little English, paled at the verdict and gave out with an unmusical groan.

[The United Press said he put the lighted end of a cigarette in his mouth in his nervousness.]

Two justices favored Miss Phillips. A third dissented.

Tavern Owner Fined $100 in Gambling Case

A Colmar Manor (Md.) tavern keeper yesterday was fined $100 and costs in Upper Marlboo Police Courts on conviction of permitting gambling there.

Joseph Brenner, 31, pleaded innocent to the charge and was fined by Trial Magistrate Arthur Owens. Defense Attorney Robert W. McCullough appealed the decision.

The tavern keeper, who lives at 1211 Simms pl. ne., was arrested January 28 by Prince Georges County police after officers played two slot machines in the kitchen of the establishment to gather evidence.

Witness Irks Granger

Earlier, Mrs. Whitehall, of the Consumers' Union of New York, drew the ire of Representative Walter K. Granger (D., Utah) by urging laws permitting colored margarine to be sold without tax.

"Are you married?" Granger demanded. When the witness replied "yes" he asked if she had any children.

"No," said Mrs. Granger.

"I thought so," Granger exploded. Granger several times called the witness a "city slicker" trying to tell the people who 'raise everything you eat and wear" how to live.

Mrs. Whitehall brought laughs when she attacked a poll by a Chicago firm, Benson & Benson, that had been introduced by a witness for the dairy bloc.

"I work for Elmo Roper," she said, "and I know a little bit about polls. I never heard of Benson & Benson.

Mrs. Whitehall then said there are "techniques used in poll taking" that can "give you the answer you want." She insisted Mr. Roper never used such techniques.

$1981 Tax Lien Filed Against Sen. Langer

A Federal income tax lien notice for $1981 was filed here yesterday against Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.).

The District Court action drew sharp rebukes from the Senator who in New York said he was "amazed" by the tactics of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The bureau refused further particulars, but said the tax statement had evidently been sent here from North Dakota.

The lien was for back taxes in 1943 and 1944.

Senator Langer said a Government agent had helped him prepare the returns and recheck them. He declared that two agents sent to assist him at first disagreed over the amount.

Finally, he said, they agreed and sent him a notice of taxes due for the two years. He said he paid the 1944 tax in full and sent $500 to be applied to his 1943 taxes, and believed that everything was in order.

Another tax lien notice cited that Robert S. Weintraub, a drug-firm representative, 2120 16th st. nw., owes $73,636 for the years 1945, 1946 and 1947.

Weintraub said some payments had been made on the amount the Government declared due and that arrangements were to be completed for the remainder.

The Gallup Poll

More Voters Than Ever Urge Repeal of Margarine Taxes

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., March 4.—As the perennial fight to abolish oleomargarine taxes was renewed this week with hearings before the House Agriculture Committee, a larger vote than ever for repeal is found among voters polled by the Institute.

At this time last year 69 per cent said they favored doing away with the special taxes on oleo; this year the vote is up to 76 per cent in the latest test of sentiment conducted by the Institute.

Farmers are much less in favor than city folk. Consumers who use oleo are almost unanimous in their desire to see the levies removed. Among people who use butter only, the vote is a good deal smaller but is still a majority.

The trend of sentiment is shown in the vote on the following question:

"There are now certain taxes and fees which dealers who handle margarine have to pay which they do not have to pay on butter. A bill has been introduced in Congress to do away with these taxes and fees on margarine. Do you favor or oppose this bill?"

March,	Favor	Oppose	No Opin.
Today ..	76	15	9

Dairy farmers have of course long been opposed to repeal of the oleo taxes. Their opposition is one reason why the farm vote as a whole in today's survey is much more closely divided than the vote of people in the cities. The extent to which the oleo issue is a city versus farmer affair can be seen in the following vote by size of community:

	Favor	Oppose	No Opin.
Farmers	54%	36%	10%
Towns under 10,000.	77	14	9
10,000-100,000	81	11	8
100,000 500,000	83	9	8
500,000 & over...	84	6	10

W. Va. Wesleyan To Admit Negroes

Huntington, W. Va., March 4 (AP). In a precedent-setting move, the West Virginia Wesleyan College board of trustees voted last night to admit Negroes as regular candidates for degrees.

Previously Negroes had been enrolled at the Methodist School in Buckhannon only for special and extension courses.

Wesleyan will be the second institution of higher learning in the State at which a Negro may take the full curricula. The other is West Virginia State College, an all-Negro school at Institute.

A spokesman for the church said the Wesleyan board voted to liberalize its admission regulations in line with a policy established recently in other so-called border States.

The board at its midwinter meeting here also ratified a $500,000 capital funds drive for the college and heard reports on Wesleyan's new $480,000 budget and projected $850,000 buiding program.

Wastebasket Suggested for Amendments

Annapolis, Md., March 4 (AP)—The incinerator and the wastebasket were suggested today as possible destinations of proposed amendments to the anti-subversive bill.

Chairman Melnicove (D., Balto 4th) said the House Judiciary Committee would meet Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. to vote on the measure in executive session.

The committee will decide whether to redraft the Senate-approved bill in line with dozens of amendments proposed by witnesses at a hearing yesterday.

"Let's burn the amendments—at least half of them," said Delegate Virts (D., Frederick.

Melnicove said he would name a subcommittee to screen the amendments before the full 23-member committee considers them.

"At what time does the subcommittee throw the amendments in the waste basket?" asked Vice Chairman Boone (D., Baltimore).

"I second the motion," exclaimed a committee member.

The measure, a proposed "Subversive Activities Act of 1949" recommended by a commission under Attorney Frank B. Ober, would require loyalty checks of State employes and would outlaw "subversive" organizations.

Indiana to Tax Planes Landing

Indianapolis, March 4 (AP).—Noble Hollar, chairman of the State Board of Tax Commissioners said today he had ordered all airline passenger planes that landed in Indiana March 1 placed on State tax rolls.

He said he ordered tax commissioners in all cities served by national airlines to make a check of every plane that landed in that 24-hour period.

The action would create a test case to see whether airlines serving Indiana should be included on the State's property tax assessments.

"The airlines," Hollar said, "are in competition with railroads and buses and other forms of transportation which pay a tax based on the proportion of their business done in Indiana."

'Vampire' Gets Mental Test

London, March 4 (U.P.)—Britain's "vampire killer" was removed from his jail cell to a hospital today for mental observation after he told police he sipped the blood of one of his victims through a soda straw.

Dapper John George Haigh, suspected of murdering six persons and submerging their bodies in a sulphuric acid bath, was expected to plead insanity. Crime experts believed that was why he told police he was a vampire.

Biggest flaw in the police case was the absence of bodies of five of his alleged victims—Dr. and Mrs. Archibald Henderson and the McSwan family, Donald, his wife and their 30-month-old son, William.

Bits of flesh found in a factory yard at Crawley, Sussex, have been identified as part of the body of Mrs. Olive Durand-Deacon, the only murder with which he is formally charged.

Miscegenation Guilt Is Plea

cember that Hamilton had a brother there.

At the trial, which was originally scheduled for March 10, Judge Keister asked Hamilton if he intended to leave Virginia. Messick said his client would leave immediately.

Asked if the couple intend to be reunited, Messick told a reporter for The Washington Post that he does not "know of any change in their attitude."

After her husband was arrested on a warrant sworn out by her mother, Mrs. B. P. Hammond, and jailed at Salem December 23, Mrs. Hamilton said she would wait for her husband "even if he had to serve time."

Messick said today he thought the couple's marriage was automatically void in other States, since it became so in Virginia upon Hamilton's conviction.

Hamilton was arrested in Baltimore by Roanoke County police on the warrant sworn out by his mother-in-law.

Civil Defense Program Given Resources Board

President Truman yesterday assigned to the National Security Resources Board the task of drawing up a program for civil defense—plans for air-raid warning, disaster relief and the like.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal was to have had this activity in the National Military Establishment, but Mr. Truman said he felt it should be handled by civilians.

Judge McMahon

When Judge John Patrick McMahon stepped down from the Municipal Court bench for the last time to meet the Judge of all mankind, he must have done so with a clear conscience. It is the universal testimony of his colleagues on the bench and of lawyers who came before him that Judge McMahon achieved that all-too-rare balance between deep humanity and exacting justice. He never forgot, nor did he allow others—lawyers and the law enforcement officers—to forget that the function of them all is to apply the law justly. Withal, he saw to it that the underdog got the consideration due but often denied him in this world. Judge McMahon served many years faithfully on the Municipal Court, and his death is a loss both to the law and to the community.

Strayer Report

The Strayer report on District of Columbia schools is a direct challenge to Congress. The two District Committees asked for the survey and got an appropriation of $100,000 to finance it. Now that Dr. Strayer and his staff have submitted their report—and it is as thorough in detail as it is broad in approach—what will the Congress do about it? The question can be put very simply in terms of dollars: the House has voted a little over 23 million dollars for the District school system; Dr. Strayer's careful analysis declares that a minimum program of improvement cannot be had for less than about $28,350,000, and that it would be desirable to spend $1,300,000 more.

In a number of ways the recommendations of the Strayer report reinforce proposals previously made by Superintendent Corning and the Board of Education but with the greater authority of an outside staff working for Congress itself. Doubtless the Senate, having the full documentation that the House did not possess on the need for specific expenditures, will show a more constructive attitude.

There is a challenge, of course, to the people of Washington, too. This is to do their voteless best to see that Congress takes the medicine its own doctor has prescribed. The ultimate beneficiaries of whatever Congress provides for the District of Columbia schools are the children. They deserve educational opportunities no better than the children of other communities, to be sure. But the facilities and the quality of teaching personnel here certainly ought not to be inferior just because this city of the seat of Government and its citizens must take what Congress deals out to them.

The major points of the Strayer report are scarcely open to challenge. The salaries of teachers and administrative personnel must be raised. They have fallen far behind the cost of living. New school buildings must be built. The proposed Spingarn high school for Negro students is only the most critical example. Overcrowded classrooms are all but universal. Putting off these needed expenditures is no real saving in the end, for it simply means a further slipping back in the quality and quantity of educational opportunity here. If our Congress doesn't pay, our children will.

Juvenile V. D.

It came as a shock to many people, no doubt, to learn that 2357 cases of venereal infection in children of "school age" were catalogued last year. Actually the number is a relatively small proportion of the total school population. In simplest terms it indicates merely that when any disease is present in the community it recognizes no age barrier. Indeed, syphilis and gonorrhea are primarily diseases of youth.

The 9 per cent decrease in the number of reported cases in 1948 from 1947 seems encouraging. Unfortunately, it probably is less significant than it appears, as only a series of comparable statistics over a five- or ten-year stretch would show a reliable trend. There is nothing to indicate, moreover, that sex experimentation in school-age children was either less or more last year than the year before or than it has been for any year in the past generation. Nor do the figures indicate a frightening moral laxity among school children, since the figures assembled include many children beyond the required 16-year age limit for school attendance.

The answer to venereal disease among the younger generation is not hysterical bemoaning of the fact, but action by all elements in the community. Medical advances in treatment have removed many of the old dissuasives to promiscuity at the same time they have opened the door to the possibility of universal elimination of the disease. The corresponding necessity is sex education through every channel: the home, the school and the church. The need for it is generally recognized, the implementation of it is something no one hastens to take responsibility for. But this is not a problem in which passing the buck can be tolerated. The responsibility is enough to be shared by all, and can be successfully borne only by the united efforts of all.

Forrestal's Successor

Defense Secretary Forrestal's sudden resignation is an occasion for genuine regret. The security organization which he took over as an amorphous mass is beginning to attain shape. With little but his own common sense to guide him, Mr. Forrestal has established a framework for unification. Despite inertia as well as tremendous partisan pressures, he has held the line on such matters as the President's budget. He has watched many of the serious defects he himself had pointed out taken up by the Hoover Commission for correction. He has been the epitome of the selfless public servant in a job that, in its pioneer stages, was too big for any one man.

Mr. Forrestal apparently had weathered the storm of sniping and speculation that arose over him immediately after the election. But, because of his past connections and because his position was at best controversial, he was subjected to continual undercutting and impugning of his motives. Some of the insinuations were reprehensible. Despite his self-applied armor coating, there is no doubt that this spite work hurt him. A lesser man probably would have caved in long since.

In some respects Mr. Forrestal was the victim of his own Frankenstein monster. It was he who, as Secretary of the Navy, strongly opposed real unification, preferring instead the federation principle. But he showed capacity to grow. He came to realize that decentralized powers would not work, and he said so. Some persons criticized him for a reluctance to act when he felt his authority was insufficient. That was evidence of his scrupulous adherence to the law. No one familiar with his efforts could avoid being impressed by both his sincerity of purpose and his broad grasp of the relation of security to the national welfare.

Official Washington has had little chance to see Mr. Forrestal's successor, Louis Johnson, in action the last few years. But Mr. Johnson is not unfamiliar with the problems he will face; as Assistant Secretary of War from 1937 to 1940, he had the job of readying America's defenses at a time when isolationism was rampant. As a lawyer and businessman, he has proved extremely successful—though he probably will want to divorce himself from his directorships in his new post. The fact that he was able to raise money for a despondent Democratic Party before the election evidences a toughness that may serve him in good stead. Mr. Johnson has a great opportunity to take over where Mr. Forrestal left off—to carry out the suggestions of the Hoover Commission and to encourage the unity of thinking that is the foundation for unity of action. The national security will grow if he approaches his job with dispassionate devotion equal to that evidenced by Secretary Forrestal.

Facts On Bikini

During the past few days the public has read that a mock atomic air attack failed to stop a naval task force in the Caribbean war games. A major aircraft carrier was ruled temporarily put out of action, one destroyer was regarded as sunk and other ships as damaged. But, according to Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, the attack was "not a catastrophe," and a carrier task force could not be stopped by the explosion of one atomic bomb if it was "on its toes." Does this mean that the atomic bomb may safely be looked upon as just another weapon?

Because of the confusion that is likely to stem from such a report when it is compared with the devastation wrought in the two bomb tests at Bikini, the detailed Bikini results ought, we believe, to be made public. To be sure, no exact comparison would be possible, for at Bikini ships were massed for test purposes. It was the underwater detonation, rather than the explosion in the air, that caused the major havoc. But is there any reason to believe that an enemy would choose to explode its bomb in the air? The stories of lingering radioactivity 2½ years after the underwater explosion at Bikini raise a serious question whether the people are not being deluded by the reports of relatively mild damage in the Caribbean maneuvers.

Six prominent scientists and industrialists associated with the atomic energy program have urged that the official Bikini findings be made public. Reportedly the Joint Chiefs of Staff have advised that only a small part of the findings need be withheld for security. But, according to Dr. Bradley Dewey, in an article in The Atlantic, the White House has been sitting on the report for more than a year. President Truman has subsequently confirmed that he has the report and has stated that he has personal objections against its release.

This attitude on the part of the President seems to reflect a growing tendency to regard all things atomic as not fit matters for discussion. It is an attitude that can have unfortunate results in promoting apathy, underestimation and ignorance about a force that vitally concerns the people. Unless there are compelling new military reasons why the nonsecret aspects of the report should not be released—and it is hard to imagine what they could be—then the people ought to be told honestly just what did happen at Bikini. As Dr. Harold C. Urey has put it, the security of the United States resides in the intelligence and understanding of the people, and in a democracy "there is much more danger of erring on the side of secrecy than on the side of frankness and information."

Norway Joins Up

Norway really had no choice but to join in the Atlantic treaty discussions at this time. The Soviet offer of a nonaggression pact was no alternative at all. The Swedish obsession with "neutrality" made it useless for Norway to look to her Scandinavian neighbors for security. The ill-considered State Department release of January 15 meant that Norway could expect no military help from this country except by joining in collective defense arrangements with the United States. As for standing alone, unarmed, to be picked off at will by an aggressor, Norway had tried this course in 1940, and had learned her lesson.

Granted that Norway had no choice, the American people will still admire and applaud her courage in taking what must have been a bitterly hard decision. Norway has a common frontier of 122 miles with the Soviet Union. Her Foreign Minister, Dr. Lange, discovered on his Washington visit that some weeks or months must elapse before the Senate could ratify the Atlantic treaty and bring its commitments into effect. Faced with this bleak prospect, the Norwegian government reached its decision calmly and sent a note to Russia which could not, by the wildest stretch of the Communist imagination, be called provocative or unfriendly.

The appearance of the Norwegian Ambassador with the other treaty negotiators yesterday was a historic event. It symbolized a break in the long and cherished unity of the three Scandinavian kingdoms. There is every prospect that Denmark will follow Norway into the treaty, and we suspect that Sweden, too, will ultimately rid herself of a "neutrality" that gives her no protection whatever.

Windbaggery

President Truman does not appear to have improved the outlook for curbing filibusters by coming out for the application of cloture by a simple majority vote. The result is to split the Administration's forces three ways. The majority of the Senate Committee on Rules reported out a resolution that would permit the Senate to limit debate at any time by a two-thirds vote. Majority Leader Lucas proposes that such limitation be imposed by a majority of the entire Senate. The President thinks a majority vote of those who happen to be present would be enough. Without any advance meeting of minds among Administration leaders on this important issue, there is danger of confusion as to both strategy and objective.

As a practical matter, the Administration will be fortunate to get Senate Rule XXII amended so that debate on any measure, motion or other pending matter can be terminated by a two-thirds vote. We think there are strong arguments in favor of letting a constitutional majority make such decisions, but the Senate is notoriously conservative in regard to limitation on debate. The present fight is directly centered upon the Hayden-Wherry resolution for cloture by a two-thirds vote.

Some hopes for an easy solution grow out of the assumption that Vice President Barkley will overturn the Vandenberg ruling of last year and hold that debate on the present motion is subject to limitation under the present cloture rule. But this is a slender reed to lean on. The Senate might sustain Mr. Barkley in such a ruling, and if it did so the present filibuster could be broken. It would still be necessary, however, to change the rule to prevent future filibusters, for the supposed inability of the Senate to curb debate on motions to take up a bill is only one of two loopholes in Rule XXII. All that would be necessary to license a talkfest would be a highly privileged motion to "amend the Journal." Indeed, such a motion was the formula all filibusterers used for more than 20 years.

Let no one suppose, therefore, that this serious defect in our legislative system can be corrected by action of the Senate's presiding officer. The rule itself must be changed, and when that reform has been effected the Senate will have to condition itself to the application of cloture whenever relevant discussion ends and obstructive windbaggery begins.

FARM-WIFE

Before the flaming of the dawn
She's up to put the coffee on,
To set the table, to bake the bread,
To open the door of the chicken-shed,
To rattle the well-chain down, to drop
And draw the bucket to the top.

From kitchen-stoop the farm-wife sees
The dawn flame over the dew-dark trees.

The breakfast done, the bed-quilts laid,
The butter churned in the dooryard shade,
The rooms all swept and the halls between,
The furniture dusted, the dishes clean,
The dinner cooked and the dinner done,
The supper to get, and the wash begun,

Through the honeybee-drone of the afternoon
She washes and whistles a homespun tune.

The dark comes early, comes cool and deep.
When supper is over, when children sleep,
When fingers are weary, when farmers dream,
She scours the crock for the morning cream.
When supper is over, when crickets cry,
When frogs are croaking, when bat-wings fly.

The farm-wife dims a dusky lamp,
At step-worn doorsill stands a spell
To breathe a breath of evening damp,
To watch the stars above the well.

Veterans' Pensions

Certainly our disabled should be adequately cared for; certainly some training or educational benefits should accrue to those young men who were set back a few years in their quest for professional knowledge or education. Certainly, also, if any of our veterans reach age 65 and have no income whatever, a grateful Government should see that they do not sink to the status of paupers. But should this Government obligate itself to pay a healthy pension to approximately one fourth of its present voting population simply because they performed services which they were duty bound and morally obligated to perform in any event?

If we must make some adjustment to care for our deserving veterans, then let us enact into law provisions which would set, let us say, $100 monthly as an adequate pension at age 65 for any veteran who has no other income; let us then subtract from that figure any social security benefits which the veteran is receiving, and let us subtract also any labor retirement fund benefits. No pension should be paid nondisabled veterans in any case where income from any source reaches or exceeds $100 monthly. VETERAN.

I must take exception to the syndicated cartoon on veterans' pensions published February 26. Have you visited a veteran's hospital lately and do the boys in traction and wheel chairs remind you of an overstuffed sow bleeding the public?

I am the widow of a World War I veteran who has battled against all odds for many years to bring up my children and keep a home together.

If the Rankin bill displeases Congress let's have another one less expensive, but not a political football (veterans vs. Congress) and please no more pigs or sows to represent veterans or their fatherless children.

TVA Personnel System

Recently in another Washington newspaper there was a very fine account of the way the personnel system of the TVA is operating as described by TVA's personnel director. But it is too obvious that such a source of information is not likely to be a critical and complete account.

Aside from the question of what is actually happening under the TVA personnel system, how valid is it to consider TVA a test for a personnel recruitment system applicable to the entire Federal service?

There has been no change in party since TVA was established so we do not know what would happen to TVA personnel with a change of political power, with recruitment open.

The TVA is confined to a few States, so that such political pressure for patronage as there might be would be confined to only a few Congressmen.

The area in which it is located is largely single-party area, and in Tennessee (where there is actual interparty competition) Senator McKellar subjected Mr. Lilienthal to a raking over the coals. Senator McKellar's attitude toward Mr. Lilienthal was derived from the latter's resistance to political cooperation in Tennessee with TVA jobs. The open and competitive civil service system is sparing many officials the kind of treatment which Mr. Lilienthal received.

The nature of the program TVA carries out is unusually resistant to the use of underqualified persons. The intangible governmental programs which are so abundant do not have this check against careless recruitment.

The open and competitive system of recruitment was established to open public employment to all qualified citizenry, and to hire the most able among such qualified on the basis of competition. That is not a negative program as some would pretend, but a positive system for hiring the most competent. It might be very desirable that the exams used be better, and that the standards ought to be raised, or that the passing mark might be raised to something like 80 per cent. But we should aim to improve the open and competitive system, and not abandon it.

"Affection"

On February 25 in connection with a story on Founder's Day at the American University you used a photograph showing students looking at a piece of sculpture displayed at the Watkins Gallery of the art department. The sculpture was not identified in the caption, and because this important piece is on loan to us through the generosity of the sculptor, we would appreciate your publishing this letter. The piece, entitled "Affection," is a bronze by William Zorach, one of the foremost living American sculptors.

"Our Teachers"

The Elementary Classroom Teachers Association wishes to thank The Washington Post for its editorial "Our Teachers" published February 27. We deeply appreciate the warm support given to teachers at a time when the question of a $330 salary increase is being considered by the District Committee of the House.

People living in Washington, D. C., can readily sympathize with the efforts of teachers to obtain the same general raise granted to Federal employes and recommended for other District workers, for they know what cost of living increases have done to wages! Teachers have received a 46.7 per cent increase in average salary over a period of 10 years from 1939-49, while living costs have mounted to 70 per cent.

It is hoped that the full District Committee of the House will report favorably on a $330 raise for teachers, retroactive to July 1, 1948. Money is always found for services vital to our Nation and providing competent teachers for our children is an essential.

"I Am The State"

Throughout the campaign last fall editors and newspaper columnists were telling us that Mr. Truman is a weak, ineffectual man, with no capacity for leadership. Now, in your February 26 comment on his Jackson Day dinner speech, you say he is displaying dictatorial tendencies. I do wish you editors would make up your minds as to what to tell us, so the American people will know what to think.

Franco's Cruelty

In your issue of February 26, Manuel Maestro, press attache of the Spanish Embassy, attempts to reply to my statement (in my letter dated February 9) that in the offices of the Post-War World Council as well as of the Socialist Party "we have received apparently well established complaints of horrible cruelty practiced by Franco's police and courts against workers suspected of challenging his dictatorial rule."

Most of Senor Maestro's reply is irrelevant. He quotes the American correspondent, Constantine Brown, to the effect that there are no concentration camps in Spain. He argues that Franco is anti-Communist and is hated by Communists. True enough, but so was Hitler.

For the rest, Franco's apologist curiously distorts history. The Spanish dictator came to power in a bloody rebellion in which both sides were guilty of cruelty. He did not get power by the blessing of the Pope in December, 1948, to which Senora Maestro refers, or by the later blessing of the Chase National Bank in 1949, to which he does not refer. He owes his position to the military support of those enemies of mankind, Mussolini and Hitler.

He holds power by methods possibly a little less cruel but otherwise identical with those employed by the Communists in Hungary. He justifies them by precisely the same reasoning, namely, that every enemy of his regime must be a traitor in the service of some other government.

Here are some of the particular crimes to which I referred. On May 21, 1948, 22 Spanish miners were taken from their homes in Asturia by Franco's special brigades of the civil guards. They were accused of being members of the miners' union and Socialist sympathizers. They were thrown into a natural well at Pozu Fumere, drenched with gasoline and dynamited. I have the names and family histories of nine of these men sent out at great risk through the underground.

On February 7, 1948, a military tribunal, according to a United Press dispatch, sentenced three men to 30 years in prison solely "for anarchist affiliations" and condemned to death" for anarchist activities" Enrique Marcos Nadal, holder of French and British decorations for gallantry in the resistance movement of France where he was a refugee. It would appear that Franco, despite the blessing of the Pope, the Chase National Bank and Eric Johnston, is still so unloved by his people that he cannot even permit alleged foes of his regime to receive a proper civil trial.

That very able foreign correspondent, Homer Bigart, in four articles in the New York Herald Tribune (February 1-4, 1949) documents his charges that the mentality of Spanish leaders is little changed since the war; that there is little freedom for minority religious groups; that "the Protestant in Spain remains a second class citizen;" that the press is rigidly curbed; that thousands of men and women are on "watched liberty;" and that other thousands "have been deported to remote provinces."

Once more I urge that the Pope would have greater moral weight in his righteous campaign against" Communist injustice were he to recommend to Franco those standards of justice and tolerance which he urges upon Hungarian officials. It is not enough that Franco should be, in Mr. Bigart's opinion, "less repressive than the Reds." Not on this poor basis will Communist aggression be overcome.

Loose Talk Of Hard Times

By Malvina Lindsay

Economic Peril

A COURSE of lectures on "How to Behave in a Declining Economy" might well be given those jittery Americans who in drug stores and car pools, at men's smokers and women's luncheons, are bandying tales in ominous tones of approaching "hard times."

For a spreading hysteria of economic fear could turn the inevitable descent from the mountain peak of inflation into at least a temporary rout. This could well lead the wishfully thinking Soviet Union to believe that the long expected United States depression had arrived, and it could inspire the Kremlin to more aggressive action in the cold war.

Some of this ominous talk, some of this tight-lipped shaking of heads, is political. Some is promoted by interests seeking to influence legislation. But much of it is irresponsible chatter, often colored by frightening memories of the 1930's.

In it taxi drivers, liquor dealers, peanut venders, who say business has slowed up are quoted widely as economic authorities. Layoffs or "economy waves" by firms down the street or in the next town become bigger with each telling. In many women's groups there is long-faced quoting of husbands' dire prophecies, which seem to get more dire with each repetition.

NONE OF these chatterers bothers to ascertain the specific figures or nature of the layoffs or business declines he or she is retailing. None bothers to appraise the present condition of the economy, the continuing high level of national income, the still near-record employment, the production required to meet the demands of the European Recovery Program, the effects on employment of the armament program.

This illustrates how we are yet in the kindergarten stage of the responsible economic citizenship needed as a democratic alternative to increasing Government control. When we were riding up on the boom, economists pleaded for restrained spending to keep prices down. People were also warned there would be an inevitable shaking down later, and that should a real depression eventually loom they should be ready to spend judiciously their boomtime savings to keep the economy stable.

This would seem little enough to ask in warding off what could well be the main road to war, but, one wonders, how many citizens would rise to such a pocketbook challenge to patriotism?

AS YET there is no demand for such spending. Many prices are still inflated, and cautious spending and price resistance may help bring them into line. Recently the economist of one of the country's biggest department stores declared people would have to be given more for their money. He said better quality more than lower prices was what consumers generally wanted.

So far manufacturers have tended to cut production rather than prices, and have not competed much with each other in quality, declaring high costs made prewar quality impossible. And for all the talk of a buyers' market returning, few consumers have noted it in the service they receive. Insufficient and untrained salespeople prevail generally.

Good could come from the present shakedown trend—if it brought adjustment of some prevailing inflationary prices and if it did not get out of hand. Consumers, especially women who do most of the buying, have great responsibility at this critical time of economic readjustment. They can continue to buy thriftily and cautiously and to demand the quality and service they should have. But should consumers under a fear psychosis get too parsimonious, they might bring about a business drop that would boomerang on their own employment and prosperity. The basic step lies in stopping the depression jitters engendered by loose talk.

"Rathole" Debunked

Millions of Americans have been propagandized into a belief in a Chinese "rathole," down which "billions" of American dollars have disappeared.

As contrasted with 63 billion in wartime and postwar aid to Europe, China has received about three billions. (Editor's Note—The 63 billion dollars cited as aid to Europe includes lend-lease and does not take account of reverse lend-lease.)

The three billion spread over China's wartime and postwar life of 11 years means roughly 60 cents annually for each Chinese. Certainly not much money wherewith to stop the Communist armies, armed with the equipment of nearly 600,000 Japanese soldiers who surrendered to the Russians in Manchuria; nor enough to bolster the economy of war-shattered China proper against the highly flourishing Japanized economy and arsenal represented in Manchuria.

Moreover, for every cent of American money spent on its citizenry, the Chinese government had to spend at least a like amount to repair the destructive ravages of the Communists—the true "rats" who have gnawed at the heart of China's political and economic integration for 20 years. ERNEST T. NASH.

Washington Calling

Big Job For Johnson

THE DEPARTURE of James Forrestal as Secretary of Defense had been the subject of speculation for so long that his usefulness was pretty well impaired. But even before the speculation began Forrestal was faced with an impossible situation.

Childs

He had failed to resolve the increasingly bitter and prolonged dispute between the Army, Navy and Air Force. Whether he had the power to resolve it under the Unification Act is debatable. Forrestal thought he didn't have.

But the fact remains that the dispute was allowed to go to extraordinary lengths, impeding the whole defense-security program. Major decisions simply were not made.

In the course of the long service feud, within the Joint Chiefs of Staff and at every other level, Forrestal was regarded by the Army and Air Force as a Navy man. The other two services considered the decisions he did make as favorable, invariably, to the Navy.

A great deal of the controversy centered around a very large and costly bone of contention—the Navy's supercarrier to be named the U. S. S. United States. Air Force planners have from the first regarded the giant carrier as an opening wedge by the Navy to invade the field of strategic air power.

When the U. S. S United States was first announced more than a year ago, its estimated cost was 125 million dollars. The Navy estimate today is 188 million dollars. The latter figure, according to the Navy, includes ordnance.

WITHIN the Air Force they insist that at least another 30 million dollars must be added for equipment. Furthermore, they say that bomber planes big enough to carry the atomic bomb must be designed entirely from scratch if they are to land on the deck of even a giant carrier.

That is the crux of the argument. The Navy argues the great mobility of planes launched from a floating base—the aircraft carrier. In this way all strategic areas in Soviet Russia are within range of the atom bomb.

The Air Force is convinced that the U. S. S. United States would be the target for thousands of fighter planes once an enemy believed it carried atomic bombs. Furthermore, they argue that the cost is not 188 million dollars nor 225 million dollars but closer to a billion dollars, since the U. S. S. United States would inevitably have to be provided with a costly screen of destroyer escorts, submarines and so on.

Forrestal's successor, Louis A. Johnson, comes to this very difficult assignment with a background of three years—from 1937 to 1940—as Assistant Secretary of War. That can be a help, in that it has given him a lot of experience, and it can be a handicap in raising suspicions in advance as to his objectivity.

THE HOPE among service men in the Pentagon, and this went for the Army, too, was for appointment of a man with no prior attachments to one branch or the other. Often mentioned was Karl T. Compton, the noted scientist recently appointed head of the Research and Development Board to succeed Vannevar Bush, wartime chairman of that important agency.

If persistence means anything, Johnson should do well in his new job. As was told in this space some time ago, Johnson has campaigned relentlessly to be appointed Defense Secretary. He and numerous friends have pressed his claim on the President.

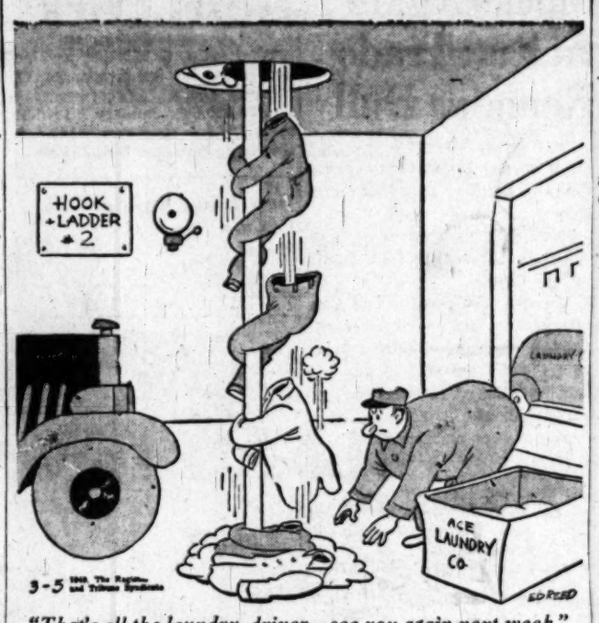

That claim, politically speaking, is a real one. Johnson agreed in the middle of the campaign last fall to serve as finance chairman for the Democrats when no one else would take on what seemed to be a hopeless task. He agreed on the stipulation that he first have a private talk with the President and what was said at that talk has been kept a secret by the two men.

In a forthright and hard-boiled way Johnson went out to get the money for his starving party. He was amazingly successful, the contributions including generous gifts, according to rumor, from certain large corporations. In private life Johnson is a lawyer with a large income from a practice which takes in considerable activity in Washington.

Johnson has loyal friends, who admire his capacities, as well as bitter enemies. In the narrow sense at least this is a political appointment. The President has given a vital post to a party man who served him well in a time of dire need. Therefore, Johnson will be under particularly close scrutiny. The public and Congress will want to know whether he has the essential statesmanship as well as political loyalty.

Centralization

By Mark Sullivan

Fears On The Anti-Poll Tax Bill

IN THE process by which a people are enabled to arrive at a common public opinion and course of action, an important agency is the voices of leaders. But the people themselves must have standards of judgment by which to evaluate the voices they hear.

Sullivan

In evaluating contemporary voices, one that commends itself strongly is that of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower. He just now has two positions, to both of which he was called because of unique and elevated qualities recognized in him. For an emergency he is serving the Department of National Defense in a function which few men could perform as well—presiding officer of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Permanently, he is president of Columbia University, selected for that post by persons whose responsibility was to get high equipment for the guidance of youth.

From the time General Eisenhower ended his military service in Europe, it has been increasingly recognized that he has equipment for public service in fields additional to military, that he has understanding of principles of government and society. One principle he holds is that the President should not be a military man. But for firm adherence to that principle, General Eisenhower might be President today. Democrats who doubted Mr. Truman's qualifications tried almost desperately to persuade General Eisenhower to accept the nomination. And there was a formidable movement by Republicans to nominate him as the candidate of that party.

GENERAL Eisenhower the other day, addressing preparatory and high school student leaders at the Columbia Forum of Democracy, warned of a danger. He described it as "a creeping paralysis . . . a readiness to accept paternalistic measures by the Government and along with these paternalistic measures coming a surrender of our own responsibilities and, therefore, a surrender of our own thought over our own lives . . ."

"If," General Eisenhower warned, "we allow this constant drift toward centralized bureaucratic government to continue . . . there will be a swarming of bureaucrats over the land. Ownership of property will gradually drift into that central government and finally you have to have dictatorship as the only means of operating such a huge organization . . . It is things such as that we must watch today."

General Eisenhower's warning was in general terms. It was against a broad trend. If someone were to make specific application of the warning to the many proposals for economic and social change which President Truman has sent to Congress, more than half the proposals would be rejected.

One among Mr. Truman's proposals would work with special force toward centralized government. This is the proposal that State poll taxes as a qualification for voting be abolished by act of Congress.

THE PRIMARY and indispensable requisite of centralized government is to weaken local government. The poll-tax measure asserts that Congress has power to take away from the States their right to fix their own qualifications for voting for President, Vice President and members of Congress. The right to fix voting qualifications is perhaps the most fundamental power a State has. If that power is taken away, the very principle of Statehood is undermined.

The principle involved, or the violation of principle, applies to every State, and also to every kind of voting qualification. If Congress takes the poll-tax qualification from a few Southern States, it thereby asserts that it can take from every State any of the many qualifications which States have; a familiar example is the length-of-residence qualification.

When Southern Senators resist the poll tax measure, it is not merely for the sake of the poll tax. That qualification is increasingly disapproved in the South, and some States have abolished it themselves. (Incidentally, the poll tax does not involve race discrimination; on this point there is widespread misconception.) The resistance is for all the States, for the right of every State to fix its own qualifications. It is for a principle, the rights and integrity of all States, their very existence as units of government.

The resistance is against a danger, centralized government, carrying threats of becoming totalitarian government. This danger is recognized as inherent in many of the proposals for economic and social change which President Truman has demanded that Congress enact. The breadth and imminence of that danger justifies the resistance to the poll tax measure. If the resistance makes use of the Senate tradition against limitation of debate, the very existence of that tradition implies justification. The founding of the tradition and the preservation of it for a century and a half must have had a reason.

No Cut Prices, Liquor Firm Warns Dealers

A warning against price-cutting has been given in two letters sent to local retail liquor dealers by a Washington distributor who implied he would refuse to sell his national brands to those who sold below a standard price or advertised them, it was revealed yesterday.

The first of the letters sent out by Forman Bros. Inc., 1460 Okie st. ne., dated February 18, reads in part:

". . . Our business would be improved if all retailers in the area had more equal opportunity to present our merchandise to the public.

". . . We will sell our merchandise to you only if you refrain from advertising our products . . ."

The other letter, dated February 26, similar in content says in part:

"Please note our requested resale prices. This represents a new policy on our part . . . effective immediately and until further notice we will sell merchandise to you only if you resell at prices not lower than our requested resale prices . . ."

Former Head Of Stockade Is Acquitted

Fort Meade, Md., March 4 (AP).—Col. Harold H. McClune, former commander of an Army prison camp in Germany, was acquitted today of charges of neglect of duty and inhumane treatment of inmates.

The seven-man court martial board delivered 20 minutes. Three of McClune's subordinates previously had been cleared of the charges in separate court martials.

Four enlisted men at the Wurzburg rehabilitation center complained they suffered frostbite while prisoners last year. One of them, Pvt. Joseph Suggs, blamed the cold for amputation of his feet when he was flown back to America.

The colonel, who was recalled from retirement in San Antonio, Tex., testified he believed the men purposely inflicted injury on themselves "to take it easy" in the infirmary.

He admitted the cell block was cold. After an inspection, he testified, he ordered pot-bellied stoves installed.

Lieut. Col. William C. Fitzhugh, the prosecutor, was halted in his final argument by Brig. Gen. Edwin A. Zundel, president of the board.

"You can give Suggs a pension all the rest of his life, but you can't give him back his feet," Fitzhugh was saying. "Three men have already been acquitted, but isn't someone responsible? The eyes of the country are on this trial——"

Zundel interrupted the judge advocate and snapped, "That is uncalled for."

Fitzhugh apologized.

The principal defense argument was that Colonel McClune's duties were so numerous he was able to devote only about one third of his time to the prison stockade.

Named for Promotion

Maj. Gen. Edward Hale Brooks, director of Army personnel and administration, was nominated by President Truman yesterday for promotion to the temporary rank of lieutenant general.

Educators Urge Pooling Of Resources

Roanoke, Va., March 4 (AP).—Increasing financial strain on colleges and universities keynoted talks before the annual meeting of the Association of Virginia Colleges at Hotel Roanoke.

Colgate W. Darden, jr., president of the University of Virginia, said hundreds of deserving and capable boys and girls are being deprived of college educations because they cannot afford the tuition.

Virginia's former governor told fellow educators a partial answer may lie in establishment of junior colleges in centers of population. At least this would afford many boys and girls two years of college.

In a dinner address last night Millard F. Caldwell, former Governor of Florida, said Southern States should pool their resources in education. He is president of the Regional Council for Education.

By pooling their resources and working together the Southern States could create the finest system of higher education anywhere in the world, he said.

The Southern States, and for that matter no State, has the financial resources to supply all the needs of education, the former Governor told the college administrators.

Child Training In VD Dangers Called Failure

Home, school and church still are "falling down" on the job of teaching children how to avoid venereal disease, a District Social Hygiene Society spokesman said yesterday.

Reporting to the society board, Ray H. Everett, executive secretary, again urged that school authorities broaden health and physical education programs to aid in stamping out venereal disease.

"Syphilis and gonorrhea are and always have been largely 'diseases of youth,'" said Everett.

He said children should be informed about the facts and perils of venereal disease in the same accurate, scientific, impersonal way in which they are told about tuberculosis, blindness and other health hazards.

"The police and health departments," Everett said, "are working energetically and successfully to repress commercial prostitution and to diagnose, treat and cure the venereal diseases. These fine efforts, however, are salvaging projects.

"The three great forces of guidance and prevention—home, school and church—still are falling down on the preventive job. Until these three character-developing agencies are able to train children and young people to avoid sexual promiscuity we will continue to have a host of children heading for doctors' offices, clinics and the Rapid Treatment Center."

Teachers Eye Girl Students As Part of Job

Boston, March 4 (U.P.).—The drudgery of checking examination papers was lightened for some Boston University professors today by the added duty of examining girl students who wrote them.

The professors with the eye-opening job were men assigned to full or part-time courses at the university's College of Physical Education for Women.

Instead of maintaining an aloof, eyes-off-attitude, the teachers were encouraged to scan the hips, chest, and legs of the students, in and out of class.

The idea came from a woman instructor, Miss Anne Millan, who suggested a "posture week."

She figured that if the girls wanted to teach physical education, they should first learn how to stand, sit and walk properly. As result, 475 girls were given tags and a competition started among classes.

Every time a girl is caught slumping or slouching or waddling, she loses her tag. The class finishing the week with the most tags wins, and the teachers are the judges.

Clay Approves Sentences of 13 Farben Directors

Berlin, March 4 (AP). — Gen. Lucius D. Clay approved today prison sentences of from 18 months to eight years for the directors of the great I. G. Farben Industries Chemical Trust. An American court convicted them of war crimes in July.

They were found guilty of plundering property in countries overrun by Germany and taking part in the German slave labor program.

Of 23 executives indicted, 10 were acquitted of all charges.

Clay, upheld these sentences:

Otto Ambros, technical expert at Auschwitz, and Walter Duerrfeld, eight years; Fritz ter Meer, seven years; Carl Krauch, chairman of the board and a leader of Hermann Goering's Four Year Plan, and Heinrich Buetefisch, six years; George von Schnitzler, vice chairman of the board, five years; Former Chairman Hermann Schmitz, four years; Max Ilgner, three years; Ernest Buergin, Heinrich Oster and Paul Haffliger, two years; Friedrich Jaehne and Hans Kugler, 18 months.

Haefliger, Ilgner, Jaehne, Kugler and Oster were freed because they had been interned that long.

Senate Will Be Put on Record In Cloture Fight, Lucas Says

can) viewpoint from the beginning."

Later Lucas charged that some Republicans" want to "get it the spit" on the cloture issue by having the whole thing called off.

"Some Republicans who have been so interested in the past in shutting off debate will have an opportunity to express themselves when the cloture petition is filed—and it will be filed," he said.

"Twenty-six Republicans who having signed cloture petitions in the last two years will have a chance to tell the country whether they meant what they said."

(A check of cloture petitions filed on anti-poll tax bills on July 29, 1946 and August 2, 1948 showed that 19 Republicans still in the Senate had signed on or the other.)

Fulbright was slated to speak when the Senate convened at noon but did not have to talk the floor until 3:37 p. m. Speeches by other Senators unrelated to the filibuster, on everything from the Atlantic Pact to Pulaski day, and three long quorum calls consumed the balance of the time.

The Arkansas Democrat finally yielded the floor at 6:0 p. m., but only on agreement that he be recognized again to continue his speech when the Senate meets at noon today. Lucas recessed the Senate at 6:02 p. m. He told the Senate today's session won't last more than four hours.

Fulbright likened the fight over Senate rules to President Roosevelt's Supreme Court "packing" battle. He argued it wasn't just a matter of clearing the way for civil rights bills but of "changing the whole structure of the Senate."

He twitted Lucas on the failure of Senators interested in the rules change to stay on the floor and the many quorum calls—once it took 42 minutes to produce a quorum.

"This is a program to educate the people in the Senate," said Fulbright.

"How long will it take you to educate the American people?" asked Lucas.

Fulbright said it may take a long time unless proponents of the change "stay here and expose themselves to information."

Lucas said every Southerner knows how he will vote—that they weren't "educating" the Senate at all but "taking the time of the Senate to hold up orderly processes."

Senator Charley W. Tobey (R., N. H.) hopped into the argument to say he was "sick to death of this piddling stuff . . . kid stuff . . . talking, talking, talking . . . drool, drool, drool."

"When do we vote?" he demanded.

"When the members of the Senate have nothing further to say," replied Fulbright.

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) remarked that it would be "unconstitutional" to make Senators stay on the floor and listen "because it would be cruel and unusual punishment."

New Air Route Through D.C. Starts Monday

The first route in All-American Airways recently autorized short-hop regional service over 2000 miles in seven States and the District of Columbia will start operation Monday morning.

This route, to be served by the company's specially designed 24-passenger planes, will be the Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh run, via Frederick, Hagerstown, Md.; Martinsburg, W. Va.; Cumberland, Md., and Connellsville-Uniontown, Pa.

There will be two flights each way daily. A third flight will operate every day except Sundays and holidays.

The company said six other routes will come into operation later in the spring.

J. Walter Thompson Co. Head Wins Advertising Gold Medal

New York, March 4 (Spl.).—Stanley Resor, president of J. Walter Thompson Co., tonight received the annual Advertising Awards Gold Medal for "distinguished service to advertising."

Presentation of the medal was by Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of The Washington Post, at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Meyer pointed out that as our country rose to world leadership in mass production and mass markets, national advertising became essential.

"The national advertising agencies have had the job," said Meyer, "of showing how mass manufacturing could produce and distribute products more efficiently. Better production has required better selling to obtain the advantages of the economies of mass production.

"The end result has been that we have by far the highest standard of living in the world."

Meyer said that Resor has for more than 30 years headed a firm that has taken a leading part in the selling and distribution of our mass-produced goods.

"His company," said Meyer, "is one of a group of whom the Nation may well feel proud. These advertising firms have done much more than help to develop our industry on a scale that makes our Nation the great source of material supplies to save the world from tyranny."

In his tribute to Resor, Meyer said he has made a "distinguished success," and is a man "of modest personality, hard working, of course," who has inspired his associates "by his leadership in thought and action."

He told the dinner audience that Resor also works hard as a member of the board of no less than seven important social welfare institutions, among them the Blue Cross, the United Hospital Fund, Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, and the Eye Bank.

Booming Sales Here Contrast With U.S. Drop

By S. Oliver Goodman

Continued aggressive promotion is keeping Washington department store sales well above last year's level, while the rest of the country is showing a sharp decline.

This was indicated last night in the latest Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond report which showed local store sales in the week ended February 26 were 16 per cent improved over the same 1948 week.

Nationally, retail sales dropped 7 per cent in the same period. Baltimore displayed a slump of 13 per cent and other cities in the Fifth Federal Reserve District averaged 17 per cent lower.

Accounting for the big sales increase here during the week ended February 26 was the active advertising for the special Washington Birthday bargain sales. Merchants reported all records shattered for that special event with dollar volume up from 12 to 48 per cent for individual stores. Crowds equaled or bettered the Christmas holiday rush, some merchants reported.

Commenting on the sales surge here, one merchant said: "It proves that there is still plenty of money to buy right-priced merchandise if you let the public know about it."

For the four weeks ended February 26, local store sales were reported 9 per cent heavier than in the corresponding 1948 period. In the same period, dollar volume throughout the country averaged 5 per cent lower. Baltimore showed a 7 per cent slump and other cities in the Fifth Federal Reserve District displayed an 11 per cent plunge.

ESSO CHANGES: Edwin R. Smith, merchandising manager of the local sales division of the Esso Standard Oil Co., has been promoted to assistant general sales manager of the Carter Oil Co. with headquarters at Denver. Succeeding Smith will be W. F. Spath, former Esso Washington district manager. Other Esso changes include the promotions of J. McD. Price from district manager at Hagerstown, Md., to the same position in Washington; W. B. Cooper from assistant district manager at Washington to district manager of Hagerstown, and C. E. Heim of Baltimore to assistant district manager at Washington.

PROGRESS: Lawyers' Title Insurance Corp. of Richmond showed an increase of $968,730 in surplus and reserves during 1948, accordindg to J. C. Coppinger, manager of the Washington branch office. Capital, surplus and reserves at end of 1948 aggregated $4,747,285 and assets totaled $5,540,778, he added.

SALES COURSE: The Washington Advertising Club will start its fourth annual course in sales promotion and advertising on March 7. Among the speakers will be T. S. Repplier, president of The Advertising Council, Inc.; R. M. Oliver, merchandising consultant; David Arons of Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia; William Baring-Gould, Time magazine's circulation promotion manager; G. A. Phillips, advertising manager of Cluett, Peabody & Co., and Milton Biow, of the company bearing his name. At the conclusion of each meeting Donald Bernard, advertising director of The Washington Post, will act as chairman during a question and answer period.

NEW OFFICERS: Two new officers have abeen elected by the Realty Title Insurance Co. of Washington. George L. Boswell, jr., is the new assistant secretary and Thomas W. Hunt the new assistant treasurer. Moses J. Wright was reelected president of the firm, which is celebrating its fiftieth birthday. Directors declared a 5 per cent dividend on capital stock of record February 28.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: J. J. O'Donovan of Washington, former vice president of Capital Airlines, has been appointed executive assistant by Great Lakes Carbon Corp. . . . Charles S. Jarmon is the new comptroller of Virginia Metal Products Corp. of Orange, Va., succeeding J. Hay Taylor . . . W. F. Hinderscheid has been named vice president of Lee Tire & Rubber Co. in charge of sales . . . John E. Kusik was appointed vice president for accounting by Chesapeake & Ohio Railway . . . Eric A. Johnston has been elected a director of McCormick & Co., Inc.

Stocks Again In Rut; Trade Remains Dull

New York, March 4 (AP).—The stock market remained stuck fast today in the grip of traders' caution.

Price changes were mostly fractional and gains and losses almost evenly divided.

Turnover amounted to only 730,000 shares, a step above yesterday's 600,000 (the second lowest figure of the year) but still nothing for business-starved brokers to get excited about.

Prices were marked down a bit over a wide front during the first hour and stayed there until late in the session. Buying interest—never aggressive—expanded a trifle and many early losses changed into gains.

Several issues responded to news specifically affecting them. Amerada Petroleum, for instance, jumped 4⅛ to 95¾ after a report that the company made what might be an important oil discovery in New Mexico.

And Robert Reis prior preferred cracked 2⅜ to 5½, a new low for 1948-49, on word that directors took no action on a dividend due at this time. On the Curb the company's common stock was halved, closing at ⅝ with a loss of ⅝.

By and large, traders were in no mood for action, although what they were waiting for was a little fuzzy even to the financial experts. The opinion is gaining ground that the market is on the verge of breaking out of its rut, and most brokers lean to the theory that the break will be upward.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .1 of one point to 62.6. The utility and rail components were unchanged and the industrial group a shade lower.

Carlin Quits As MBS Aide

New York, March 4 (AP).—One of the veterans of radio, Phillips Carlin, resigned today as vice president of the Mutual Broadcasting System in charge of programs.

Edgar Kobak, MBS president, said, "It is with deep regret that I am acceding to Mr. Carlin's wishes in accepting his resignation to take effect this month."

No reason was given for the resignation. Carlin said only that Kobak's statement "spoke for itself" and he had no comment. He likewise said he had no comments as to his plans for the future.

The resignation follows by three days a special meeting of the board of directors of the network at Chicago. Trade publications said directors were critical of the network's program setup and policies.

It was the second resignation of a high level MBS official in little more than three months. Robert L. Swezey resigned as vice president and general manager of the network December 1 and recently became executive vice president of Station WDSU in New Orleans.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, March 4 (AP).—A rally in the last few minutes of trading left grains with modest gains at the close today. The rally followed news the Government plans to buy some grain for export in the 1949-50 crop year from 1948-49 crop year stocks.

For the most part the rally, which got under way less than 10 minutes before the close, came from buying on the part of previous short sellers. Final prices in many cases were at or only slightly under the day's best. Before the late advance the market had drifted lower.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ higher, corn was ⅛-⅞ higher, oats were unchanged to ¼ higher, rye was unchanged, soybeans were ½ lower to ½ higher, and lard was unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The Agriculture Department did not say how much grain for next year's export program would be bought in this crop year, which ends on June 30 for wheat. An unnamed official was quoted as saying it might be around 50 million bushels.

In addition, about 70 million bushels of wheat and flour need to be bought to fill this year's goals. Thus, the department may be in the market for around 125 million bushels between now and June 30. However, traders said the Government has bought nearly 30 million bushels of wheat in the past week without causing any sharp price advance.

Idle Total Hits Postwar Peak Of 3,200,000

By The Associated Press

Unemployment hit 3,200,000 in February, the highest since the war. Nevertheless, the number of people at work was greater than in any previous February in history.

The Census Bureau reported a net increase of 550,000 in the jobless, compared with January. But it said the 57,168,000 persons at work topped the previous February employment record, set last year, by almost 30,000.

The chief reason for this seeming paradox is that the "labor force" has grown. The labor force includes both persons at work and those seeking work.

The bureau said that part of the rise in unemployment was due to bad weather, part to "nonseasonal" layoffs in dustry.

The bureau went on to say:

"In spite of substantial increases in recent months, unemployment in February was still low relative to prewar levels.

Only 1 in 20 Unemployed

"As late as 1941, for example, unemployment averaged 5,500,000, and about 1 out of every 10 persons in the civilian labor force was unemployed. In February, 1949, the comparable proportion was only 1 out of 20."

This balancing of the good and bad aspects of the employment picture followed Administration reassurances that the business outlook is nothing to get alarmed about. On the contrary, Government officials from the President on down say the current slack is a leveling off process which they predict will be followed by a new upsurge in production and general business activity.

Some support for this view came in a report from the Engineering News-Record in New York. It said that construction awards for the first nine weeks of 1949 totaled $1,247,174,000, which was 26 per cent above the total for the same period last year.

March, April May Tell Story

Government job experts have predicted that March and April would bring rather positive signs whether the Nation's economy was headed up or down. At that time they laid special stress on agricultural job totals.

On that score the Census Bureau noted that 233,000 workers were added to the farm lists last month, partly offsetting a drop of nearly 400,000 in nonfarm industries.

If the Government analysts are correct then both the farm and industrial job totals can be expected to rise during the spring.

Another business index was provided by Dun and Bradstreet's report that retail sales remained steady over the past week. Although it said the volume was "slightly" below that of the corresponding week in 1948, it pointed out that Easter was on an earlier date last year—and sales of Easter finery always are counted on to boost retail trade.

Look to Next Week's Figures

Federal Reserve Board officials, meanwhile, looked to next week for dollars-and-cents answer to the question of whether its easing of installment credit terms will result in increased sales on the time plan.

The Boston Reserve Bank had this to say on the current lag:

"Let's assume you are a typical customer. It is logical to surmise that the total of your installment obligations for housing, insurance, automobiles, home appliances and other equipment purchases are at or near their postwar peak.

"In addition, you may have read about losses in weekly earnings or may have experienced a loss yourself.

"You probably have reconsidered some of your plans and have decided to wait and see what happens. You quite likely had less unassigned income to spend and are cleaning up some of your obligations before assuming new ones.

"It may be that we have been going through a breathing spell for consumers."

The bank's monthly review did not say so but it might have added this factor to consumer resistance—that March 15 date you have with the tax collector.

Wheat Accord Near, With 20c Cut in Price

A new international wheat agreement is near, officials of the International Wheat Conference indicated last night, at lower prices than provided in the agreement Congress turned down a year ago.

A proposal has been made by a group of exporters, including the United States, for a four-year contract as follows: Maximum price $1.80 a bushel for all four years, with a minimum of $1.50 this year; $1.40 the second; $1.30 the third and $1.20 the last year.

The price proposal is dependent upon the buying nations agreeing to take 550 million bushels of wheat a year, in place of 500 million as formerly.

The agreement would cost the United States a considerable sum. This year's support price of wheat averages about $2.02 a bushel—considerably above the maximum allowed in the proposal. Cash wheat closed last night at around $2.28 a bushel.

Last year's proposal was for a maximum price of $2 a bushel for five years, with minimum prices ranging from $1.50 the first year to $1.10 the fifth year of the agreement.

There are six countries with wheat to sell: United States, Canada, Russia, Australia, France and Uruguay. Last year only the first three were listed as exporting countries; France was listed as a buying country.

Action on the proposal is expected early next week. Delegates from the 44 importing nations have asked their home governments for advice.

Dr. Charles F. Wilson, chairman of the six exporting nations, said that not all exporters had agreed on the proposal, which, he said, had been advanced by a "considerable element." It was reported that Russia was one of those that didn't agree.

Labor Bill Reported Out

30-day cooling off period while a fact-finding board investigates and recommends settlement.

5. Return of the Conciliation Service, made independent by the Taft-Hartley Act, to the Labor Department.

6. Invalidation of State laws banning the closed shop.

7. Establishment of a public policy so that industry-labor contracts provide for arbitration of disputes stemming from interpretation of the contract."

Among others, the Thomas bill eliminates such Taft-Hartley provisions as the ban on the closed shop, the requirement of an anti-Communist affidavit by union officers, ban on union political spending, ban on all secondary boycotts, a large list of unfair union labor practices, division of power between the National Labor Relations Board and its counsel.

Lining up with Chairman Thomas in the vote to report out the Administration's labor bill were Democratic Senators Murray (Mont.), Pepper (Fla.), Hill (Ala.), Neely (W. Va.), Douglas (Ill.), Humphrey (Minn.), and Withers (Ky.). The five GOP Senators voting against the action were Taft (Ohio), Aiken (Vt.), Smith (N. J.), Morse (Oreg.), and Donnell (Mo.).

In a press conference after the vote, with the entire committee participating, the Republican minority castigated the as-is rush-through vote of the Democratic majority.

Senator Morse, a liberal Republican who fought the Taft-Hartley Act and wants to replace it with a measure of his own, denounced the majority's "iron curtain tactics," as a "disservice to labor." Senator Aiken, also considered a liberal Republican, muttered: "It's a case of might makes right." Smith said he was "shocked." Donnell charged the voting procedure was "unreasonable and improper."

Only Thomas and Senator Pepper defended the majority's action. Pepper said it was apparent that the committee was hopelessly divided on party lines and would vote strictly on such lines for any amendments.

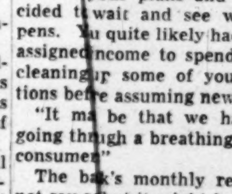

The other Democratic members of the committee offered no comment, and appeared to be grim or unhappy. In the executive session, Douglas reserved the right to file a separate statement with the majority report.

The committee's action came as a surprise. There were indications all week long that the committee would take its time considering the Thomas bill and bring it out after the filibuster debate.

There was even discussion among the Democrats of the committee on the possibility of adding amendments to the Thomas bill in order to pick up votes for it among the Senate Republicans and Southern Democrats. In midweek, Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin paid a social call on the Democratic members of the committee and passed the word that Mr. Truman wanted the bill reported out as is.

Gov. Lane Signs 68 Maryland Laws

Annapolis, Md., March 4 (AP). Governor Lane put his signature on 68 new Maryland laws today.

With few exceptions, they do not take effect until June 1, but they brought the total additions to Maryland statute books to 71.

The Governor had previously signed an emergency measure freezing the State income tax rate at 2 per cent, along with several others.

The Governor also signed a resolution urging Congress to confirm States' rights to submerged lands within their borders. Southern and Western States are interested in oil-rich tidelands, Maryland in its fishery resources.

Park Roads Resolution

Another resolution gives the State an "obligation" to build roads leading to and within State parks.

Garrett County spokesmen have asked aid to improve transportation in western Maryland's vast recreational area.

The Senate and House decided to hold off debate on two other matters until after the weekend recess.

The Senate deferred action until Monday night on a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize a graduated income tax. There is some question as to whether the declaration of rights allows persons with large incomes to be assessed more than those with lower earnings. Senator Storm (D., Frederick) introduced the bill to remove all doubts.

Senate Passes Repealer

The Senate voted 19-7 to repeal Maryland's declaration of intentions act.

As the declarations of intentions act passed, Senate Majority Leader Sothoron (D., Prince Georges) remarked that "the Democratic Party is tearing down one of the foundations on which it was built."

Senator T. F. Johnson (D., Worcester) branded the repealer a "vote-getting measure" promised "in the platforms of the two parties."

The law was enacted in 1902 when Worcester County complained of election abuses by voters imported from nearby Delaware and Virginia, Johnson said.

He termed it "of primary importance to the lower part of the Eastern Shore," where it has resulted in "better elections and fairer elections."

Dissenting Votes

Dissenting votes were cast by Sothoron, Balch (D., Talbot), Barton (D., Baltimore 2d), Johnson, Carter (D., Baltimore 3d), Dulin (D., Anne Arundel) and Shallcross (D., Kent).

Legislation to provide increased State aid for schools will be introduced shortly in the General Assembly, a group of 18 Senators said today.

One measure would quadruple the incentive fund, under which the State matches county appropriations for school construction on a sliding-scale basis. It will be sponsored by 18 Senators and 21 House delegates.

The other bill would call for a 30-million-dollar bond issue, backed by State credit, to provide new funds for counties which have reached the safe limit of their borrowing capacity. It will be sponsored by 18 Senators and 10 House delegates.

Extradition Change Proposed

Chairmen of the Senate's two ranking committees proposed amending Maryland's uniform extradition law to cover only acts which are a crime in this State.

Majority Leader Sothoron, chairman of the finance committee, and Senator Dell (D., Baltimore Sixth), judiciary chairman, introduced a bil to place this limit on extradition:

When a person is wanted in one State for a violation actually committed while he was in Maryland or another State, the Governor could sign release papers only if the act "would be punishable by the laws of this State."

Senators Hoff (R., Carroll) and Turnbull (D., Baltimore County) submitted a bill to make it a felony to carry a concealed weapon. This would enable police to introduce in evidence weapons seized in a search without a warrant.

It would have the same effect as a proposed amendment to the Bouse Act, which outlaws "frisked" evidence. But the House act covers only misdemeanors. The Senate has approved this amendment, but the House Judiciary Committee has rejected it.

Would Amend Rape Law

Another act, introduced by Delegates James (D., Harford) and Scarborough (D., Cecil) would allow juries to limit the sentence of convicted rapists to 20 years. They may be hanged now.

The words "without capital punishment" in a verdict would mean a limited prison term.

The Legislature also was asked to declare the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday a legal holiday.

"He was a great President and a great humanitarian," said Delegate Dempsey (D., Balto. 3d). "When his record is measured by history, he will stand among our greatest Presidents"

Dempsey put in a bill to make January 30 a State holiday. Maryland now observes 12 dates as legal holidays, in addition to election days.

No other State has given Roosevelt's birthday official recognition, Dempsey said.

Eight Seized In Gambling Raid Fined

Seven persons were fined for gambling and one for possession of numbers slips yesterday in Fairfax Trial Justice Court as a result of a gambling raid February 15, which was called one of the largest ever made in the county.

Fined $150 and given a 30-day suspended jail sentence for possessing numbers slips was Garfield N. Grim, 26, Route 1, Falls Church. Fined $30 and costs each for gambling were Mrs. Mary H. Moreland, 50, 416 Liberty ave., Falls Church; Clem E. Ross, 53, Gainesville, Va.; Ira F. Marshall, 39, 412 Shreve st., Falls Church, and James Jackson, 24; Philip Isom, 50; James Ashton, 59, and Robert P. Lee, 29, all of rural addresses near Falls Church.

Six charges against Mrs. Emma May, 45, at whose home, 303 Douglas st., Falls Church, the arrests were made, were continued to March 18. She is charged with three violations of Section 4693 of the Code of Virginia, which includes possession of numbers slips and operating a lottery, two charges of illegal sale of whisky and one charge of illegal possession of firearms.

Also continued until March 18 were charges of violations of Section 4693 against Will Brown, 40, 302 Douglas st., Falls Church, and William H. Green, 1829 N. Cameron st., Falls Church.

Maryland U. Budget Bill Delay Defeated

Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., March 4.—The House of Delegates today defeated an attempt to delay action on a bill which would require the University of Maryland to present its budget request in detail.

After voting 57-50 against a motion to hold off consideration until Tuesday, the delegates adopted a favorable report on the measure by a chorus of "ayes." The voice vote of approval sends the bill to a third and final reading.

Two amendments requested by University President H. C. Byrd, who was at the State House today, were included without opposition. The bill would require the university to itemize its budget requests instead of asking for a lump sum as at present.

"Weekend Lobbyists" Feared

The delay in consideration of the bill was asked by C. Lyman Schueler (D., Baltimore 2d) who insisted the delegates should have an "opportunity" to study the amendments tacked to the bill by the Ways and Means Committee.

However, in sharp debate over Schueler's motion, supporters of the bill termed the delaying action a scheme "to let weekend lobbyists work on us."

Arguing against the delay were Horace P. Whitworth (R., Allegany), sponsor of the bill; Charles M. Bandiere (D., 5th Baltimore), and Charles M. See (R., Allegany).

They said the bill had received considerable discussion for two weeks and that the amendments were minor in nature and easily understood.

Would Include Roads Board

Oliver R. Guyther (D., St. Marys), another supporter of the bill, said, after the session, that he intends suggesting inclusion of the State Roads Commission in the bill, pointing out that many delegates feel this department also does not make the kind of reports necessary for full understanding of the body's budget.

Guyther also said that a number of delegates who oppose the Whitworth bill do so because they believe it should include the State Roads Commission and that it is discriminatory to require full budget statements from the university and not from the roads body.

One on the Aisle—

'By Night' Stoops Low for 'Thrills'

By Richard L. Coe

"HE WALKED BY NIGHT," at the Warner, with violence and brutality as its come-on, is a picture against which I wish to make the strongest possible protest.

In this pseudo-documentary from the Eagle Lion Studio you have bestiality rampant masking as an actual case from the files of the Los Angeles police. Stuff and nonsense. Under its pretentious guise it is simply basing its appeal to the lowest in those who enjoy vicarious thrills.

True, it is but one more of an increasing parade of pictures based on sheer violence. But so far as this reviewer is concerned, it is the straw that breaks the camel's back.

By adopting the realistic approach, it attempts to persuade you that it is on the side of law. Yet it offers no reasoning whatever; the central character is not only never explained—no attempt is made to explain him. Bestiality is enough.

Not only this, it makes the police behave in an unlikely way, to put it mildly. For the sake of letting the criminal sink further into the pit of sheer violence, it permits the police to endanger not only themselves but also civilians, who, strangely, are not routed from their beds as the climax approaches. These police are no credit to Los Angeles.

"HE WALKED BY NIGHT," Eagle-Lion release produced by Robert T. Kane for Bryan Foy. Screen play by Crane Wilbur and John C. Higgins. Photography by John Alton. Music by Leonid Raab. Directed by Alfred Werker. At the Warner.

Some months ago another of these purportedly factual films appeared, presumably from the files of the FBI. Immediately after seeing the film, I asked J. Edgar Hoover's department about this and was told the department had had no connection with the picture whatever. It had been asked to lend its name to it, but had refused. Whether the police department of Los Angeles has the same story about this one, I've been unable to discover.

Meaningless Foreword

A sententious preamble makes the usual bows to the law-enforcement agencies, winding up its remarks that it has been taken from the files by adding, "fictitious names have been used to protect the innocent."

This is utterly meaningless. Just who these innocents are is never once touched on. It is simply a dishonest device to make an audience feel it is watching the real stuff. That phony introduction leads you to think you'll at least know why this violence has been going on. The criminal never becomes the least real; only a puppet for the film-makers to use as a pulse raiser.

The killer has been stealing and reselling electrical equipment. He's killed one policeman, injured another. The story traces how the detectives track him down and winds up with a chase through the Los Angeles sewers.

But it is in how this is done that lies the shame of Eagle Lion. They give you a shot of the killer extracting a bullet from his own chest that for sheer sensationalism and brutality I've never seen equaled on the screen.

Small wonder, that with a picture like this going abroad, America can be feared, despised and hated by those who don't know our land first hand. If there's any way this picture can be stopped from export, I hope the Government will find it.

I will not go into the acting, writing or direction, all of which are conningly contrived to make you think you're examining the criminal mind and safeguards against it. It does no such thing.

First Baptist Plans $600,000 Drive

First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw., will launch a $600,000 building fund after Easter and expects to begin work on a million-dollar-building program next year.

Members of the church voted to begin the campaign this spring after a meeting Thursday night at the church.

Plans calling for construction of a sanctuary seating 1500, a four-story educational plant, a social hall and a chapel are being considered by the church membership.

The firm of Thomas & Wagoner of Philadelphia has been named architect for the new church. A training and activities building will be the first unit of the new church erected.

For the past eight years attendance at First Baptist has been so great that two Sunday morning services have been held. Membership in the Sunday School has doubled during the last four years and church officials say that it has been almost impossible to take care of all the children in available space in the 60-year-old building.

Earlier this year members of the church conducted a brief fund drive during which about $30,000 was contributed or pledged. The campaign for $600,000 will be carried on intensively for several months, with pledges to be completed by March 7, 1952, when the church will celebrate its 150th anniversary.

Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden is pastor of the church, and President Truman often attends Sunday services there.

Rev. Carlson To Head Church In Cherrydale

Carlson

The Rev. J. M. Carlson, pastor of the People's Baptist Church, Montreal, Canada, has accepted a unanimous call to become pastor of Cherrydale Baptist Church, Quebec and North 21st st., Arlington.

Mr. Carlson will succeed the Rev. Robert L. Ryerse, who left the Cherrydale church December 1 to become minister of Walnut Street Baptist Church, Waterloo, Iowa.

Church Plans Pre-Easter School Course

Discussions of the church and public life will be part of a five-week pre-Easter school for Christian living at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw.

The school begins Sunday with classes at 7 p. m. preceded by supper at 5:45 p. m. Four separate courses will be offered.

Representative George Mahon (D., Tex.), will speak on the relation of the church to Congress at the first meeting of the course on the church and public life. Later speakers in the course will be Senator John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.), Judge Bolitha J. Laws, Chief Judge of the District Court, James V. Bennett, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, and Dr. Robert DuBose of the Association of American Colleges.

Dr. Stewart H. Webster will conduct a course on psychology for Christian living. This week the group will discuss "Human Behavior," Wise or Otherwise."

A course on personality development will be directed by Miss Ruth Wakeham, director of the Renshaw School of Speech, and China will be studied under the leadership of Mrs. Franklin Oder.

Dr. John W. Rustin, pastor of the church, will preach on "The Light of Hope" at 9 and 11:15 a. m. Sunday.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

Wednesday at 8:15 p. m. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, chaplain of the United States Senate and pastor of Foundry Methodist Church, will preach at the Church of the Reformation. Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, pastor of Reformation Church, will preach at 8 p. m. the same night at Foundry Church.

A short prayer service will be held each Thursday during Lent at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., at 5:45 p. m.

Protestant devotions will be held at 12:45 p. m. every Friday at the Pentagon Building and Roman Catholic mass will be said every day from noon until 12:30.

Dr. L. Erwin Wexberg, director of District Alcoholic and Guidance Clinics, will speak on "The Psychology of Human Relations" at 11:15 a. m. at a meeting of the Washington Ethical Society at Friendship House, 619 D st. se.

Dr. Alfred W. Hurst, pastor of Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw., will preach on "Jesus' Teaching Concerning God" at 11 a. m.

The 30-voice a capella chorus of Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va., will sing at 11 a. m. at Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church, 1700 North Capitol st. The pastor, Dr. I. S. Ernest, will speak on "Education for Christian Living."

Churches List Interracial Choir Festival

Combined choirs of six Arlington churches will present an Interracial Church Choir Festival at 4:30 p. m. Sunday at Arlington Methodist Church, South 8th st. and Glebe rd.

Lawson

Warner Lawson, dean of the Howard University School of Music for the past six years, will direct the combined choirs.

Each choir will sing two anthems before Lawson leads the combined groups in "Adoramus Te" by Palestrina, "Let us Break Bread Together" by Ryder, and the Ringwald arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The festival is sponsored by the Interracial Commission of the Arlington Council of Churches, which requested that choir directors of the local churches arrange an activity to bring the churches and their congregations together. The commission hopes to hold similar festivals each year to promote better understanding and brotherhood among all churches that belong to the council.

Choirs participating in the festival will be: Faith Lutheran, directed by O. Horneland; Mount Zion Baptist, directed by Israel Lyon; Clarendon Methodist, directed by Robert Shone; St. John's Baptist, directed by Garland Mitchell; Lomax A.M.E., directed by Miss Marguerite West, and Arlington Methodist, under John Norris.

Protestants, Catholics Plan Daily, Midweek Lenten Rites

During the weeks preceding Easter, which falls on April 17, Protestant and Roman Catholic churches have planned daily and midweek Lenten services.

Speakers at the Washington Federation of Churches daily services at 12:05 p. m. at National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. and N st. nw., this week will be: Monday, Dr. J. Warren Hastings, pastor of National City Christian Church; Tuesday and Wednesday, the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington; Thursday and Friday, Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church.

On Capitol Hill, daily services will be held at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st., at 12:10 p. m. The Rev. Arnold F. Keller, jr., assistant pastor of Reformation Church, will speak Monday, and Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, will speak Tuesday through Friday.

Dr. Richard Preston, rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Worcester, Mass., will speak Monday through Friday at noon and Wednesday at 5:30 p. m. at Epiphany Church, 1317 G st. nw.

Lenten devotions at the Lutheran Church Center, 736 Jackson pl. nw., at 12:05 p. m. daily will be sponsored by the Lutheran Ministerial Association. Speakers this week will be: Monday, the Rev. Edward R. Bley of Zion Church; Tuesday, the Rev. A. Karl Boehmke of Pilgrim Church; Wednesday, the Rev. George P. Schmidt, St. Luke's Church, Redland, Md.; Thursday, the Rev. William F. Bruening of Christ Church, and Friday, the Rev. T. Rene Meyer of St. Matthew's Church.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception, 8th and N sts. nw., the Way of the Cross will be held at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday, followed by a sermon on "Man's Spiritual Obstacles" and the benediction of the most blessed sacrament.

Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen will preach on "Contradictory Charges" at 5:20 and 7:45 p. m. Wednesday at St. Stephen's Church, 25th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

At Transfiguration Episcopal Church, 1415 Gallatin st., nw., a service of holy communion will be conducted each Wednesday during Lent at 11 a. m., with a penitential office at 8 p. m.

Women of Grace Episcopal Church, 3601 Russell rd., Alexandria, will serve Lenten suppers each Wednesday at 6 p. m. and a choral evensong and sung processed litany and sermon will follow at 7:30 p. m.

At Ascension and St. Agnes Episcopal Church, 1215 Massachusetts ave. nw., noon-day masses will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and stations of the cross on Fridays at 8 p. m.

A film, "The Calling of Matthew," will be shown Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Eldbrooke Methodist Church, River rd. at Wisconsin ave. nw.

"Lessons Taught by Lent" will be the theme of a series of Wednesday night Lenten services at 8 p. m. at Grace Lutheran Church, 16th and Varnum sts. nw. The Rev. Edward Bley will speak at 8 p. m. at Atonement Lutheran Church, 2 Rhode Island ave. ne.

The Rev. John Tracy Ellis of Catholic University will speak at 8 p. m. each Wednesday during Lent at St. Matthew's Cathedral, 1727 Rhode Island ave. nw. His general theme is "Footprints Left by the Saints." Stations of the cross will be held at the cathedral each Friday at 2 and 8 p. m.

Hunter to Attend Latter Day Saints Church Conclave

Milton R. Hunter of Salt Lake City will represent authorities of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at a Washington State Quarterly Conference today and Sunday, J. Willard Marriott, stake president, announced yesterday.

Mr. Hunter is a member of the First Council of Seventies, one of the governing bodies of the Mormon Church. He is a former director of one of the L.D.S. institutes conducted by the church on Western college campuses.

The conference, one of four held each year for church members from Washington, northern Virginia and Maryland, will be held at the Washington chapel, 16th and Columbia rd. nw.

A special meeting for men and boys holding the priesthood of the church will open the sessions at 7:30 p.m. today. General sessions will be held at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Church to Hold Inspection Tours

Tours of inspection of the new Westmoreland Congregational Church, Westmoreland Circle nw., will take place today and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Today's tour will be primarily for members of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, 1410 Columbia rd. nw., who are erecting the new building. Residents of the Westmoreland community have been invited to inspect the building on Sunday.

The Rev. Philip Gordon Scott, pastor of the church, said it is hoped that the new $300,000 building will be ready for use about April 3. Last services will be held in the Mount Pleasant church on March 27, he said.

Covenant to Seek Bids For Church Building

Members of Covenant Baptist Church have voted to advertise for bids for construction of a new church to be erected at the intersection of Nichols ave., South Capitol and Xenia sts.

The church hopes to hold services in the new building in the early fall. Services, meanwhile, will be held at the Atlantic Theater, 21 Atlantic st. sw. Speaker Sunday at 11 a. m. will be Herbert W. Ludwig, vice president of the D. C. Baptist Convention and president of the D. C. Baptist Brotherhood.

'Portraits of Christ' To Be Sermon Theme

"Portraits of Christ" will be the theme of a series of Lenten sermons by the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson at National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. and N st. nw. At 11 a. m. Sunday Dr. Elson will speak on "Jesus, the Man."

At 8 p. m. the chancel choir of the church will sing Bach's cantata 180, "Deck Thyself, My Soul, With Gladness" and compositions by Henry Purcell and Orlando di Lasso.

Churches Mark Day of Prayer

A mass meeting last night at National Baptist Memorial Church, 16th st. and Columbia rd. nw., climaxed the annual "World Day of Prayer" observance in this area. The mass meeting was sponsored by the Business Women's Guild of the Washington Council of Church Women.

Earlier in the day area prayer services were held at Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Chevy Chase Circle; Northminster Presbyterian Church, Alaska ave. and Kalmia rd. nw.; 9th st. Christian Church, 9th and D sts. ne.; Augustana Lutheran Church, New Hahpshire ave. and V sts. nw., and First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw.

Principal speaker at the evening meeting was Miss Dorothy O. Bucklin, secretary of the Women's American Baptist Home Mission Society, New York City. Mrs. J. M. Dawson presided at the meeting, and devotions were led by Mrs. J. Warren Hastings, wife of the pastor of National City Christian Church

Sunday Afternoon

P St. Church To Dedicate Windows

Stained glass windows, valued at $30,000, will be dedicated at a special service in the Church of the Pilgrims, 22d and P sts. nw., at 3:30 p. m.

The church itself, of which Dr. A. R. Bird is pastor, was built in 1930 at a cost of $400,000—the gift of Southern Presbyterians. The windows were donated by members of the Washington congregation.

Dr. C. Darby Fulton of Nashville, Tenn., moderator of the Southern Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the dedicatory services. The sermon at 11 a. m. will be preached by Dr. Bird.

Cathedral To Dedicate 2 Windows

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, will dedicate at 4 p. m. Sunday two new stained glass windows recently placed in the north wall of the great choir of the Washington Cathedral.

The Very Rev. John W Suter, dean of the cathedral and iconographer for the windows, will request Bishop Dun to "accept and hallow" the windows.

Theme of the first window is the dawn of conscience, the point when man first acquired free will. The left panel shows the development of life on earth, and the right panel some of the civilizations man has created.

God's search for man and man's search for God is the theme of the second window. One panel shows God speaking to man: to Moses, Paul, and the modern scholar and missionary, Schereschewsky. The other depicts man seeking God as illustrated by an American Indian, an Old Testament priest of the temple, and a modern celebrant of Holy Communion.

Bishop Dun will preach at the service. There will follow at 5:15 an organ recital by Katharine Fowler, organist and choirmaster for the Church of Our Savior and director of music at McKinley High School.

World Mission Series At Brookland Church

A six-week "School of World Vision" will be held at Brookland Baptist Church, 16th and Monroe sts. ne., on Wednesday evenings beginning this week. Dinner will be served by the church women at 6:30, followed by classes on world missions for different age groups and a general assembly at 8 p. m.

Men's Club to Present 'The Pribilof Story'

The Men's Club of Christ Episcopal Church, Georgetown, will present "The Pribilof Story" at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday in Linthicum Hall, 3116 O st. nw.

A film on the Pribilof Islands, display of antique Alaska sealskin coats and display of modern methods of treating sealskins will be included on the program. Tickets may be obtained at the church.

N. Y. Ave. Sermon Topic

"Meeting the Unknown" will be the sermon topic of Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, professor at Princeton University Theological Seminary, at 11 a. m. Sunday at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, 1301 New York ave. nw.

Film to Be Shown

"Messenger of Peace," a full length sound motion picture dealing with the life of a pastor will be shown at 8 p. m. Sunday in the Immanuel Lutheran Church, 1801 Russell rd., Alexandria, Va.

Communism Disavowed by Gravediggers

New York, March 4 (AP).—Striking gravediggers publicly disavowed communism today as Francis Cardinal Spellman and his band of priests and seminarians once again defied picket lines to bury the dead at Calvary Cemetery.

The struck gravediggers today unanimously denounced communism, urged that the local disaffiliate from the international CIO union, and individually took this oath:

"We, here, as Catholic gentlemen, solemnly declare that we are opposed to communism in all walks of life."

The strikers also condemned all "strike-busting tactics, including those which they said are being employed at Calvary Cemetery.

Anti-Semitism, Rights Talks Set

Anti-Semitism and civil rights for American Indians will be discussed at two meetings sponsored by the Interchurch Fellowship of Washington next week.

Mrs. Ruth Muscrat Bronson, executive secretary of the Congress of American Indians, will speak at a dinner Monday at 6 p. m. at Shiloh Baptist Church, 9th and P sts. nw., on Indian rights.

"Anti-Semitism and your Jewish Neighbor" will be the theme of a talk by Rabbi David Pedegorsky, executive director of the American Jewish Congress, Thursday at 8 p. m. at All Souls' Church (Unitarian), 16th and Harvard sts. nw.

Templars to Be Guests

Columbia Commandery, Knights Templar, will be guests at 8 p. m. Sunday at McKendree Methodist Church, South Dakota and Rhode Island aves. ne. Dr. Horace E. Cromer, pastor of the church, will speak on "Crusaders."

Army Device

Electric Eye May Warn Blind Ex-GIs

U. S. Army Photo
Portable "electric eye" warns of the unseen GI can

Blinded veterans of World War II soon may be helped by an "electric eye."

The Army Signal Corps announced yesterday that some 25 models of the device are about ready for the veterans to test.

The device consists of a four-pound box which sends a beam of light 15 feet in front of the user. If an object blocks the path, the light is reflected back to a photo-electric cell which can either send a warning sound to an ear attachment or make the handle vibrate. The closer the object, the faster the "electric eye" operates its sound or vibration warning.

The Signal Corps said, however that the aid will be of little value in crosisng streets because automobiles move too fast.

Mrs. Hastings to Speak On University Visits

Mrs. J. Warren Hastings, wife of the pastor of National City Christian Church, will speak on her experiences in visiting colleges and universities throughout the country at a church night dinner Thursday at 6:15 p. m. in the social hall of the church, 1308 Vermont ave. nw.

Russia Honors Mothers

London, March 4 (U.P.).—Moscow Radio said today that 28,500 mothers had won the title of "Mother Heroine" for bearing at least 10 children and that 2,500,000 had been awarded the "Order of Motherhood Glory" for bearing seven children.

New Building Earths Found At Lorton

Laborers at the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va., digging in the clay pits from which they had been extracting brick clay, have uncovered a building material which may reduce District building costs substantially.

Lieut. Col. L. E. Cox, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, said the deposits contain two types of "lightweight aggregate." One is a shalelike substance which resembles slate and the other is a clay material.

Working at the request of Colonel Cox, Director of Construction Archie G. Hutson and Director of Corrections Donald Clemmer, the Federal Bureau of Mines has made tests of the materia: which indicate that although it is lighter than gravel it has equal tensile strength when placed in concrete.

At present, several hundred thousand pounds of materials are being processed for use in several practical tests. Part of this will be used on a 100-foot stretch of roadway to test wearing quality, and another part will go into building a wall.

Colonel Cox cautioned that large-scale use of the material, which increases in volume during processing although not in weight, would require erection of an expensive plant, which the current District budget does not permit. The tests will be continued, however.

100 Separations In 23 Years Told In Divorce Case

A hundred separations in 23 years of married life were described yesterday in District Court by Newton P. Weathersby, as he fought his wife's divorce suit.

Weathersby, 55, is secretary-treasurer of Lodge 44, International Association of Machinists. His wife, Mrs. Ruby Weathersby, 45, of 1101 West Virginia ave. ne., seeks a limited divorce on grounds of cruelty.

The husband said that on 100 occasions he had submitted to his wife's requests that they separate and had always returned.

He denied striking her and said that to provoke trouble, she once injured herself by banging her nose against a cedar chest.

Mission to Show Film

Scenes from Chicago's "skid row" will be shown in "Out of the Night," sound film, to be shown at the Central Union Mission, 624 Indiana ave. nw., at 7:45 p. m. today.

15-Year Plan

Vegetation, Forestry Bill Is Approved

The Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday approved legislation authorizing a multimillion dollar, 15-year reforestation and revegetation program.

The joint resolution was introduced by Senator Anderson (D., N. Mex.), former Secretary of Agriculture. The job would be under the administration of the U. S. Forest Service.

The resolution would authorize expenditures of about 125 million dollars a year through June 30, 1965, for the reforestation program, and nearly 40 million dollars for the revegetation program. Both projects would begin in the fiscal year starting June 30, 1950.

The resolution now goes to the Senate with a bill, which won committee approval, to complete and keep current a national survey of forest resources. The measure, introduced by Senator Thye (R., Minn.) would authorize expenditures up to 11 million dollars to complete the survey now in progress, and $1,500,000 annually to keep it up to date.

Michigan Delays Extradition in Slaying Case

Lansing, Mich., March 4 (AP).—The State of Michigan hesitated today to let New York try a couple accused of three "Lonely Heart" slayings.

Authorities put off a decision until Tuesday, when an extradition hearing in the Governor's office will be held. They said they wanted time to investigate.

Raymond M. Fernandez, 34, and his partner, Mrs. Martha Beck, 29, would face possible death penalties if tried in New York. Maximum murder sentence in Michigan is life imprisonment.

Police said the couple admitted they drugged and shot Mrs. Delphine Downing, 29, in Byron Center, Mich., and drowned her daughter, and then strangled Mrs. Janet Fay in Valley Stream, N. Y., last January.

Seven Firemen Die in Blaze In Charleston

Charleston, W. Va., March 4 (AP).—Seven firemen were trapped and burned to death today as a million-dollar fire raged out of control for eight hours in two dime stores.

At least 13 others were injured. It was described as the most disastrous fire in the city's history.

Exhausted firemen wept as the bodies of their comrades were brought out of the Woolworth store basement after the fire was brought under control at noon.

It apparently started in the basement and was well developed when a policeman spotted it at 4 a. m.

One squad of firemen worked down a circular stairs into the basement. Others took hoses into the first story. The floor suddenly gave way. Blazing piles of merchandise, cartons of stock and counters crashed into the basement. They carried some of the fire fighters along and some of those below were buried up to their arm pits.

"It seemed like the whole store was coming down," said Roy C. Hill, 30-year-old rookie fireman who was swept into the basement but managed to get out.

Shawkey Jones said he was able to climb over the debris up to the first floor.

"I reached down and got one of the men by the arms," he related. "I don't know who it was. I couldn't see. I pulled on him and tried to get him out of there. He slipped back away from me."

The dead firemen are Frank N. Miller, Freddie Summers, J. P. Little, Frank Sharp, Richard McCormick, George Coates and Emory Pauley.

Red Cross Tops 11% of Goal In First Fund Drive Reports

A total of $102,325.97, or 11.07 per cent of the Washington area $924,000 Red Cross goal for 1949, was turned in yesterday at the group's first report luncheon in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building.

At the Dutch-treat luncheon, highest honors among the large amounts went to the city division, covering small businesses, which turned in $7706.25, or 22 per cent of its quota.

Residential campaigners reported 21.6 per cent of their quota filled with gifts of $15,362.65.

Among groups which have already reached their goal are: The American Red Cross office, the Soldiers Home, the Mint, savings bond and tax research divisions of the Treasury Department, the Veterans Service Center, the library of the Labor Department, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation of the Department of Agriculture.

Speaker at yesterday's meeting was Jennings Randolph, general vice chairman of the drive in the Washington area. Miss Kay DeWitt of the Capitol Theater, sang.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., MARCH 4.—Any day now, Joe Cambria is due to arrive in the Washington training camp with Ramon Garcia, the Cuban pitcher he is escorting from Havana. But it will be an upset if the Nats' Havana operative reports with only one Cuban athlete. He always travels en tourage.

Clark Griffith is never certain how many Cubans Cambria will add to the club's board bill. He hit his peak back about 1936 when he shepherded a boatload into Orlando. The Ortiz brothers, Alex Carrasquel, Roberto Estalella, Rene Monteagudo, two Torres, a Gomez and four others of dim memory. That was the high era of the Nats' across-the-Caribbean policy.

POVICH

The Latin legion has dwindled since. Most of 'em jumped to the Mexican League with the Nats registering no sense of loss. Gil Torres was around at shortstop during the war years but succumbed to homesickness and a .220 batting average. Garcia, the newest of them, is held in some esteem, however, after an impressive record at Chattanooga, where he won six of his last eight games.

Estalella was Cambria's greatest triumph despite the fact he never did quite make good. But he was around for a long while with the Nats and put in a season as the A's regular centerfielder.

BUCKY HARRIS was burdened with Estalella as a third baseman in the mid-thirties and it was touch-and-go on the premise that Bobby might bat in more runs than he let in. There was a slight improvement in his fielding after Harris discovered Estalella operating with a drug-store glove and personally bought him a $14 item, but he was forced to shift to the outfield, finally, as the lesser evil.

Estalella was the first of the Cubans in the American League in a couple of decades and it was a tribute to him that he did hit .300 one season while ducking dust-off pitches from guys who didn't cotton to his particular pigmentation. From the day that he let his bat slip deliberately by accident at a St. Louis pitcher, he had fewer troubles.

He didn't add up to much account as a ball player, but Washington fans went for Estalella and the color he brought to the plate. After Bill McGowan called a fourth ball and gave him a walk, Bobby threw his bat away and calmly reached out to shake the hand of the umpire before taking his base. Washington fans used to phone the ball park to learn if Estalella was going to be in the line-up before determining their presence.

CAMBRIA FETCHED his newest prize, little Garcia, who is right-handed with a curve ball and a fine brand of control, off the Cuban sandlots. He was pitching for a team called the Havana Electric Co., and there may be no truth to the report that Cambria climbed a telephone pole to sign him, but that easily might have happened.

To sign Roberto Ortiz, Cambria tracked through the canebrakes in the hinterlands after gaining word of a specimen who had been setting the community teams on their ears with his fast ball and batting in, personally, all the runs he needed to win, and he came up with Carrasquel one day after noting him sitting on a park bench and after friendly conversation discovered he was a pitcher in the winter league.

Nobody did get to learn exactly how old Carrasquel was when Cambria reported with him at Orlando. "He's 26," said Cambria. The other Cubans said he was 38, Carrasquel admitted on different occasions to being 38, 33 and 39. They were put in the form of questions. He said "okay" to everything.

FOR A COUPLE of weeks in Orlando, Cambria believed he had truly come up with a prize in Ortiz, the biggest captive Cuban he ever brought in. The fellow stood 6-foot 3-inches and weighed 195. He was knocking the mitts off Al Evans and Jake Early in batting practice, and in his first exhibition game he beat Bobby Feller.

They imported Al Lopez, the Spanish-speaking Boston catcher from nearby Tampa, to show Ortiz how to stand on the rubber, but it was no use. He was too crude. And his control was foul. Bucky Harris envisioned him as an outfielder, and asked Ortiz if he wanted to pitch or did he prefer the outfield. Ortiz couldn't understand Harris' English, and Harris turned the interrogation over to Cambria.

"You want to peetch? You want to play outfield?" bellowed Cambria in English. In all his Cuban travels, Cambria had picked up no Spanish.

Giermak's 36 Sets Record; N. C. State Wins, 43-40

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Durham, N. C., March 4.—Down to their last man and their last breath, George Washington survived three overtime periods and a record-breaking performance by Chester Giermak to defeat William and Mary and gain the finals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament here tonight.

Five Colonial regulars were riding the bench, all out on fouls, when the marathon ended with the Washingtonians the winners, 78-74, and the capacity crowd of 9000 hoarse from shrieking.

Tomorrow night the weary, but happy Colonials try to wrest the championship from North Carolina State, seeking its third straight title after a 43-40 victory over North Carolina in this evening's other rousing semifinal tiff.

And few, if any, teams in the 28-year history of this tournament so richly deserved a crack at the title as does this GW club. It overcame one heartbreaking break after another to upset the Indians from W and M, the meet's second-seeded club.

Giermak's 36 Set Record

Giermak, 6-foot 4-inch Chicagoan, who set a tournament scoring mark with 36 points—31 in the regulation game, won a tremendous ovation from the throng when he left the game in the third extra period with a cramp in his leg, but Sam Schreiber, Phil McNiff and Maynard Haithcock were the real heroes as far as the Colonials were concerned.

Schreiber, a sub so seldom used that the program failed to carry his first name, drilled in two baskets in the last extra period to break the backs of the Indian resistance.

McNiff, a junior from Brooklyn, was the guy who scored the goal in the last five-minute frame which broke a 69-69 deadlock, giving the Colonials an advantage they inexpertly but preciously nursed the rest fo the game.

Haithcock, playing his semifinal game, sparkplugged the Colonial drive which saw them overcome a 12-point half-time deficit and also swished in a foul in the last 15

N. C. State Wins In Last Minute, 43-40

Durham, N. C., March 4.—Faced with a shocking defeat, North Carolina State's defending champions rallied in the last minute tonight to shade North Carolina, 43-40, and enter the finals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament.

The Staters, gunning for their third consecutive league crown, trailed the surprising Tar Heels until the last minute of the game. At that juncture, Forward Jack McCombs rammed in a set shot which gave the champs a 41-40 lead and they nursed their precious advantage for the remainder of the bitter battle.

Led by Coy Carson, the Tar Heels barged into the lead early after intermission and held it until the final minute.

It was a hectic defensive struggle which had the capacity crowd of 9000 on edge every second. State had only itself to blame for the close call. The Wolfpack shooting was downright pathetic. The Pack made only 17 of the 88 goals it attempted.

Nats Take Look Today At 2 Rookies

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla. March 4.—The serious battle for jobs on the Washington club will commence tomorrow when the two hot-shot rookie outfielders from the International League, Clyde Vollmer and John Simmons, suit up for the first time.

They are aiming at the only vacant berths on the club, the two outfield posts whose occupancy is as yet undetermined. The veteran Burry Lewis, conceded to have a lock on the right field job despite his year's absence from the game, is the only outfield fixture.

The long-hitting pair of Vollmer and Simmons will be jousting with Gil Coan, Ed Stewart, Sherry Robertson and Jay Difani for the assignments in center and left.

Vollmer is the current favorite to win at least one of the berths, with his .291 average at Syracuse where he led the league in runs batted in and was second in homers. Despite two trials with the Reds, he is only 27.

Dodgers Wanted Simmons

The 190-pounder Simmons, five pounds bigger than Vollmer, amassed a .301 average at Montreal, and after the Nats drafted him for $10,000, the Brooklyn club offered $30,000 for his contract the following day. Supposedly, both Simmons and Vollmer represent the kind of power the Nats need.

Stewart, a high favorite with the club bosses and Washington fans because of his hustle, led the club in batting in runs last season, and in hitting with his .278 average. But his throwing arm does not measure up and he must battle for his current high ranking.

Coan, a top hitter in the Southern Association, has never been able to latch onto big league pitching in his two trials with the Nats, but the high potential is believed present in his case. He will get a fair shot at a regular job.

Robinson was handicapped last year by a badly wrenched knee and has made a full recovery. He will be retained in the role of pinch-hitter against right-handed pitching, and could see frequent action as an outfielder. He boasts the strongest throwing arm of the group. The status of Difani is vague. He came to the club as a third baseman last year, and was shifted to the outfield in training camp. He was on loan to Newark where he played third base and was a productive hitter. With Eddie Yost a fixture at third, however, the powerful Difani may be used again as a spare outfielder.

Ed Klieman, Walter Masterson and Forrest hompson each took 10 minutes in today's workout . . . As usual big Ed Robinson connected for the longest drives. At 205 pounds, he's the heftiest man on the squad . . .

The season's first infield drill was staged with Gil Coan substituting at third base for the lack of a regular third baseman . . . Sam Dente's fancy pickups around shortstop featured the workout . . . Vice President Calvin Griffith indicates that the players' beef over their failure to get rental expenses for living outside the hotel will be amicably settled .

Hogan Responding 'Wonderfully Well' After Operation

El Paso, Tex., March 4 (U.P.).—Bantam Ben Hogan was responding "wonderfully well" today to a critical, two-hour operation by an internationally-known surgeon who set up a "detour" in the golf star's bloodstream to keep blood clots from his heart.

Royall Hogan, an elder brother, said Ben had a "good night," but is managing to smile a bit despite the pain and we all are very much relieved after Dr. Ochsner's performance at what appeared to be a crisis in Ben's recovery."

In New Orleans the man who performed the operation—Dr. Alton Ochsner said on his return from El Paso he felt "fully confident" that Hogan will recover.

The New Orleans surgeon said he felt confident that the tieing off of the vena cava vein would prevent any further clots from breaking off in the abdomen.

Utah Becomes 5th Team in Invitational

New York, March 4 (AP).—Utah was invited and has accepted a bid to play in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 12, 14, 17 and 19, it was announced today.

Utah is the fifth team named for the tournament, with three more to be announced. The Utes were eliminated by Kentucky in the 1944 invitation tourney, but in 1947 defeated the Kentuckians in the finals.

Kentucky, St. Louis, Western Kentucky and Bradley already have accepted invitations to play this year.

Asa Bushnell, tournament manager, also announced that the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association, which sponsors the tourney, had instructed the committee to include two metropolitan New York teams in the 1949 field.

City College, Manhattan and St. Johns appeared to be the leading contenders, but Long Island University and New York University also must be considered.

Damascus Tops Gwynn Park, 34-29

Damascus defeated Gwynn Park yesterday at Laurel, 34-29, in the last game of the year for both teams. Bill Ring was high scorer with 15 points.

GW High, Central Win Metro Games

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

In the most thrilling high school basketball double-header of the year, unbeaten George Washington of Alexandria and Interhigh Champion Central last night scored three-point victories at College Park, and advanced to the finals of the Metropolitan Washington tournament.

Behind at seven different stages of the first game, G. W. finally overcame Gonzaga, 41-38, for its twenty-second straight win. In the nightcap Central managed to outlast defending champion St John's, 33-30, although the Vikings lost their floor leader, Jimmy Pantos, on fouls for the second half.

G.W. and Central clash for the championship Monday night at Ritchie Coliseum.

The banner waving, whistle tooting crowd of 3071, got a chance to howl right off the bat as underdog Gonzaga bolted to a 12-6 lead.

However, GW got in the last licks, as pivot artist Billy Smith scored five points in the last 80 seconds and pulled out to victory.

Between the opening tap and the final gun, the lead changed hands 13 times. After Gonzaga took its early lead, GW rebounded smartly, and led at the half, 18-13.

Johnny Hogan, Gonzaga's set shot specialist, almost pulled the game out of the fire in the third quarter. In the face if a tight GW zone defense, Hogan backed off and fired four loopers in from 20 to 30 feet out, and going into the last quarter, GW trailed, 28-25.

Smith Turns Tide

Though on the ropes, GW wasn't down yet. The Presidents sent Smith into the pivot slot, and though he missed a half-dozen shots, he drew four valuable free throws, none of which he wasted. His third put GW in front to stay, 37-36, with 80 seconds left.

In the second game, Central fell behind, 7-3, and then, led by Pantos' three layups, shot into a 14-7 lead midway in the second quarter. Pantos had committed four persons, however, and the star was benched for second-half action.

Lou Glickfield, the transplanted Long Island boy, from whom so much was expected earlier in the season, replaced Pantos, and he fulfilled all expectations.

When Pantos fouled out on the first play of the second half, Glickfield again came to the rescue and with the help of playmaking Terry Gregory, nursed Central's lead.

Late in the third period, Bob McLindon sank a free throw to cut Central's lead to 23-22. But Glickfield countered with a foul shot. That was the closest St. John's got, but it was a threat until the last minue.

2d Annual Sportsmen's Show Starts Today at Armory

The outdoors will be brought indoors at National Guard Armory starting today at 1 p. m. in the second annual Washington Sportsmen's and Outdoors Show produced by the League of Maryland Sportsmen.

Planned to interest the entire family, the Sportsmen's Show is a two-acre display of everything characterizing life in the open. Highlighting the exposition is a tank and stage show of 12 acts, presented afternoon and evening throughout the nine-day run. The exposition is open daily from 1 until 11 p. m.

Besides the animated portion over which Chief Henry Red Eagle, full-blooded Algonquin Indian, is master of ceremonies, there are more than a hundred exhibits of sports and recreational equipment, boats, trailer coaches, automobiles, fishing, hunting and camping paraphernalia and educational displays sponsored by local, State and Federal Government bureaus.

Notable among the educational exhibits is the J. F. W. May collection of 30,000 rare specimens of giant, tropical insects—140 show cases of huge moths, beetles, tarantulas and spiders which required 50 years of world search. Lectures by members of the May family of entomologists will be given at frequent intervals daily.

One novel feature will be free fishing for fresh water denizens offered by the State of Maryland department of Game Inland Fisheries. In addition to the Free State, Pennsylvania and Virginia will exhibit live and mounted wildlife creatures. The D. C. National Guard will present life at its summer training encampment.

A talking crow, trained bears, retrieving dogs that perform with live ducks and pigeons, and beach beauties who glide through a water ballet routine are some of the entertainment specialties.

There also will be trick archery, pistol and rifle shooting and table tennis presented by outstanding professionals. In this group is Laszlo Bellak, whose paddle wizardry has taken him twice around the globe. Aaualee Crusey, 21-year-old Ohio lass, will give an exhibition of accuracy in fly and bait casting.

All profit from the show beyond actual production cost will be used by the League of Maryland Sportsmen for conservation of soil, forests, fish and game. The League is headed by Glenn L. Martin, noted aviation designer and manufacturer.

Cerdan Gets $10,000 Offer To Fight Here

Matchmaker Gabe Menendez announced yesterday he has offered Middleweight Champion Marcel Cerdan $10,000 to open Washington's outdoor boxing season May 2.

Cerdan would be pitted against Joe Blackwood in a 10-round overweight bout in Griffith Stadium.

The offer was made to Lew Burston in New York. Burston is the American representative of the French Moroccan who won the world title from Tony Zale last year.

Blackwood, a 21-year-old 157-pounder, has won his last three fights here, two by knockouts.

Choice of 10 Per Cent

Menendez gave Cerdan a choice of the $10,000 guarantee or a privilege of 30 per cent of the gate, plus $1000 training expenses.

Menendez's wire also stipulated that the selection of Blackwood, now a full-fledged Washington scrapper, and stablemate of heavyweight contender Le Savold, was contingent upon Joe's victory over Georgie Hill, his former conqueror from Philadelphia, in their feature 10-rounder Monday night at Joe Turner's Arena.

Blackwood has become red hot since hitting town, and has beaten Ken Stribling and knocked out Al Wright in two heats and Joe Vinci in one.

First in Line

Menendez in his offer to Cerdan said that the bout would be over the weight for 10 rounds, and open the outdoor season here. Menendez also said in the wire that he was aware of the fact that the champion would fight an over-the-weight bout in this country before defending his title here. And he pointed out that thus far no one had been selected for the prechampionship scrap.

Blackwood is managed by Bill Daly, close and personal friend of Burston. Locally, he is handled by Gil Striner.

Danny Petro, the local southpaw, will box Jackie Goode of Cincinnati, in an eight-round added attraction Monday. Gene Harley and Scott Richardson will meet in a five; Little Dynamite will take on Puggy King and Les Johnson will oppose Bobby Page in fours.

Mazur Upsets Hulon In Handball

Another upset was scored last night in the semifinals of the D.C.A.A.U. handball championships at the Y.M.C.A. Al Hulon, seeded player and favorite for the singles division, was defeated by Johnny Mazur, 21-13 and 21-16.

In another match Sam Papandrew won over Gus Goldstein, 15-21, 21-13, 21-19.

Caps and Stags Renew Their Rivalry Tonight at Uline's

Zaslofsky, Vance Marked Men

The Washington Caps cut their regular-season schedule to a mere five games tonight as they play host to the Chicago Stags in an 8:45 Basketball Association of America game at Uline Arena.

It was against the same Chicago outfit that the Caps recently clinched Eastern Division honors. But the latest get-together of the Stags and Caps in Washington saw the Stags pound out a 103-90 triumph that still rankles with the local pros.

Since losing the game that gave Washington the sectional crown, Chicago has dropped three straight to Indianapolis, New York and Philadelphia. The Caps, too, have suffered a pair of setbacks at the hands of Rochester and St. Louis.

Max Zaslofsky and Gene Vance, the Stags' chief hecklers of the Caps, will get special attention tonight. Dick Schulz will start against Zaslofsky, one of the league's highest scorers, and the job of guarding Vance will be split up between Matt Zunic and Bob Feerick.

Funeral Services Set Today for Mrs. Phoebe Mayes

Funeral services for Mrs. Phoebe E. Mayes, mother of The Washington Post's racing authority, Walter Haight, will be held at the Chambers funeral home, 1400 Chapin st. nw., at 1 p. m. today.

Pallbearers will be Richard R. Haight and Gordon Haight, grandsons of Mrs. Mayes; and John R. Kelley, Kenneth Irwin, James E. Gott and George Price, grandsons by marriage.

Interment will take place in the family lot in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Principal Agrees With Strayer on Eligibility

Collins in Favor Of Discarding Rule

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

One of Washington's high school principals admitted that the scholastic eligibility requirements for interhigh athletes are too strict, and another indicated he might do something about it Tuesday at the next principals' meeting.

That was the first reaction to Dr. George D. Strayer's report to Congress on the principals' "indifference" toward the school sports program.

Principal John Paul Collins of Eastern, an outstanding advocate of emphasizing athletics said, "I am in full agreement with Dr. Strayer in his recommendation to wipe out the present scholastic eligibility rule. But I doubt that much can be accomplished this early."

The rule makes it mandatory for a student to maintain passing grades in four major subjects in order to compete in league play. Collins said he's in favor of junking it.

Another principal, who didn't want his name used, said, "I'm in favor of reducing the number of passing grades to three, and will move Tuesday toward passing a new rule in time for the 1949-50 season." And he said he didn't expect much opposition.

Collins said, "I have always thought that the youngsters, coaches and schools have been unduly penalized by the scholastic eligibility rules."

"I'm forever seeing boys dropped from teams because they aren't able to pass Latin or algebra. That penalty has never proved constructive.

"First, the coach's work with the boy has been wasted. Then, the school has lost a good player. And most important, the boy plays anyway, outside the school's supervision."

Lukewarm toward Dr. Strayer's eligibility recommendation, most of the principals drew the lines on his proposal that the Interhigh athletic program be taken out of their hands and placed under control of the Interhigh Athletic Council.

Collins said, "As long as I'm principal at Eastern, and have responsibility for the pupils here, I will have the final word in athletics. I want to know who's on the Eastern teams, and why."

Another of the principals, who didn't want her name used, said, "You can't divorce athletics from the other school activities. The community holds the principal responsible for everything that happens to the student.

"Dr. Strayer says that athletics should be treated as an integral part of the school curriculum, just like English or chemistry. I agree The principals have supervision in their respective schools over English and chemistry. The same should hold true in athletics."

Another Would Cut It to 3 Subjects

Still another principal had a ready answer to Dr. Strayer's charge that the principals too often "arbitrarily" turn down the recommendations of their own appointed delegates to the athletic council.

"That holds true all the way through the education system here," he said. "The superintendent of schools delegates a certain amount of authority to me, but oftimes he turns down my recommendations. But I still think that the present administration setup is healthy."

Simmons and Dykes Entertain Mackmen

By Red Smith

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA., March 4 (NYHT).—Here was Al Simmons and there was Jimmy Dykes. If you were a young guy with the Athletics, you might look at the coaches and ask, "How good can you get?" and you'd have your answer right there. They were, naturally, talking.

Red Smith

"We got an infield," Simmons said, "Lordie what an infield we have! That Joost is a magician and Heinie Majeski at third base has a pair of hands like nothing you ever saw, and Pete Suder can go around second and Ferris Fain at first, you never saw a guy could make the plays off that bag that he can."

"He did it to me in the Coast League," said Dykes, who used to manage Hollywood. "We've got a guy on second and a ball is hit to Fain at first and wham! The guy going over from second is out by 10 feet. The last guy I saw do that before then was my boy, Zeke Bonura."

You don't, of course, have to believe that. And nobody did, because everybody in the group had seen Bonura play first base in the days when Dykes, as manager of the White Sox, was wont to refer to Zeke as "my pet ox."

"Just the same," Dykes insisted, "he did it. I don't know whether he figured the play out or did it by accident, but he fielded a ball in first and threw out a runner at third."

"Our pitchers look good," Simmons said. "Phil Marchildon and Bill McCahan, who had trouble last year, look good. Marchildon was sick last year with what they called chronic influenza, some bug he picked up in German prison camps. McCahan had a sore arm. That Marchildon was always nervous, of course. Dykes made him that way."

"I didn't," Dykes said. "All I did was sing that French Canadian song at him, 'Allouette.' How did I know he didn't like it?"

"Remember when we made a deal?" Simmons said. "You agreed to lay off Marchildon and I said I'd quit picking on your pitcher, Edgar Smith."

SOMEBODY SAID, I understand that Connie Mack is still picking the Indians, but that he told the players the other day that if they minded their p's and q's they'd have a chance to win."

"He gave the boys a pep talk the other day," Simmons admitted, "it was the first time he admitted we had a chance. All winter I was reading in the papers how he picked Cleveland."

"I remember," Dykes said, "when we broke camp in 1930 and he called us together and told us we were the worst team he ever had. He said we'd been lucky to win in '29, and didn't have a chance to repeat. So we played about 15 games going north, and won about 13, just to show him."

"I know," Simmons said, "that was the spring when we were helling around in training camp and he just wanted to let us know he knew what was going on."

Somebody asked, "How about that exhibition game in Indianapolis?"

"I forget what year that was," Simmons said, "some of us had a date to drive to St. Louis, where we were playing the next day, with some friends. We all figured to get out of the exhibition game early, but I had to play sick before the Old Man would take me out. Jimmy Foxx was already out.

"Well, we drove over and on the train nobody ever mentioned to the Old Man that two or three of us were missing. He didn't know a thing, see? Everything went fine until the team was getting off in the St. Louis station. Then Connie pointed up to the luggage rack and spoke to the road secretary:

"'You'd better take Fawxey's hat,' he said, 'he may want it.' No, he didn't know a thing."

"I FINED YOU one time for missing a train," said Dykes, who was Simmon's manager in Chicago.

"But it didn't stick," Al said. "Afterward you told me 'I had to save $250 to impress some of the younger players.'"

"I never held that against you," Simmons said, "but I can't forget the year I batted .331 for you, got 200 hits and drove in 119 runs and took a $7500 cut the next season. I think of it every time I read about some guy getting $100,000 for playing one year. Why, there was one year when I batted .386 and was no better than fourth in the league. That was the year Harry Heilman hit .403."

"I never asked to be your manager," Dykes said. "I was playing with the White Sox and Lou Comiskey, who owned the club, called me up and asked me about being manager. He said he had made up his mind to let Lou Fonseca go, so I said, well, in that case I'd like to be considered. 'You're the manager,' he told me.

"But he wasn't able to get hold of Fonseca that night. Next day Lou held a clubhouse meeting. He told us how things were going and how none of us could be sure of a job. Anybody could be fired at any minute, he said. 'It might be me,' he said.

"I couldn't say a word. But I sure knew he was right. Right on the button."

Romans, 2 Others Tied For Second

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4 (AP). Pete Cooper, a home-grown Floridian, and Johnny Palmer, a North Carolina lad, shot into the lead of the St. Petersburg Golf Open today at the halfway point.

They had 135 for the 36 holes, three strokes better than their nearest competitors.

Palmer blazed his way around the 6260-yard Pasadena course in 66. Cooper took 67.

Yesterday Cooper, of Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., had 68, and Palmer of Badin, N. C., had 69.

Palmer is in his fifth year on the professional tour and the fifth best 1949 money winner. He also is the leader for Vardon Trophy points with the lowest average score of the PGA group.

Cooper is picking up the 1949 tour here. His wife and three children have been the reason he has stuck close to home and never made the full tour.

Three Tied for Second

But when he mixes with the touring pros, he holds his own. Last year he took down $12,000 play in 12 events.

The rest of the field was well bunched with three players tied for third place.

Ky Laffoon and Henry Ransom, both representing St. Andrews, Ill., and Walter Romans of Baltimore, all were four under par after 36 holes of play with 138.

Laffoon, playing steady golf, matched his yesterday's 69, two under par for the 6260-yard Pasadena course.

Hamilton, Worsham Have 139

Two veterans of the winter tour, crowd-pleasing Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, scorched their way around the links today in 66 strokes, best of the tourney thus far.

Both had two over par 73s yesterday. Today's top rounds put them four strokes back of the leading trio with 139.

Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., the first round leader with 67, turned in a 72 today. He was in the jam-packed 139 bracket along with Ted Kroll of Philmont, Pa., and Lew Worsham of Washington, D. C. Kroll was even par 71 and Worsham 70 today.

Football Ok'd For 6 County High Schools

The six bigest high schools in Prince Georges County yesterday were granted permission to recruit their first varsity football teams this fall.

The County Board of Education announced that it has accepted the University of Maryland's offer of Byrd Stadium for 18 playing dates, and will allow Laurel, Greenbelt, Hyattsville, Bladensburg, Mount Rainier and Maryland Park to form a league.

The teams will play a round-robin schedule fo 15 games, all on Friday or Saturday nights at Byrd Stadium. In addition, each team is permitted to play one nonleague game. Three of these will be played at the stadium, the other three on the fields of the nonleague teams.

Player eligibility rules will roughly parallel those of the District public highs. Thirty players will be permitted on each squad. None of the schools will be permitted to fied a junior varsity or freshman team.

September 7 is the first day on which the teams will be allowed to practice football. However, a two-week period in the spring has been set aside for dummy drils with no body contact or heavy equipment. The regular season ends November 30.

Governing of the football program will be vested in a general administrative control council of three men, including two Board of Education members appointed by Superintendent of Schools Gordner Shugart, and a representative of the county public high schools.—HERB HEFT.

Training Briefs

DiMaggio Is Working Out Again

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4 (U.P.)—The picture brightened considerably in the New York Yankee camp today as Infielder Bobby Brown finally signed his contract and Joe DiMaggio resumed training.

DiMaggio, who went to Baltimore earlier in the week to have his foot examined, took part in pepper practice and fielded a little. He then took his turn in the batting cage without apparent discomfort to his heel. DiMaggio jogged one lap around the field, alternately running and walking. Plastic arches for his baseball shoes have not arrived, but he used a pair of rubber heel pads.

Cooper Tests Knee

Phoenix, Ariz., March 4 (AP).—Walker Cooper, big question mark for the New York Giants, will work two or three innings in Sunday's first intra-squad game, club officials said today.

Thus far Cooper, whose injured left knee proved a severe handicap to the Polo Grounders last season, has done nothing but hit, run and throw. The necessity of crouching behind the plate is expected to test the injured knee which has twice been operated on for the removal of bone chips.

Cards Curve 'Em

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4 (AP).—St. Louis Cardinal pitchers are already being encouraged to throw curves.

Early in the season last year there were some complaints from fans that Manager Eddie Dyer's hurlers were ineffective because they hadn't started twisting them over the plate early enough in the training period.

McCahan Ailing

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 4 (AP).—Bill McCahan, a rookie sensation of two years ago but a flop last year because of injuries, found the 1949 going rough today.

The Philadelphia Athletics' pitcher was the first spring training casualty when he developed a tooth abscess. The ailing denture was removed but a blood vessel was nipped in the process. Bill will be out of action for a little while.

Gumbert Barred

Tampa, Fla., March 4 (U.P.)—Pitcher Harry Gumbert today was refused permission to train with the Cincinnati Reds until he signs his 1949 contract. Gumbert reportedly has declined the same salary he received a year ago.

Tigers Bunt

Lakeland, Fla., March 4 (AP).—The Detroit Tiger squad of pitchers and catchers were pushed through a 3½-hour workout today, with Skipper Red Rolfe stressing bunting and fielding. The Tiger manager has emphasized that he'll have the Tigers employing the bunt often this season.

Navy, Army Game Tonight May Draw 5000 Fans

Annapolis, Md., March 4 (AP)—A couple of not-so-winning basketball teams will collide here tomorrow night, but since their names are Army and Navy, you'll have to fight your way in.

The Naval Academy announced a sell-out crowd of 5000 will squeeze into Dahlgren Hall for the classic (8 p.m.), and some may bring binoculars at that.

Army's big team, its lineup studded with football stalwarts, arrived today with a record of seven wins and nine defeats. Navy, which has won 11 and lost nine, will seek its third straight over Army. The West Point quintet hasn't been able to stop Navy since Coach Ben Carnevale became coach here in 1946-47.

De Marco Upsets Graham in Garden

New York, March 4 (AP).—Paddy de Marco, a rough, tough mauler from Brooklyn, huffed and puffed all over the Madison Square Garden ring tonight to upset Billy Graham of New York in the feature 10-rounder. The decision was unanimous. De Marco weighed 135½, Graham 141.

De Marco was a 9-to-5 underdog and he seemed to resent it. He swarmed all over the taller and heavier Graham to pile up a big lead in the early rounds. By the time Graham solved the Brooklynite's tactics in the latter stages, it was too late.

Aurbach on Air

Durham, N. C., March 4 (AP).—The Southern Confeernce Sports Writers Association today elected Smith Barrier, Greensboro (N. C.) Daily News sports editor, president.

Terps in 3-Way Scrap for Loop Wrestling Title

Lexington, Va., March 4 (AP).—A three-way fight between Washington and Lee's defending champions, Virginia Military Institute and Maryland will be settled tomorrow night in the finals of the twelfth annual Southern Conference Wrestling Tournament.

The host Generals, defending the title they won with ease last year, found the going rough in tonight's semifinals. Nevertheless, they placed four men in the finals..

VMI and Maryland each sent three men into the final round.

Unofficial team point standings based on tonight's results counting 1 point bonus for each fall put W. and L. on top with 20; VMI and Maryland, 14 each; Duke, 9; North Carolina, 8; Wake Forest, 5; Virginia Tech, 4; The Citadel, 2, and Davidson, 0.

seconds to send the game into its first dramatic overtime session.

When the third overtime was launched, the Colonials had four subs and only one regular, little Gene Witkin, in the lineup to make their predicament even more serious, if possible, Witkin had four personal fouls on him. One more and the besieged scrappers from D. C., would have to finish the ball game with only four men.

Although they were thrown into the breach out of sheer necessity, Chet Pietras, Dave Shapiro, Phil McNiff and Schreiber combined with Witkin to prove more than the equal of their Indian opponents.

Haithcock Clicks in Clutch

Haithcock, who dunked in two foul shots in the last minute and a half to force the overtime, cashed in on the second with only 15 seconds to go. That tied it, 62-62.

After Willie Sokol had tied the first overtime at 65-65, GW still had time to win the game in that round, but missed out, the Colonials had the ball for the last 45 seconds of the period, but failed to take a shot.

They didn't know that the clock would not register its customary red warning light in the last minute but watched for the signal that never appeared anyway. The signal appears only at the 20-minute mark, not the 5-minute mark as a result, GW froze thmselves into a second hectic overtime.

This was another show-stopper. GW had it in the bag, or so it seemed. The Colonials led, 69-67, with 16 seconds to play and also had the ball. But Sokol wrested it awaq from McNiff, tossed it to Giermak and the lanky hoop-spotter swished it in from 25 feet just as the gun and that round ended, 69-69.

Giermak Suffers Cramps

For all practical purposes, GW was licked. Witkin, who played most of the game, was so tired he fell on the floor at the gun from sheer exhaustion. And Pietras, Schrieber and McNiff certainly were no names for the Indians to fear.

But McNiff rammed in a set shot, followed with a free throw and the amazing Colonials led, 72-69. Bob Holy made a free throw for the Indians and on the following play Giermak fell out with a fatigue cramp and had to be carried to the bench.

There were still two and a half minutes remaining, plenty of time for the Indians to overcome a two-point lead. But Schreiber potted a one-hander and ten seconds later intercepted a pass to score again and the Tribe from Williamsburg was out of the tournament.

Lions Upset Indians, 4-3

The Washington Lions backed the splendid goal tending of Rookie Lou Crowdis with some heads-up ice hockey last night as they upset the Springfield Indians in an American League match on Uline ice, 4-3.

Only 875 persons saw the veteran Augie Herchenratter fire what proved to be Washington's winning goal when he cashed passes from Bryan Hextall and Tom Forgie at 5:34 of the third period.

Pep's Pilot Negotiates With Louis

Havana, March 4 (AP).—Lou Viscusi, manager of Featherweight Champion Willie Pep, said tonight he was negotiating with Joe Louis to stage a featherweight title fight in New York this summer.

The bout would be held in the Polo Grounds, Viscusi said.

Viscusi and Pep are vacationing here. Louis has an exhibition fight here tonight.

Such a move would be a second break between Louis and Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Sporting Club. Louis resigned his heavyweight championship Tuesday and helped form the International Boxing Club, a promotion venture.

He announced plans to match Ezzard Charles and Joe Walcott this summer for the vacated title. No site for such a match has been selected.

Pep regained the featherweight title only last month when he outpointed Sandy Saddler at Madison Square Garden. That fight was promoted by the 20th Century Sporting Club. The 20th has held exclusive fight promotion rights to both the Polo Grounds and the Yankee Stadium.

None of the 20th's officials were available for immediate comment.

Kendall Loses Two Games

White Plains, N. Y., March 4. Kendall School for the Deaf of Washington, D. C., dropped from the running in the Eastern Deaf School Basketball tournament here today with two straight losses. American Deaf School of Hartford downed Kendall, 45-44, and then St. Mary's Deaf School of Buffalo beat the Washingtonians, 47-28.

The first game was the closest game this tournament has seen in its 17 years, in first round play.

American U. Boxes Hoyas

American University, unable to schedule any of the big three in basketball, will attempt to take a bout out on Georgetown in the boxing ring this evening at the American U. gym at 8 o'clock.

American has won one, lost two, and has one draw on its record. Georgetown has won one and lost two. The Hoyas, however, defeated CCNW 5½-2½, while American bowed to the same squad, 4½-3½.

The feature bout will probably be in the 155-pound class where Georgetown's Jack Talbot will face America's Stan Grogan.

Grogan has never stayed in the ring for more than 1:40 of the first round while losing one fight and winning three. His total time for four bouts is only 4 minutes and 49 seconds.

County Boys Semifinals Today

Court 1—Bladensburg vs. Beltsville; Court 2—Landover Hills vs. Capitol Heights; Court 3—Bladensburg vs. Oxon Hill; Court 4—Lanham vs. Capitol Heights.

The first two courts will have the senior games, while the last two have the juniors. Finals will be held March 8 in the Maryland Coliseum.

Touchdowners Fete Martin

Glenn L. Martin, president of the League of Maryland Sportsmen, will be the main speaker at the Touchdown Club's luncheon Monday at 12:30.

Martin will bring several of the current Sportsmen Show's star performers to the luncheon, including Rosie, the singing bear, and her trainer, Beebe. Chief Henry Red Eagle, the master of ceremonies at the outdoor show, also will be on hand.

DCAAU Gymnasts Compete Tonight

Approximately 30 amateur acrobats will vie for titles tonight at the Central YMCA in the District of Columbia's AAU's first annual gymnastics championships. The seven-event program opens at 8.15 p. m.

Champions will be crowned in the rope climb, tumbling, side horse, horizontal and parallel bars, trampoline and the flying rings.

Evans, Marvin Gain in Squash

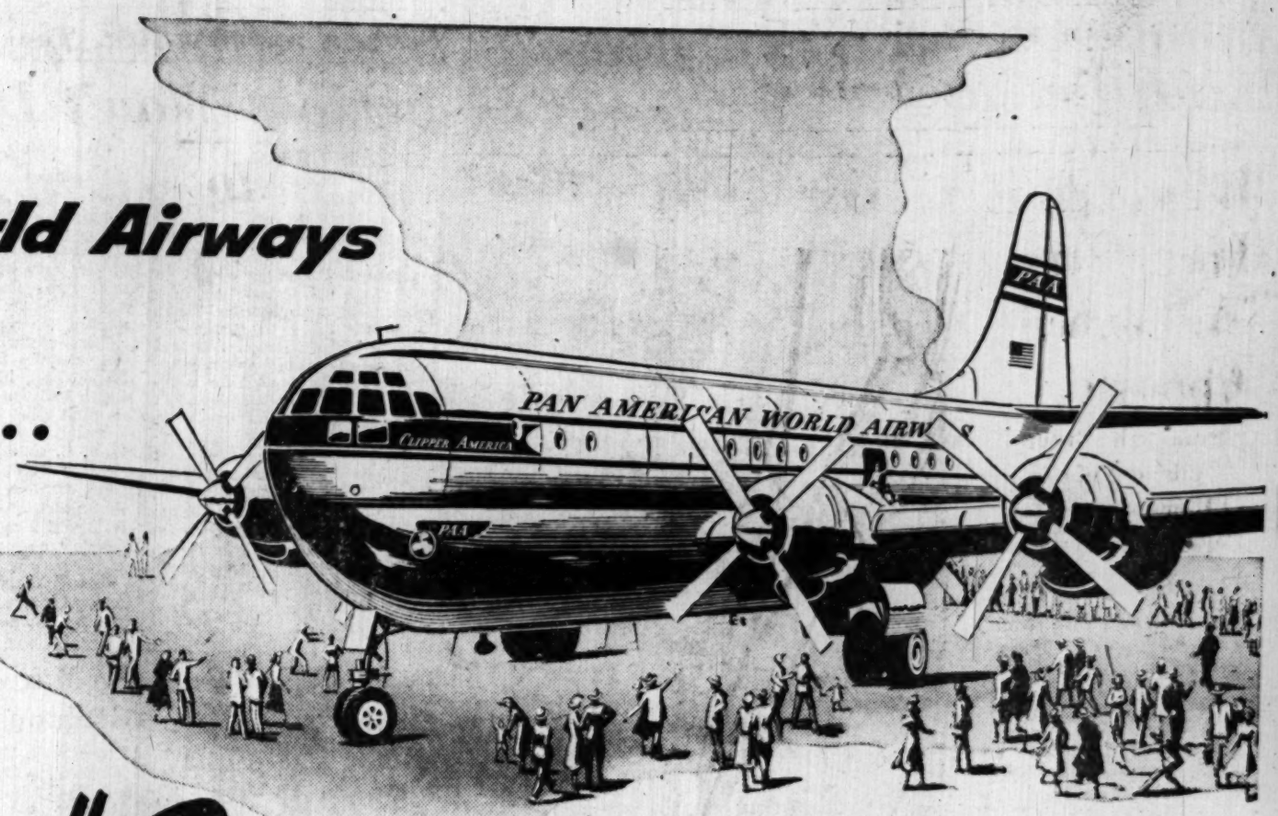

Roland D. Evans and Langdon P. Marvin, jr., advanced to the semifinal round of the D. C. A. A. U. squash tournament at the University Club yesterday afternoon.

Evans will meet the winner of the match between Frank Pace, jr., and last year's champion, James Thackara, while Marvin will meet the winner of the Nicholas Powel-John B. Oliver match.

• This 75-passenger luxury Clipper is the first true intercontinental liner of the Air Age. Five years of development lie back of her. She and her sister ships will cut San Francisco-Honolulu flight-time from 12 hours to 9½ . . . New York to London from 14 hours to 12 and New York to Rio from 25¼ hours to 18.

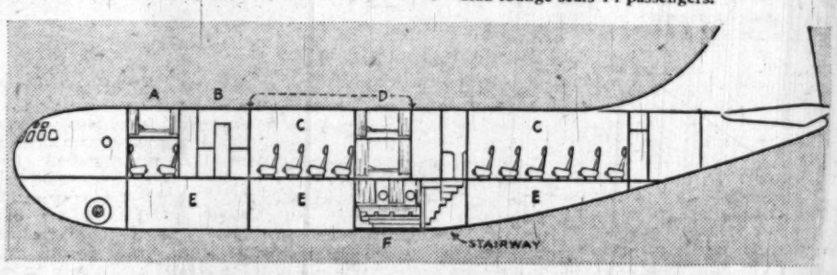

For the first time you have ample room to move around while aloft. For the first time in the Air Age, Pan American has put luxury on wings!

Here's the first of 20 of these new, giant Clippers—the largest, fastest, most comfortable airliners in the world!

It takes foresight to plan, order and develop an airplane like this! The same kind of foresight that made Pan American the first U. S. airline to use multi-engine aircraft . . . (1927). The first to use 4-engine aircraft in overseas service . . . (1935). The first to pioneer 'round-the-world service in 1947.

Bills to Shift Park Work To Council Opposed

Annapolis Group Fails to Approve Montgomery Plan; House Defers Action

By a Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., March 4.—The ways and means committee of the House of Delegates yesterday reported unfavorably on four bills to transfer functions of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission to the Montgomery County Council.

Action by the House on the bills was postponed until Tuesday after Anders R. Lofstrand, jr., member of the all-Republican Montgomery delegation which introduced the bills, moved that the report be made a special order of business for that day.

The four bills would transfer all functions except park aquisition and maintenance from the commission to the council. The ways and means committee reported unfavorably by a vote of 10 to 7.

Lee Buttonholes Delegates

Both sides in the controversy were busily engaged in lining up support for a struggle on the floor when the postponement was agreed upon because of the lateness of the hour and the small attendance in the House. Many delegates from long distances had started for home.

Col. E. Brooke Lee, vice chairman of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, was buttonholing delegates in the lobby as they approached the House chamber, and the Republicans had mimeographed copies of a statement by the county council supporting the bills placed on the desk of each delegate.

Clark denied the bills were "ripper" bills in urging favorable action by the committee. He said they merely returned the planning commission to its original status of 1927.

Three Rockville Bills Offered

Leroy Pumphrey (D., Prince Georges), chairman of the committee, told the members that they could not have effective regional planning with two separate groups.

"It would be fatal to emasculate the commission for political purposes," Pumphrey said.

Three bills affecting Rockville, county seat of Montgomery County, were introduced in Senate today by Senator Roy Tasco Davis (R., Montgomery). They included extension of the town limits to include Twinbrook, Haiti and Lincoln Park subdivisions, and to borrow an amount not to exceed $70,000 to take over the Twinbrook water and sewage system for inclusion in the town system.

Senator Davis also introduced a bill to authorize the Montgomery County Council to impose a tax not to exceed 10 cents in the Sandy Spring fire area for the Sandy Spring volunteer fire department.

Child Aid Bill Passed

The House passed a bill sponsored by the Montgomery County delegation which would increase from $200 to $400 the State allowance per child for education of handicapped children.

Two other measures, one giving Charles County trial magistrates authority over nonsupport cases and another permitting beer and wine sales in St. Marys County until 1 a. m. daily and 2 a. m. Sundays, were passed by the House.

Services to Honor Holmes Anniversary

Commemoration services in honor of the 108th anniversary of the birth of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes will be held at his grave in Arlington National Cemetery at 2:30 p. m. today.

Members of Oliver Wendell Holmes alumni and active chapters of Sigma Nu Phi legal fraternity, to which the late Supreme Court justice was patron and friend, will participate. Services will be conducted by Harold J. Crelly, chief inspector of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Girl Scouts in a Salute to World Friendship . . .

by Arthur Fitz—The Washington Post

COLORS PARADED—Girl Scouts of District 6 assembled yesterday in the auditorium of Alice Deal Junior High School stand and salute as troop colors pass down the aisle. Some 500 Girl Scouts and Brownies participated in the world friendship program in honor of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts. Money collected for use in international Girl Scout work will be turned over to the Low Memorial Fund, March 12, at a thirty-seventh anniversary ceremony in the Pan American Union Building. Skits, songs and a movie were on yesterday's program.

Gunmen Take $150 in Liquor Store Holdup

4 Women Robbed Of $197 in Other Street Forays

A fast-moving gunman held up a liquor store of $150 last night, while other robbers victimized four women of $197 in street forays.

Alexander Eliades, coproprietor of the Greenbrier Liquor Store, 1023 Vermont ave. nw., was forced to turn over the contents of the cash register shortly before 8 p. m. to a neatly dressed pistol wielder who fled as the coproprietor's brother, George, emerged from a rear stockroom.

George Eliades reported that his brother had been held up at three different locations where the brothers have done business.

Alexander described the gunman as a medium brown-skinned Negro with a pencil mustache, about 25 years old, 5 feet 6 inches, medium build, and wearing a brown hat and suit.

Another gunman took $30 from Mrs. Billie Long, 25, of 417 Burbank pl. se., as she was walking at Ridge rd. and Texas ave. se. at 8:15 p. m, she told police. He was described as a 17-year-old Negro, 125 pounds and wearing a dark jacket and light trousers.

The purse of Rebecca M. Royce of 3009 Cambridge pl. nw., was snatched from under her arm at 7:15 p. m. in the 1200 block of 31st st. nw., she reported. It contained $25. Her assailant was said to be a light-skinned Negro about 5 feet 9 inches tall.

Police said this was the third such incident reported within a month occurring at the same place and same time of day by a man of the same general description. In all cases he fled through an alley toward Wisconsin ave., they said.

In another purse snatching at 7:30 p. m., Marie Haley, 40, an Interior Department employe of 2100 F st. nw., lost $38 in cash and an indorsed Government check for $92 at 21st and I sts. nw., she reported.

The footpad was described as a medium brown-skinned Negro, 5 feet 7 inches, and 150 pounds, hatless and wearing a leather jacket and dark clothing.

Miss Jeanne Smith, 23, of 1424 Chapin st. nw., lost her purse containing $12 to a purse snatcher about 11 p. m. in front of her home, but the snatcher also carried off a sore finger where she bit him in an attempt to retain her possessions. She could only describe him as a young Negro.

Admits Slapping

Clerk Held For Jury in Wife's Death

Stanley Alczak, 35-year-old mail clerk, yesterday was ordered held for action of the grand jury at a coroner's inquest in the death of his common-law wife.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Abell Reed, 45, was found dead of a fractured skull and a brain hemorrhage Thursday night in the room they occupied at 1300 Vermont ave. nw. Both her eyes were blackened and her face and neck were scratched and bruised, police said.

The Washington Post
STANLEY ALCZAK

Detective Sergt. Lionel Couture, of the homicide squad, testified yesterday that Alczak admitted slapping Mrs. Reed several times during an argument in their room about 2:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Couture said Alczak gave him the following account of what had happened:

The argument had followed an evening in which both had been drinking heavily. After the argument, they both went to bed. Mrs. Reed appeared to be still sleeping late Wednesday afternoon when he got up for work.

When he returned from work about 1 p. m. Thursday, she was still lying on the bed and he was unable to arouse her, so he decided to use cold compresses. She appeared to suffer convulsions and could not be roused, and he finally called for an ambulance shortly after 7 p. m.

Alczak did not testify.

3 Witnesses Back Alibi of Police Private

Trial Board Defers Decision on Alleged Assault in Taxicab

Charges that he had blackjacked a civilian were emphatically denied yesterday by a Washington policeman, who produced three witnesses to testify before a Police Trial Board that he was with them the night of the alleged offense.

On trial was Pvt. Gregory A. O'Connor, 29, of the Thirteenth Precinct, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer, using unnecessary violence and willfully making an untruthful statement to a superior officer.

The charges arose from a complaint by Robert L. Simms, 30, of 7-S Research rd., Greenbelt, Md., that he was assaulted by O'Connor in Berwyn, Md., early on the morning of February 15. Simms has since left for Panama, where he is employed.

O'Connor stated yesterday that he has never known or spoken to Simms. On the morning in question, he left a tavern in Berwyn, Md., with several other men and was driven home by one of them, he declared.

Three men, John Ring, proprietor of the tavern at 9098 Baltimore blvd.; Wallace Eddleman of 9505 Baltimore blvd., and Charles Clay, jr., a retired Washington policeman, of 4804 Delaware st., corroborated O'Connor's testimony that he was driven home from the tavern in Eddleman's car.

The testimony of the defendant and the three witnesses was in direct contradiction to that given earlier in the hearing by Ralph Kline, a driver for the Branchville Cab Co., who said he picked up Simms and O'Connor in his taxicab early that morning and that O'Connor beat Simms with a blackjack in the cab.

The board refused to accept as evidence a deposition taken by police from Simms before he left for Panama, after defense counsel, T. Emmett McKenzie, argued it would violate his client's constitutional rights if he were denied the right to confront the complainant.

Following an earlier hearing, the board ordered Pvt. Phillip L. Thomas, of the Eleventh Precinct, to pay $150 in fines for conduct prejudicial to the reputation and good order of the Police Department.

Thomas pleaded guilty to the specification that he had failed to report for duty, for which he was fined $50, and to the specification that he had been going out and around while he was supposedly on sick leave, for which he was fined $100. He blamed his actions on domestic difficulties.

Holober Indicted in Slayings, Sent for Mental Observation

Charles F. Holober was indicted by the Fairfax County grand jury yesterday on charges of murdering his wife and child and was ordered sent to the Virginia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Marion for observation.

The grand jury called into special session to consider the two indictments against the 40-year-old Washington jewelry clerk, handed up the indictments after questioning four witnesses for 50 minutes.

Holober pleaded innocent to both charges and was ordered sent to Marion by Circuit Court Judge Paul E. Brown after Dr. H. C. Bradford, county health officer, testified there was some question as to his sanity.

Judge Brown said, "In compliance with the statutes, I am committing the defendant to Marion for observation. I am not holding whether he is or is not insane."

Sheriff John E. Taylor said he would drive Holober to the State hospital today.

Commonwealth's Attorney Hugh B. Marsh said that if Holober is found sane, or if he is committed and later released, he will be returned to Fairfax for trial.

Present in the courtroom when Holober was arraigned were his parents and several other relatives. He smiled a greeting to them as he entered the courtroom for arraignment and looked back toward them again as he was taken out. It was the first time he had seen them since his arrest in Washington Sunday. Later, they visited with him for a few minutes in the county jail.

Holober's attorneys were Frank L. Ball and John Locke Green, both of Arlington. Green is treasurer of Arlington County. Another man, identified as a Washington attorney named Josiah Lyman, who had visited Holober at the jail Tuesday, was present, but took no part in the courtroom proceedings.

According to police, Holober has confessed to shooting his wife and burying her with their 8-month-old daughter. Tuesday, he willingly reenacted the crime for police. He said he killed his wife because she failed to live up to their agreement to remain separated.

Auto Driver Cleared in Boy's Death

William R. Spencer, 26, of 3238 13th st. nw., was acquitted by Trial Magistrate Arthur P. Owens, of Upper Marlboro police court. The boy, Edwin F. Smith, was killed at Forestville when his bicycle ran into the path of Spencer's car on the Marlboro pike.

Spencer, an Andrews Air Force Base bricklayer, testified young Smith pedaled his bicycle onto the highway suddenly. He said he "pulled to the left as hard as I could," but was unable to avoid the collision.

In clearing the bricklayer, Judge Owens deplored the tragedy, but said there was no evidence to indicate the car had been operated in a grossly negligent manner.

Remedial Reading Group Opens Institute Today

A regional institute of the National Association of Remedial Reading Teachers, sponsored by the George Washington University, will open today at 10 a. m. in Lisner Auditorium.

Dr. William Kottmeyer, superintendent of instruction, and director of the reading clinic in St. Louis, Mo., will speak on "How to Meet Reading Needs in the Classroom." His address will be followed by group workshop discussions.

A luncheon will follow at 1 p. m. at the Roger Smith Hotel at which Miss Mary Gould Davis, children's editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, will speak.

Celler Bill Asks for 3 More Judges

Representative Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.) yesterday asked Congress to provide District Court here with three more judges to help reduce a mounting backlog of untried cases.

Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, introduced a bill which would authorize increasing the number of District Court judges here from 12 to 15. The bill was referred to Celler's committee.

Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws declared the three new judges were urgently needed.

"Because of the pressure of new and important business, District Court has reached the point where it requires more judges," said Judge Laws.

He said that in 1945 civil jury trials were being started within three months from the time they were ordered, and non-jury trials in civil cases were being reached within five months. At that time, he said, the criminal docket was in a less favorable status but not seriously behind.

Since that time, said Judge Laws, the case load in District Court has increased tremendously. At present it takes 13 months to reach civil jury cases, and 15 months to reach civil non-jury cases, he said.

Man Killed in Train Leap Identified

A man, killed in Potomac Yards, Alexandria, Thursday night when he fell from a train was identified by police yesterday as Aubrey Parker, 19, of Woodford, Va.

According to the police report, Parker, a laborer at the yards, tried to jump from the train before it had stopped, slipped and fell under the wheels. Dr. John A. Sims, city coroner, issued a certificate of accidental death.

Woman Is Overcome By Smoke in Apartment

Dr. Carol Jackson, 40, was recovering in Garfield Hospital yesterday from the effects of smoke inhaled during a fire Thursday night in her apartment at 2032 Belmont rd. nw.

The fire is believed to have started from a short circuit in a lamp. Dr. Jackson telephoned the building manager but collapsed as she was trying to escape from the apartment. Firemen found her lying on the floor.

2 Men Arrested As Numbers Suspects in Raid

The men, Thomas S. Clementi, 52, of 3955 Blaine st. ne., and Oscar Griggs, 37, of 4620 Washington pl. ne., an employe at the filling station, were charged with operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips. They were released in $1500 bond each and will appear today before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence.

Lieut. Roy Blick, vice squad chief, said the two men had been under observation for about a week. Alleged lottery slips and marked money were found on the men, Blick said. Clementi, he added, had $818 in his possession.

Lane Pardons Two D. C. Men Imprisoned for Intent to Rape

Annapolis, Md., March 4 (AP).—Two Washington men serving prison sentences for intent to rape were granted pardons tonight by Governor Lane at the request of the State's attorney who prosecuted them.

The Governor pardoned Frank Cowens, 41, and Paul Courtney Fugitt, 31, who were sentenced last December 9 in Prince Georges County to serve five years. They were convicted of attacking a 43-year-old woman near Oxon Hill.

State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie asked for their pardons in a letter to the Governor. He said the request was approved by Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury who sentenced Cowens and Fugitt.

Bowie said that subsequent to the trial he had questioned two persons who had knowledge of "certain very material facts" but who did not testify.

The State's attorney said he felt if they had testified "there would have been an acquittal of both defendants."

He wrote the Governor he was acting "on the theory that the State's attorney's obligations with respect to the administration of justice are not necessarily fulfilled when a trial ends and the defendant is sentenced."

The woman Fugitt and Cowens were accused of assaulting, testified they drove her to an abandoned house near Cheverly, beat her up, and tossed her from their automobile on an abandoned road. She said she had to walk naked two miles to a farmhouse.

Strayer Assails Aims of School Health Program

Finding Disease Not Enough, Says Expert in Stressing Physical Education

The District school health program concentrates too much on the "pathological and negative" and does nothing to promote the "vitality, interests and adjustments" of children.

The charge is made in the detailed report on District schools, submitted to Congress by Dr. George D. Strayer.

The survey, which points out that the present health program is limited to discovering disease, makes these observations:

"Only the strong desire of young people to engage in motor activities keeps them from open rebellion against the conditions they endure" in gymnasium dressing rooms.

Physical education in the elementary schools "barely exists" with most teachers "not competent" and "too old" to direct a program.

Supplies and equipment for physical education are inadequate. In one school of 24 classes only three balls are available. Heavy playground equipment such as swings are stored away in basements because of a fear by some principals that children may be hurt.

The present combination auditorium-gymnasium constructed for elementary schools is a "monstrosity" suitable for neither purpose and particularly bad as a gym.

"Rules Harass Inspectors"

"The morale of medical inspectors is very low. They are part-time employes harassed by regulations concerning hours of service, vacations and time reports."

They spend their time inspecting children for vaccination scars instead of treating children's illnesses.

"It is doubtful if the needs of children for the discovery and correction of remedial defects can be met by present policies."

"Clairvoyance is not a special endowment" of teachers who without special training are expected to decide when a child is ill enough to be referred to a doctor.

The present supply of nurses is spread too thin. There is one nurse for every 7159 students while the standard for effective service is one nurse for every 1800.

Conduct of the present health program is split between the schools and the Health Department, increasing the difficulty of organization and administration.

Food served in most junior and high school cafeterias does not meet nutritional requirements. There is no food service for elementary children who need it most.

To meet the health needs of youth the Strayer survey proposes a centralized cafeteria program and a health and physical education department under a single administrator. It would include a staff of doctors, dentists, dental hygienists, examiners and other specialists.

Under the Strayer plan examiners would take over the job now conducted by school doctors of giving cursory examinations to students. These examiners would have special training, but would not be physicians.

Examiners Could Do Job

"With two years of training beyond junior college persons could be prepared to recognize signs and symptoms of abnormality in practically all conditions that affect children," the report states.

Part-time doctors would be replaced by full-time physicians, who, relieved of their present duties, would supervise the staff of examiners and check doubtful cases. They would be assigned to health centers, where they "could make their professional competence socially useful" treating children whose parents are unable to provide private medical care.

With the present budget allowance the 28 part-time physicians would be replaced with 12 full-time doctors who would receive salaries of $6441 a year. They are to be recruited from "young doctors who wish to make a professional career of this kind of work."

An estimated 54 to 60 additional nurses would be appointed to give adequate service in following up cases treated by the physicians.

A health and safety program would be offered in elementary schools and social hygiene courses in junior and senior high schools.

In elementary grades young teachers would be assigned to take over physical education instruction excusing older teachers from the task. Playground supplies would be purchased out of the general school fund. Schools would not be dependent as at present on the generosity of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Soap, towels and benches would be supplied in junior and senior high school gymnasiums.

To provide adequate food service, the Strayer survey recommends a central cafeteria administration to replace the present system under which each school operates its own. The lunchrooms would not be expected to make money but would serve well-balanced means. Cafeterias would be set up in elementary schools.

Profession or Not?

Optometrist Control Bill Is Argued

Claims that optometrists were professional men equal in standing to attorneys and physicians, were aired yesterday at a public hearing on a bill to regulate the practice of optometry in the District.

Opponents of the bill charged that optometrists were qualified merely to make mechanical examination of the eyes and were merchants rather than professional men. The statements were made during a three-hour hearing before the District Commissioners.

Dr. Rex B. Shely, a practicing optometrist who heads the District Board of Optometry, said the present optometry law was passed during the "horse and buggy days" of the practice and since then great strides have been made. He said that by next year all 10 accredited optometry schools will require five years of training.

Opposed by Medical Group

Dr. Shely and other representatives of the field said the proposed bill was necessary to eliminate "high pressure salesmanship" exerted through "price advertising" and to establish optometry as one of the professions.

This view was roundly opposed by James N. Greear, jr., chairman of the opthalmology committee, District Medical Society. Dr. Greear said optometrists were unable to give "complete eye examinations" because they were not authorized to use drugs or insert drops in the eyes.

He said that often persons felt they needed glasses who really were suffering from such diseases as syphilis, tuberculosis, diabetes, anemia or hypertension. Optometrists were not trained to recognize early stages of such disease. They therefore could cause injury to patients if the impression were given that they had such knowledge through according them professional status, Dr. Greear said.

Dr. Greear suggested formation of a committee consisting of two optometrists, two opthalmologists, two optrometists and offices in stores and representatives of the Health Department and the United States Public Health Service to prepare a bill setting proper limits for the practice of optometry.

Ruhland Approves Move

This move was approved by Dr. George C. Ruhland, District Health Officer, and was backed by representatives of the optometric societies and of those who maintain offices in local retail stores.

Among those speaking for the bill were William P. McCracken, attorney for the District and American Optometry Associations; Dr. Evart F. Warren, president of the District group; Dr. Joseph M. Babcock, vice president of the national group; Dr. F. R. Hillyard, sr., of 5326 Georgia ave., optometrist.

Also, Horace Walker, executive secretary, District Pharmaceutical Association; Dr. Jesse A. Keene, Federation of Civic Associations; Hugh J. McGee, secretary, Society of Natives of the District; Clifford H. Newell and John H. Connaughton, past and present presidents, respectively, Federation of Citizens Associations.

Opposing the bill were William B. Wolf, attorney; Dr. Ruhland, Bernard N. Burnstine, Federation of Businessmen's Associations; A. Julian Brylawski, movie theater operator; Dr. Louis Weintrob, vice president, National Retail Optical Association; Dr. Joseph Dessoff, Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital; William A. Heilprin, Guild of Prescription Opticians of the District, and Lawrence L. Gurley, Osteopathic Association of the District.

Senate Confirms Dent

District Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent was confirmed by the Senate yesterday to continue as a member of the District Redevelopment Land Agency for a five-year term. The nomination was made by the District Commissioners.

Area News in Brief

Two-Gun Hombre Hammered to Size

A rough, tough, two-gun hombre from Roanoke, Va., was nursing a battered head in Gallinger Hospital yesterday and probably reflecting there must be an easier way to make a living.

The hammered-down hard man, Urban Lee Powell, 44, held up Gennaro Petrillo, 50, proprietor of the LaSalle Restaurant, 704 9th st. nw., late Thursday night, according to police.

Powell, police said, took $192 from the restaurant cash register and $122 from billfolds in Petrillo's pockets. The holdup took long enough for a customer, John Tretick, 40, of 73 Galveston st. nw., to slip unobserved from his booth, go to his sign shop over the restaurant and return with a hammer.

Police said after Tretick's return, Powell started to march Petrillo to the front door of the restaurant at gunpoint. Tretick slipped up behind Powell with his hammer and—bang!—that was it.

"I was always handy with tools," Tretick said later.

When police arrived, they found Petrillo and Tretick sitting on the subdued gunman. Police took from Powell a German Luger and a .32-caliber revolver, neither of which was loaded.

Powell was charged with two counts of armed robbery and taken to Gallinger Hospital for treatment of severe head injuries. Detectives visited him yesterday afternoon at the hospital, but he was still too dazed to know what had happened.

Truman Car Stop Shifted

President Truman's streetcar stop has been moved from in front of his present home in the Blair House to a locati i in front of his previous home in the White House.

Capital Transit Co. relocated loading platform from in front of the Blair House to the east side of Jackson pl. on Pennsylvania ave. nw. The move was made at the request of the Public Utilities Commission, after several Federal officials asked for the change.

Registration Deadline

Today is the deadline for persons to register to vote in Alexandria's municipal primary election April 5. The city registrar's office at the city hall will be open from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Seal Sale Goal Topped

Fairfax County has topped its $14,000 Christmas Seal sale goal according to final tabulations, Mrs. T. J. Stockton, chairman of the 1948 tuberculosis fund drive, said yesterday.

To date—$14,171.20 has been received, she said, and will be used to help support a chest X-ray clinic and a year-round educational program in the prevention of tuberculosis. Success of the sale, Mrs. Stockton said, was due to the cooperation of the community and the efforts of 80 volunteer workers.

Motorist Fined $50

Samuel Richardson, 19, of 1034 Whittingham pl. ne., was fined $50 yesterday for applying for a driver's license here by misrepresentation. According to Municipal Court evidence, on February 3, he got a brother to fill out and sign the license application.

Miller Club Formed

A Francis P. Miller for Governor Club has been organized in Fairfax County, John A. K. Donovan, general chairman of the club, announced yesterday. Its local slogan is "Return Virginia to the Leadership of States."

When informed of the move in his behalf, the Fairfax lawyer thanked members of the club for their support. The club's temporary headquarters are at 156 Hillwood ave., Falls Church, Va.

Retired Dentist

Alexandrian Kills Himself With Rifle

The death of Frank Bostwick, 69, whose body was found in the kitchen of his Parkfairfax apartment in Alexandria early yesterday, was officially listed a suicide last night by Dr. John A. Sims, city coroner.

Police said Bostwick apparently sat on a kitchen stool and shot himself in the stomach with a rifle.

According to the police report, Mrs. Bostwick said she heard a noise about 5:50 a. m. that sounded as though the people in the upstairs apartment had knocked over a table. She said she ran out to the living room where her husband had been sleeping, saw he was not in his bed and then found he was dead.

Police said they learned Bostwick was a retired dentist who had been suffering from cancer.

Rhode Island Woman Dies on Visit Here

The body of Mrs. Mary Magdelene Harrison was found about 3 a. m. by her sister, Mrs. B. C. Snow, lying on the floor of a bedroom in the Snow home at 5946 N. 10th rd., police said. A note was found in the bedroom, but officers declined to divulge its contents.

Paint Shop Boss Is Honored at Capital Transit

Raymond Renneberger, paint shop foreman for the Capital Transit Co., was honored by company officials and fellow employes last night for his 50 years of service with the company.

Renneberger

At a party in the Pepco auditorium, by several hundred company employes and their wives, he received an easy chair from company officials, and a television set, a gift of the mechanical department.

Renneberger, who lives at 800 Whittier pl. nw., began his service with the old Metropolitan Railway in January, 1899. He has been paint shop foreman since 1915.

Takoma Park College To Start Funds Drive

Washington Missionary College in Takoma Park, Md., will launch a drive in Greater Washington tonight for mission funds to support Seventh-day Adventist work throughout the world.

Campaign director Andrew J. Robbins announced that the college's 775 students will be divided into 20 groups to cover the Southeast and Northwest sections of the District. The seven-day goal is $8000.

Atwater Kent, Radio Pioneer, Dead at 75

Hollywood, March 4 (U.P.).—Atwater Kent, to whose sumptuous estate flocked all the great names of Hollywood and Europe to be wined and dined by the master party-giver of them all, died today at the age of 75.

Mr. Kent

The white-haired "Mr. Host of Hollywood" had been ill with a virus infection since last fall. For a time he was too weak even to totter downstairs to his fabulous parties, which went on without him.

His doctor said death was due to "complications from a malignant condition that has existed for some time."

Kent, a self-made millionaire many times over, built up his vast fortune as a radio and automobile parts manufacturer. In 1936 he retired to "give his money away," he said, through the Atwater Kent Foundation, which sponsored musical contests, hobbies, and cultural events.

During the nine years Kent reigned on his 12-acre estate atop the highest hill in exclusive Bel-Air, he poured champagne at more than 800 celebrations and became the "world's champion party-giver."

It was his usual routine to mingle with the big names who flocked to his home, accept a kiss on his pink cheek from the actresses and then toddle up to bed while the party went on without him, usually until dawn.

"Just like to see the young folks have a good time," he explained.

His divorced wife, Mrs. Mabel Lucas, lives in Philadelphia. Other survivors include a son, A. Atwater Kent, jr., and two daughters, Elizabeth K. Van Allen and Virginia K. Catherwood, all of Philadelphia. An adopted son, J. Prentiss Kent, lives in New York.

Pvt. M. J. Hall Dies; 24 Years In Police Posts

Pvt. Maurice J. Hall, 48, who began his 25th year on the Metropolitan police force last Wednesday, died at Emergency Hospital Thursday night, less than an hour after he was stricken with a heart attack.

Pvt. Hall

He suffered the attack at his home at 2215 42d st. nw., about 10:45 p.m., shortly after he had returned from seeing a boxing match at Catholic University.

Pvt. Hall was born in Hume, Va., in Fauquier County, and attended school there. Later he moved to Marshall, Va., with his parents and came to Washington shortly before joining the Police Department March 2, 1925.

Most of his police career was spent as a station clerk in the Seventh and Eighth Precinct station houses and at the detective bureau at police headquarters. He had worked at the bureau from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., the day of his death.

Private Hall was commended in 1926 when, as a rookie, he helped in the arrest of three auto thieves, and again in 1936 for his service when the Barnum and Bailey and Ringling Bros. Circus tent was damaged in a storm.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Christie E. Hall, and a sister, Mrs. William N. Curtis of Marshall.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 12:30 p. m. at the Methodist Church in Marshall, where he will be buried.

Mrs. Watson, Wife of D. C. Attorney, Dies

Mrs. Kenneth Nicoll Watson, 35, wife of a Washington attorney, died yesterday in Doctors Hospital. She had been hospitalized for about two months.

Mrs. Watson

The former Diane Mary Gwynne Maitland, she was born in England and spent her early life there, although making frequent trips to the United States.

She was married to Mr. Watson in 1938 and shortly thereafter made Washington her home, although she traveled extensively with her husband. She made her debut here in 1934 and was also presented to the Court of St. James's.

Active in Washington social life, Mrs. Watson also devoted much of her time to war work. She participated in projects of the American Women's Voluntary Services and the American Red Cross.

For a time during the war the Watsons lived in Colombia, where Mr. Watson was an American naval attache.

A direct descendant of the first Earl of Derventwater, Mrs. Watson was the daughter of Mrs. Hamilton Condon of Nassau and the late Dr. Thomas Maitland, British surgeon.

In addition to her husband and mother, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Giani Bernasconi of Geneva, Switzerland, and an aunt, Ethel Radcliffe, the Priory, Caerlon, Monmouthshire, England.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Funeral Rites Set Today for J. P. McMahon

Requiem mass will be said for Judge John P. McMahon, 69, who died Thursday of a heart attack, at 10 a. m. today at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart.

Municipal Court sessions were curtailed in his honor, flags were flown at half staff in Judiciary Square yesterday and a fellow jurist asked the drunks who had so often appeared before Judge McMahon to say a prayer in his memory.

Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Eulogized by Bar

High praise was given Judge McMahon in virtually every courtroom here as members of the bench and bar eulogized him. Judge McMahon was a veteran of 32 years on the bench.

In the District of Columbia Branch, where Judge McMahon often sat and meted out justice to the city's inebriates, Judge Thomas D. Quinn took over, called a group charged with drunkenness from the dock and said:

"He was an outstanding citizen, a good lawyer, and an excellent judge. And in his death, you all have lost a friend."

Prayers Are Asked

Obviously shaken, Judge Quinn added, "I hope that wherever you are tonight, you will say a little prayer for Judge Mac."

Honorary pallbearers for the funeral will be Charles E. Alden, Charles A. Appel, sr., Carl J. Bergmann, Ralph Jones, Elkins Reed and Henry E. Stringer.

Representing the District Bar Association will be Charles W. Arth, Austin F. Canfield, John J. Carmody, Arthur P. Drury, George E. McNeil, Matthias Mahorner, jr., Godfrey L. Munter, and George E. Sullivan.

James Sidney Douglas

The funeral of James Sidney Douglas, 92, a lifelong resident of Alexandria, was held yesterday from his home, 913 Cameron st., the family residence for 160 years. Burial was in Presbyterian Cemetery.

Mr. Douglas was a life member of the Old Dominion Boat Club. He had been a member of the old Alexandria Light Infantry and was a former president of the Old Friendship Fire Company and the Reliance Volunteer Fire Company, No. 5 Company of Alexandria.

Mr. Douglas is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sally Wooden Douglas; a son, Capt. James S. Douglas, jr., USA, retired, and two daughters, Mrs. Hattie Gause, West Chester, Pa., and Mrs. Eliza Stevenson, Edmonton, Alberta.

Albert P. Mancini

Albert P. Mancini, 59, of 4705 West Virginia ave., Bethesda, died Thursday in Georgetown Hospital after a lingering illness.

Mr. Mancini came to this country from Morolo, Italy, when he was 12 years old. He had been a resident of Bethesda for 40 years, where he was in business as a stonemason.

He is survivod by his wife, Mrs. Lillie May Mancini; a son, Robert J. Mancini, of Silver Spring; two daughters, Mrs. Helen F. Snyder and Mrs. Mary L. Hartley, both of Washington, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the William Reuben Pumphrey Funeral Home, 7557 Wisconsin ave., Bethesda. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln.

Miss Annie Kelly

Joliet, Ill., March 4 (U.P.).—Miss Annie Kelly, 87, popularly credited here with inventing the ice cream soda more than 50 years ago, died at her home today.

Miss Kelly first mixed soda water with ice cream in her little candy store here in 1907. Joliet residents claim she was the original inventor.

James Angell, Former Yale President, Dies

New Haven, Conn., March 4 (AP). Former President James Rowland Angell of Yale University died today of cancer.

The 79-year-old educator, active in various fields since his retirement from Yale in 1937, had long known, friends said, that death was approaching.

Dr. Angell

He had been confined to his home in nearby Hamden, where his death occurred, since February 20.

Two weeks earlier, however, he appeared comparatively well when he spoke at the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Yale School of Nursing, founded during his presidency. That was his last public appearance.

Associates said that Angell, Yale's first nongraduate president, knew he was incurably ill as far back as last June.

For the last two years Angell had been head of an institution engaged in the fight to prevent deaths such as his. He was president of the Roscoe B. Jackson Memorial Laboratory at Bar Harbor, Me., which conducts cancer research.

Counselor for NBC

Angell also served as educational counselor for the National Broadcasting Co. after leaving Yale.

Because Angell's administration from 1921 to 1937 was marked by the greatest period of expansion in the university's more than two and a half centuries of existence, he was credited generally with being the creator of the new Yale."

Angell was proud that the construction of 10 residential colleges, the Sterling Library, law, divinity and medical buildings, the Payne Whitney Gymnasium and William L. Harkness Hall came during his presidency, but he was careful to avoid emphasizing physical expansion unduly.

It was not brought about, he said in his final report, "at the expense of teaching, or research, or the appropriate development of libraries, and collections."

Graduate of Michigan

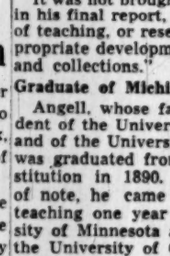

Angell, whose father was president of the University of Vermont and of the University of Michigan, was graduated from the latter institution in 1890. A psychologist of note, he came to Yale after teaching one year at the University of Minnesota and 25 years at the University of Chicago.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Catherine Cramer Woodman Angell, whom he married 16 years ago, and a son and a daughter by his first wife, Marian Isabel Watrous Angell who died in 1931. They are Mrs. William Rockefeller McAlpin of New York City and Prof. James W. Angell of the Columbia University economics department.

He also leaves a stepson and four stepdaughters, Stuart Woodman of New Haven; the Misses Caroline and Katherine Woodman, both also of New Haven; Mrs. Charles Hendel of Midland, Tex., and Mrs. William Ford of Salisbury.

Claude E. Brinker

Claude Edward Brinker, 51, an employe of the Bureau of Engraving, died Thursday at the Bethesda Naval Hospital after a 10-day illness.

Mr. Brinker

Mr. Brinker, who lived at 1832 Biltmore st. nw., had served for more than 11 years at the bureau, starting there in 1938 as a guard and later becoming a graining machine operator.

He was born at School House Run, W. Va., but later moved to Akron, Ohio, and in 1916 entered the Marine Corps. From 1916 to 1920 he served overseas with the Corps during World War I and as part of the occupation troops.

He came to Washington in 1936 and worked for two years as a civilian guard at Arlington Cemetery before entering the Bureau.

Mr. Brinker was a member of the Cottageville, W. Va. Masonic Lodge and the Bureau of Engraving Post of the American Legion. He attended the Calvary Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Merle I. Brinker and a son Harris Lee Brinker, who live at the Biltmore street address, and a brother, Merch R. Brinker, Mechanicstown, Ohio.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Chambers funeral home, 1400 Chapin st. nw. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Phillips Allen Clark

Phillips Allen Clark, son of the late Charles S. Clark who had a financial interest in the New Orleans Times-Democrat and later in the Times-Picayune, died yesterday at the residence of his sister Miss Edith Allen Clark of 3265 N st. nw.

Mr. Clark was educated at Oxford University in England and for many years a member of the New York Stock Exchange, he also was interested in the breeding of race horses and developed a number of distinguished thoroughbreds.

While Mr. Clark lived in New York, he was a frequent New Orleans visitor over a period of more than 50 years.

Dr. Frederick J. Fischer

Petersburg, Va., March 4 (AP).—Dr. Frederick J. Fischer, 70, a veterinary surgeon here for more than 40 years, died at his home today.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. J. D. McFarland of Norfolk, Mrs. J. L. Nanny and Miss Virginia E. Fischer of Petersburg; four brothers, William J. Fischer and Herbert T. Fischer, both of Petersburg; Henry Milton Fischer of Washington, and Samuel C. Fischer of Norfolk.

Funeral rites will be Monday at 2 p. m.

HIS PERSONAL LETTERS

VOLUME II - 1905-1928

Second of three 8-page tabloid installments

Appears Tomorrow—March 6th

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT undoubtedly was the most controversial figure of our time. And as such, his background, training and the events which shaped his life and influenced the lives of millions, demand examination!

In this second installment of his personal letters, written between 1907 and 1914—the years of his maturity—new and even more vital factors are brought into focus.

—the vigorous letters of a young lawyer launching into state politics.

—the brief, but electrifying wartime letters of an Ass't Secretary of the Navy, which point to the future President discussing national and international affairs.

Skillfully compiled, with extensive footnotes and annotative material, this volume also contains the Roosevelt "autobiography" with family and personal photos.

Paris, London Fashions Accent Dramatic Styles

By Peggy Preston

PARIS has upped the silhouette emphasis from the hipline to the neckline . . . Staid and proper London is offering the most exotic evening wear of the year . . . And the natural shoulder line is still strong as a mark of quality and high style.

These are the important fashion impressions of the European market, gleaned by Miss Maena Hadyen, buyer for Woodward & Lothrop's, who is back in town with a trunk full of imports after more than a month's trip abroad.

Yesterday, at a breakfast-fashion show for the press at the Carlton Hotel, Miss Hayden displayed 8 of the 13 garments which she had selected as representative of the French and English collections. The remaining five, from the houses of Dior, Balenciaga and Anny Blatt, were not cleared through New York customs in time for the preview. However, they were expected to arrive here last night, and with the remainder of the group will be displayed to the public in the store's show windows next week.

Julia King

From London

In London Miss Hayden made her selections from the collection of Peter Russell and brought back a wonderful greatcoat, a tailored tweed suit, a sheer wool afternoon suit and a taffeta evening gown of great formality.

The latter gown, one of the most dramatic of yesterday's showing, is of pure silk in a rich, regal shade of blue raspberry. Strapless, it has a cuffed decolletage and wide flanges at either side sweep back to fall into a short train. With it is a tiny, but intricate shoulder cape, lined with deep green taffeta.

Paris Collection

In the Paris group Marcelle Chaumont's suit is especially interesting, as is a black and white dinner dress by Jacques Fath. The Chaumont suit is colorful and gay, with a typically French look. Made of lighter-than-navy wool, it has a cut-away jacket which displays to advantage a jaunty hyacinth wool blouse. Stand-out effect of the jacket over the hips is achieved by a lining of buckram.

Fath's dinner dress has huge pockets in the skirt, a detail which Miss Hayden says is repeated again and again in the Paris collections. The skirt of black faille is dramatically full-blown, and belted in patent leather. Bodice is white with tiny woven black dots. Most effective detail is the low neckline with petal-like fame which reaches upward to lend softness to the neck and face. Photograph of this dress will appear in Sunday's Washington Post. This designer is represented by yet another costume in the group, a tweed suit in which yellow, an important color for spring, is the dominant tone.

A navy wool coat by Jean Desses, with deep dolman sleeves and fitted waistline, is included, as well as a black sheer wool featuring the wide open neckline and side buttons. From the house of Jacques Griffe there is a handsome evening gown of heavy slipper satin in pale rosy pink.

Skirts in the group are about evenly divided between the full and the pencil slim. Hemlines are about an inch shorter than last year, and the uneven line, dipping either at the back or side, appears to constitute a trend.

Women Blamed By Rep. Harden For Own Plight

Speaking before members of the Phi Mu fraternity last night on "Women In Politics," Representative Cecil Harden of Indiana said, "It cannot be denied that there is prejudice in varying degrees on the part of men toward women in high positions of governmental or party authority."

But, Representative Harden believes, the prejudice is decreasing so that now the main problem is "the mental attitude of women themselves." Mrs. Harden was guest speaker at the ninety-seventh Founders' Day banquet at the Shoreham Hotel.

"Before we women start making any real progress in politics, we must somehow develop a genuine conviction of our own worth to the world. We must rid ourselves of all sensitiveness about slights, real or imaginary. And, most important of all, we must feel in our hearts that women are as competent to assess problems and meet situations as men."

Stressing the need for women to regard themselves as "people" and not as "women," Representative Harden said that "only when we do this can we clear the way for those with outstanding abilities to reach the top."

Women have only themselves to blame when they complain about the course of governmental affairs, she said. "We are merely chastising ourselves for our own refusal to take part in a Government which was established for all the people but in which we as women have failed to take our proportionate share of responsibility," she emphasized.

She advised women to start their political work in the heart of any political organization, the home neighborhood, where there is "no great glory" but "a great deal of hard work."

South Africa Seeks U. S. Aid

The Ambassador from the Union of South Africa, Harry Andrews, yesterday told members of the Congressional Club that his country welcomed the President's technical aid program.

Speaking at the club's weekly tea, he said that the Union of South Africa also would welcome investments from United States business. "We should like the United States to become investment-minded," he declared.

According to the envoy, South Africa is the most industrially advanced country in the Southern Hemisphere, rich in gold mines, diamond mines as well as other strategic resources such as asbestos, chromium, copper.

"Like the United States the Union of South Africa is an agricultural, manufacturing, mining and industrial country," he explained. "Some of its chief products are wool, hides and skin, including seal for coats."

Pointing out parallels of history and development between the United States and the Union of South Africa, Ambassador Andrews recalled that his country was discovered by Portuguese navigators about five years before Columbus discovered America.

Mrs. Millard Tydings, wife of the Maryland Senator, introduced the speaker, and Mrs. Ralph Church, club president, presided.

West Virginia, Nebraska, Georgia Plan Dances Tonight

By Nicha Soure

WITH three States planning dances tonight, the State societies cannot be accused of a midseason slump. West Virginia, Nebraska and Georgia are each beckoning their former residents to come and meet old friends at their State society get-togethers.

West Virginia's dance will be held in the new ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. Dancing will be to the tune of Dave McWilliams Orchestra from 10 p. m. to 1 p. m.

Nebraska's outstanding Cornhusker athletes of former years now residing in the National Capital area will be guests of honor tonight. The Nebraska State Society dance will be held in the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel.

Students from Georgia who are attending schools in Washington and vicinity will be the center of attraction when the Georgians meet in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel tonight.

In the grand march will be the Georgia students, each with a carnation presented by their society. Leading the march will be Miss Bobbie Wood and Midshipman William Peterson. Miss Wood, the daughter of Representative and Mrs. John S. Wood, is attending the University of Maryland. Midshipman Peterson, a nephew of former Congressman from Georgia, Hugh Peterson, is a senior at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

THE reception and dance of the Missouri Society will be held in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel at 9:30 p. m. on March 12.

Of special interest to Missourians will be the presentation of Miss Leslie Ontrich to the society as the Missouri Cherry Blossom Festival Princess.

A grand march will follow the presentation of the princess by Eric G. Jansson. During intermission, entertainment will feature "The Foggy Bottom Four," composed of Stephen Anderson, Wade Currier, Robert Meade and Edward McGandy.

THE Pennsylvania State Society has slated its regular monthly dance for Friday, March 11. Since this dance will be "Harrisburg Night," all the residents of that city are extended special invitations to attend.

Dancing to Dave McWilliams Orchestra will be in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel from 10 p. m. to 1 p. m. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Senator Francis J. Myers, Mrs. Elizabeth Sloan, Mrs. Ester Riley, Mrs. Algia A. Martin, Mrs. Ray J. Whitney, Raymond C. Smith and Thomas Davis.

For further information about the dance, call Glebe 2629 or Otis 7455.

New Decorating Service

A NEW decorating service, new model rooms, and all sorts of new furniture, carpets and draperies were introduced to the public at the opening of the Malcolm Scates store in Bethesda yesterday.

The opening, which continues through today (from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.) presents a completely remodeled and enlarged store, painted Williamsburg blue both inside and out. Clifford Powell heads the the new interior decorating department at the store. Another unique new service provides a station wagon to pick up customers at their homes and bring them to the store. Orchids flown from Hawaii are favors at the opening.

Crusty brown cakes, made with frozen fish and served with egg sauce, are a delicious but simple Lenten dish. Make them this way: Simmer 2 pounds rosefish fillets in 1½ cups of water about 10 minutes, or until tender. Drain (reserving liquid) and put fish through food chopper with 2 medium onions and 3 large boiled potatoes. Mix well.

Beat in 1 egg and salt and pepper to taste. Shape into round cakes, dust lightly with flour, and saute in hot fat until golden brown, turning once to brown both sides.

Make egg sauce by blending 3 tablespoons of flour with 3 tablespoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, and ⅛ teaspoon of pepper and gradually adding 1½ cups liquid drained from fish. Stir constantly until smooth and simmer for 5 minutes. Stir in 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons butter and 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped.

Ask Anne
About Shine Removing Liquid

I understand that, within the last few weeks, announcement has been made of a new product in liquid form designed to remove the shine on blue serge dress or suit materials. Can you let me have information regarding this? I believe this product was mentioned in one of the recent Sunday magazine sections of either a local or New York newspaper, but am unable to find it. J. G.

A department store located between 10th and 11th on F st. sells a product for this purpose in the notion department.

Could you advise me how I may remove tincture of benzoin from rayon nightgowns, one white and one light blue? A. R. V.

Sponge the stains with denatured alcohol. Dilute the alcohol one cup of alcohol to two cups of water. If the stain is stubborn and the alcohol does not affect either the color or the fabric, soak the stain in it. Rinse thoroughly.

Will you publish a recipe for caramel icing which does not curdle, harden so quickly and crack off the cake? I have tried several different recipes and this seems to happen to every one. Perhaps there is something wrong with my method. I would like to approximate the smooth, creamy, soft icing the bakeries attain. Will appreciate your help. E. R.

Caramel Icing

2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup commercially soured cream
Few grains of salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Stir cream into sugar and add salt. Place on fire and continue stirring until sugar is completely dissolved. Boil until small quantity forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water (236 degrees F. on a candy thermometer.) The soft ball stage is reached when the soft ball which has been dropped into the water will just hold its shape when removed from the water and placed on the end of the finger. Remove from the heat and cool, without stirring, to body temperature. Add vanilla and beat until smooth. If frosting stiffens while spreading, place over hot water to keep soft.

Using the commercially sour cream will prevent curdling because there is enough acid in brown sugar to sour sweet milk or cream, causing curdles. Cooling the icing before beating slows up the hardening considerably, giving you more time to spread it. It also gives a much creamier, softer product because you can beat it longer than if it were hot. Icing made this way should not be cooked as long as you cook it for candy. If you cook it just to the soft ball stage, you should not have trouble with it becoming too hard.

My husband and I have just returned from Chile, where, I dare say, we were among your most distant readers. I brought back with me from South America a number of copper pieces, and I would like to know the best way to care for them. I understand that it is not a good idea to put a lacquer on copper, and I wonder if there is a way to keep it from turning dark. And what is the best cleaning agent to use? H. H.

A firm which does lacquering tells me that it is true that on some metal from foreign countries, lacquering does not hold up well. However, since this is more often true of brass than copper, there is a good chance your pieces can be successfully lacquered. If they can be, this is the best way to keep them from darkening. If you will take them to a firm which does lacquering, they will be able to tell you how well they will lacquer when they see them. One firm doing this work can be reached by calling Metropolitan 1134. If they cannot be lacquered, there are several good metal creams and liquids on the market which would keep them shining.

Skaters to Fete Two Champions At Breakfast

Two figure skating champions, Miss Anne Davies and Carlton Hoffner, jr., will be honor guests at a testimonial breakfast tomorrow at the Congressional Country Club. The breakfast will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Bachrach, jr., and other members of the Washington Figure Skating Club.

At the figure skating championships of the world held at Paris, France, on February 16, Miss Davies and Mr. Hoffner captured third place in a field of 12 of the champions from various countries.

Miss Davies is the daughter of Mrs. Allan Pierce of this city, and Mr. Hoffner is the son of Captain and Mrs. Hoffner, USN, of Arlington. The two have skated as a pair since 1944, and in 1948 won the United States junior pairs championship. This is the first year that the International Figure Skating Association has invited national junior champions to enter the world's competitions in which no separate junior and senior categories are provided.

Congress Seen Too Busy for District Rule

The work load of members of Congress nowadays is too large for them to give sufficient attention to District affairs, such as was contemplated when Washington was founded, Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) said last night.

"If Pennsylvania and Constitution aves. are neat and attractive, they know little about the city's slums," Kefauver told a radio audience. The Tennessean, chairman of the Senate Home Rule Subcommittee, took part in the Washington Town Hall, a weekly radio forum on WOL. Last night's sponsor was the League of Women Voters. Opposing home rule was Jerome McKee, District legislative chairman of the American Legion.

Kefauver predicted that District residents, denied home rule for so many years, will give the city unusually good municipal government when they get the power. By so doing, he said, they will be in a good position to seek representation in Congress.

Kefauver said his subcommittee would "probably" report a bill "similar to the Auchincloss bill," and providing for reorganization designed to simplify as well as broad council powers.

Under home rule, he said, a fair and workable income tax could be devised and offices would no longer be filled with residents of other districts.

McKee, who opposed home rule on the ground that it permitted dual voting, said he would favor the bill if this were not allowed.

U. S. Shipping Lipstick To Europe, Russia Says

Radio Moscow's latest propaganda blast is that the United States is shipping one million food and tobacco-flavored lipsticks to western Europe under the Marshall Plan.

First news of this came in a French language broadcast from Moscow Tuesday which said the lipstick shipment would arrive in the next few weeks, and would include "fruit, tobacco and even chocolate" flavored lipsticks This was to be followed later by "enormous quantities of meat, butter and vegetable-scented lipsticks," Moscow added possibly with a smack of the lips.

FOR BEST SERVICE PLACE YOUR ADS EARLY

The steadily growing volume of classified ads in The Post, combined with the practice of many advertisers who phone late in the day, is making it difficult to devote the time and assistance to these late callers which is needed to prepare the most effective possible copy.

To assure receiving this help from your ad-taker, please try to call during the morning or early afternoon.

Price of parking

Whenever I drive into town . . . In daylight or the dark . . . I carefully select the spot Where I decide to park . . . I much prefer the public street . . . (If I can find a space) . . . To any plain or beautiful . . . Commercial parking place . . . Because in most garages and . . . Upon the average lot . . . The treatment that my car receives . . . Is not exactly hot . . . Attendants drive it recklessly . . . Their brains are very few . . . And they are not concerned about . . . The damage that they do . . . It seems to me their bosses would . . . Insist on greater care . . . But either they are unconcerned . . . Or sadly unaware.

Count the letters in your first name. Subtract four if the number is six or more. Add three if the number is less than six. Then, you have the key number. Check each key number, left to right. The letters under the checks form a message.

THE DISTRICT LINE — by Bill Gold

Yep, It Takes All Kinds To Make A World

Joseph Meyerowitz of 512 Quintana pl. nw. is our reporter for this one:

A man and a boy got on a J-6 bus. The man pulled out a thick roll of bills, got change for a dollar, and deposited 13 cents in the fare box.

"You forgot to pay for the boy," the driver reminded him.

"I never pay for the boy," snapped the passenger.

"How old is he?"

"Eight."

"Then you'll have to pay for him. The rule is that if he's over 5, we must collect a fare for him."

"That's ridiculous."

"I'm sorry—I don't make the rules."

"Well I don't give a blankety blank about your rules, I'm getting off. Gimmie back my 13 cents."

"Okay, if that's the way you want it. Sign your name and address on this card, and here's 13 cents."

With that, reports District Liner Meyerowitz, the driver handed over 13 cents. The irate passenger marked the refund form with his pencil and handed it back as the bus pulled up at the next stop.

"Hey," called out the driver. "You signed this thing with an 'X.' I'll be stuck for the 13 cents."

"Whadda I care," growled the departing Bad Humor Man. "It serves you right."

PERSONAL NOTES

David Briggs, 46 Elm ave., Takoma Park, Md.: Au contrarie, je ne parle pas francais.

OVERHEARD

"The only thing you can depend on when a woman driver has her hand out is that her car window is rolled down."

CYNIC

Herb Harris of 1121 N. Kensington st., Arlington, Va., pens a bitter thought:

"Can it be that transit radio is being installed so that the screams and moans of the maimed and dying victims of Capital Transit vehicles may be drowned out by such tunes as 'I'll Be Glad When You're Dead You Rascal You'?"

SOME VAGRANT THOUGHTS

A columnist never knows when he's going to say something that will touch off a stream of letters from his constituents . . . If he writes an item acknowledging such mail, more letters invariably arrive the morning the item is printed . . . If he waits "just one more day" to make sure all the letters are in, then he starts getting mail which begins: "I've been waiting for a dozen other people to set you straight on this point, but since nobody has, I'll do it" . . . For example:

Mrs. C. M. Bowen of 500 S. George Mason dr., Arlington, Va., says we mustn't close the nominations for the best carrier boy until the lad who serves her route is mentioned . . . And Comdr. H. R. Prince of 3631 Veazey st. nw. echoes those sentiments on behalf of Carrier Bobby Gibbs, who lives just down the street at No. 3645. Bobby not only delivers his papers promptly, but always manages to keep them dry, and see that they don't blow all over creation. But Mrs. L. S. Chambers of 5250 N. 26th st., Arlington, Va., says her service is pretty bad. Her paper is never delivered before 7:30, and by the time she's convinced it's a "no-show" (and not merely later than usual) it's too late to call our circulation department for its "guaranteed delivery service."

All finished with the invalid streetcar tokens for Children's Hospital? Along come some more from Mrs. G. L. S. of Woodstock, Va.; Blanche Berlin of 812 Randolph st. nw.; 4-year-old David Hamer of Landover Hills, Md., who is recovering from burns at Prince Georges Hospital; and some war stamps from Lois Gorton of 1725 17th st. nw.

You marvel at a fellow who works Washington Post crossword puzzles in ink, without a slip? The next day you discover that H. J. B. of 321 Massachusetts ave. ne. does the same thing and doesn't think it's unusual.

You run an item about Hume Wrong being the Canadian Ambassador and Hume Wright being the third secretary of the same Embassy? For the next few years contributors send in the same item on an average of once a week. Also the "Pat Your Hairdresser" sign, and the one at the Zoo which sternly announces that "Lost Children Will Be Taken to the Lion House."

You think you've heard the last of the jokes about movie private detectives who are forever getting beat up? Then Lloyd H. Sinson of 1516 Spring pl. nw. reminds you that in the 1100 block of U st. nw. there's a Private Eye Hospital.

So you're finished with pied type items for the week, eh? Then 11-year-old John Andrews of 2913 Glover driveway nw. points out that the name of the French Premier is spelled two different ways in one paragraph of Leonard Lyons' column. And R. J. Phelps of Martinsburg, W. Va., wonders why a Gallup Poll shows male opinions totaling 100 per cent and female opinions 105 per cent. (Is it our fault 5 per cent of the women change their minds?)

Kids who grow one upper and one lower tooth, instead of the conventional two lowers first? Mrs. Jerome Pritt of 5919 14th st. nw., cites her 8-month-old son, Neil Ira, as proof that not all of us are conformists. Army serial numbers of less than 0-1000? At least a dozen come in after the paper has gone to press.

Yep—the more it changes, the more it's the same. Except that everybody's story is just a little bit different.

For example: C. B. McDonald of 725 S. 25th st., Arlington, Va., comes up with a new slant on President Truman's off-the-cuff cuffing of Columnist Drew Pearson. Says District Liner McDonald:

"From now on, mothers probably won't say that they want their sons to grow up to be President. They'll say 'I want my son to grow up to be like Drew Pearson. It sounds more dignified.'"

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK. — Four former clerks at the United Nations Assembly were sentenced in Paris to 30 days and a fine for having stolen a fountain-pen and some bottles of nail-polish from the desk of a U. N. secretary. Their attorney obtained clemency for them by reminding the court that this theft was insignificant compared to the larceny rampant during the last meeting of the Assembly . . . "What else was stolen?" asked the judge, and the lawyer listed: "200 earphones, 3 typewriters, 15 delegates' armschairs, 100 electric light bulbs, the gloves of President Herbert Evatt, and Indonesia."

New tax-saving legislation, which may be adopted by other States, will be introduced in N. Y. by Senator Fred Moritz. It will require insurance companies to turn over to the State the money which the holders of lapsed insurance policies neglected to recover. The Stage Senate will have a committee investigating this possibility.

Orson Welles says that he has to remain in Europe because of "Kiss Me Kate." Welles complains that if Cole Porter had written such hit songs for his show, "Around the World," Welles now wouldn't have to make movies in Europe to recuperate his losses . . . CBS will have a tie-in with Hollywood's television writers.

The news accounts of the trial of Axis Sally reported her testimony that a Stars and Stripes reporter had taunted her: "We're looking forward to your hanging. It'll be a field day in Washington." The unidentified Stars and Stripes reporter was Murray Bloom, now a magazine writer. He interviewed Axis Sally in Berlin, in 1946. He had just returned from Mannheim where he found a former CCNY student, a German who had broadcast for the Nazis. . . . Axis Sally asked Bloom as an American soldier, what he thought would be done to her, and he replied: "They'll do with you what they'll do with all traitors—hang you."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Johnson Has High Qualifications

By Drew Pearson

If past experience is a criterion, no man in the United States is better qualified to be Secretary of National Defense today than the boyish, energetic, pipe-smoking lawyer from Clarksburg, W. Va., Louie Johnson.

Johnson

Johnson has spent a good part of the past 11 years dreaming of the day when he might attain this all-important post, and, based on past record, he deserves it.

A half dozen major moves inside the War Department can be chalked up to Johnson, without which many more American boys would have lost their lives. The most important of these were "educational orders" of munitions.

This was a system by which American industry received small War Department orders for tanks, machine guns, artillery, etc., for educational purposes. This gave factories a chance to get their machine tools in shape, with the idea that, following this experimentation, large-scale production could begin in a hurry—if war broke.

Johnson put this into effect as early as 1938, three years before Pearl Harbor, and at a time when our steel moguls were sitting in Europe working out a world steel cartel with the Nazis.

Department Feud

He also put it into effect despite the fact that his chief, Secretary of War Woodring, was opposed to war preparation and did not believe war was imminent.

Johnson's farsightedness, however, enabled the United States to mobilize industry in almost record time and to bear the brunt of supplying the allied armies.

Johnson's other major achievements as Assistant Secretary of War were pushing airplane production for the French and British long before Pearl Harbor, when Congress was opposed to supplying planes to the Allies; urging and pioneering the Alaskan Highway as early as 1938 long before anyone ever dreamed Alaska would have to be fortified; urging increased electric power for war centers, and developing close economic and military ties with Latin America.

During the period he accomplished these things, Johnson was in a constant feud with his Secretary of War, Harry Woodring.

Woodring, one of the most likable men who ever came out of Kansas to Washington, inherited the important post by accident—upon the death of George Dern. Something of an isolationist, he was not enthusiastic about a big national defense program. Johnson was.

Therefore, all Johnson's work had to be done either on the side or by going over the head of his chief. Some Army officers, taking advantage of this, played Woodring off against Johnson and vice versa, until it was a miracle that the Army, by the time of Pearl Harbor, was as well prepared as it was.

Small-Town Lawyer

Like a lot of things in life, Johnson's entry into politics was sheer coincidence. Graduated in law from the University of Virginia, he decided to practice in a town in which he was a stranger, and went to Clarksburg, W. Va., in 1912. At the time of his arrival, a local sheriff had been arrested for embezzlement, and a lawyer was needed as prosecutor.

Johnson took the job, fought the case up to the Supreme Court, and, as a result of the publicity, ran for mayor of Clarksburg. This was just two years after coming to live in West Virginia. Johnson lost the race by about 50 votes, but shortly thereafter was elected to the State Legislature and became Democratic leader of the House.

The first World War came. Johnson was mustered out as a captain of the Eighteenth Infantry Division, and on the day he retired he had the nerve to write a letter to the Chief of Staff telling him how to reform the Army. He will now have a chance to carry out those ideas.

Too Trusting

Louie Johnson is a queer mixture of conservatism and liberalism. Since leaving the Government his contacts have been chiefly with big business. His clients have been some of the biggest firms in the country. Yet when Johnson went to India as special representative of President Roosevelt he sided with the Indian independence movement and became the great friend of Pandit Nehru and Mahatma Gandhi.

Big, genial, quiet-spoken Johnson works long, late hours, dashes around the country on speaking engagements; and while Assistant Secretary of War he delivered 175 speeches in two years, flying 100,000 miles to make them. Since leaving the Government, he has followed a regular routine of spending weekends in Clarksburg, W. Va., the early part of the week in Washington, D. C., and the middle of the week in New York.

Probably Johnson's biggest handicap is his naive trust in people—sometimes in people who have double-crossed him. He is inclined to believe that everyone is his friend—although a lot of them aren't.

Johnson is one of the few War Department executives who hasn't been afraid to put the brass in their place. Most civilian Secretaries of War lean so heavily on the top brass that the constitutional concept of civilian control over the Army is voided. Johnson, however, not only knows the military establishment from A to Z, but isn't afraid to tell the brass where to get off.

Would Side With Russia

Manila, March 4 (AP).—Philippines Communists would fight their own government if it became involved in a war with Russia, Secretary General Mariano P. Balgos declared last night.

600,000 Chileans to Vote

Santiago, Chile, March 4 (U.P.).—Nearly 600,000 voters will go to the polls Sunday to elect the 147 members of the House of Representatives and 20 out of 45 Senators. Only non-Communist males over 21 are eligible to vote.

Edwards Grateful For Indorsement In Virginia Race

Richmond, Va., March 4 (AP).—Horace H. Edwards, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, expressed his gratitude today for the indosement of State Senator Charles T. Moses of Appomattox.

"Senator Moses has long been a champion of all that is good in State and local gvernment, especially in the field f public education," said Edwards, one of five candidates seeking the Democratic nomination in the August primary.

Moses indorsed Edwards in an address at Buckingham Courthouse last night. The Senator also told the meeting of Buckingham and Cumberland citizens that he stood behind the sales tax issue and "will stand behind the 500,000 school children of the State rather than politics."

Edwards said he shared Senator Moses' views wholeheartedly and was "deeply grateful for his support."

Airlift Plane Crashes, Crew's Fate Unknown

Berlin, March 4 (AP).—A U. S. Skymaster airlift plane crashed and burned in the Soviet zone of Germany tonight and the fate of its three-man crew was a mystery.

Capt. P. F. Patch, pilot of the following plane on the Wiesbaden-Berlin run, said he saw no parachutes. Earlier reports said three men were seen to bail out.
